Faculty Meeting Held Saturday at Southern Oregon

Ashland - Brief addresses of welcome by President Elmo N. Stevenson and Robert Mead, student body president, were extended to 15 new teachers, including three added by Dr. Bill Sampson, chairing during the morning session of an all-day faculty meeting on the Southern Oregon college campus Saturday.

Changes in the teacher education programs were explained by Dr. Hill Sampson, chairman of the education division, who also discussed the 1959 summer session and gave a preview of the 1960 session in terms of personnel and enrollment policies for meeting the needs of the students.

Dr. Arthur Kreisman, recently appointed director of general studies, presented a number of the plans for the general studies program in the future. He said that personal contact between himself and each general studies major would be one of the most immediate goals. Necessary areas in curricular adjustments and additions were projected in terms of direction into, and the retention of, desirable students in the program. He stressed the need for coordination and cooperation between faculty, administration, and students to assure the success of the program.

Requirements for admission require men t s and procedures were discussed by Dr. Loren Messenger, professor of psychology; Mrs. Mabel W. Winston, dean of women and registrar; and Dr. Alvin Fellers, director of student activities. Research reports, both institutional and individual were presented by Dr. Eugene Bowman, college coordinator of research, explanation of the program; Gaylord Smith, Ashland school system administrator, who commented on the work of Ben Kilpack, SOC student, with juvenile boys in Ashland; Dr. Kreisman, results of the 1957-1959 curriculum study in block teaching; Dr. Richard Byrns, progress report on the independent study project; and Chester Squire, adequacy of elementary teacher program at SOC.

Other research projects were explained by Dr. Lloyd Pennington, James R. Dawson; Dr. Marvin Coffey, Dr. Frank Sturges, Dr. Frank Haines, and Jack Kelly. Afternoon sessions began with a faculty welfare hour during which representatives from various group health insurance companies explained their respective plans.

Dr. Harold Cloer, director of guidance, and Martin Elle, psychology staff member, instructed faculty advisers upon counseling procedures and techniques, and Leon C. Mulling, director of the speech and hearing center, addressed the group on the subject, "Self-rating Procedures."

Mulling was followed by Dr. Kreisman on "The Faculty Seminar Series"; Tony Shively, reference librarian, "Literature in the Field"; Dr. Irene Hollenbeck, associate professor of science, and Marion Ady, chairman of the art department, "Use of Audio-visual Aids, Television, and Black and Whiteboards"; and Dr. Kreisman and Dr. Messenger, "The Raw Materials - Our Students."

Terminating the afternoon's activities was a general discussion involving "good of the order" items including the Ashland-Talent United Fund contribution; professional organizations; and a committee and adviser assignments. Faculty members and their wives attended a dessert in the Britt Student Center at 7:30 p.m. to complete the day's agenda.

Divisional and departmental meetings were conducted Saturday morning in regard to out-of-state travel; equipment needs; personnel needs; departmental contributions to college goals; an individual ten-year program; and general departmental business.

State Police Investigate Four Week End Accidents

State police today reported four non-injury accidents Saturday and Sunday on Jackson county highways.

Cars driven by Weldon Zundel, 63, of 3238 Jacksonville highway, and Marvin Richard DeSpain, 24, of 3491 Jacksonville highway, collided in front of the B and B auction yard near Oak Grove rd. Saturday, about 2:20 p.m., police said.

The Zundel car was making a left turn into a private driveway when a car driven by DeSpain grazed his car. State police said they would file a complaint against Zundel in district court charging him with failure to drive on the right side of the highway.

A rear-end collision occurred on the South Pacific highway, just south of Ashland Saturday night, state police reported. A car driven by Franklin Stanley, 18, of 909 Beatty st., Medford, had stopped behind a line of cars as the car in the lead was making a left turn. A car driven by Monte Lee Marts, 19, of Klamath Falls, collided with the rear end of the Stanley car. Minor damage resulted, state police said. Officers said a complaint charging violation of basic rule would be filed against Marts.

Betty Joan Metcalf, 17, of 1556 Stewart ave., escaped injury Sunday afternoon when her car spun out of control on the wet pavement on Stewart ave. at the Grape st. intersection and went into the ditch on the south side of Stewart ave. Miss Metcalf was taken to Rogue Valley hospital and later released, state police said. No report was available on the car damage.

Another accident occurred Sunday afternoon when a station wagon, driven by Clarence Leroy Chew, 48, of Camp U-Rest, was signalling for a left turn on the Jacksonville highway, a quarter mile west of Oak Grove school. Brakes failed on a car driven by Henry Zimmerman, 17, of 143 Vashti Way, Medford, and his car hit the right rear corner of the Chew vehicle. Considerable damage resulted to the rear of the Chew vehicle and to the front end of the Zimmerman car, state police said. No injuries nor citations were reported, state police said.

Other Reports

Mulling was followed by Dr. Kreisman on "The Faculty Seminar Series"; Tony Shively, reference librarian, "Literature in the Field"; Dr. Irene Hollenbeck, associate professor of science, and Marion Ady, chairman of the art department, "Use of Audio-visual Aids, Television, and Black and Whiteboards"; and Dr. Kreisman and Dr. Messenger, "The Raw Materials - Our Students."

What Is The Law?

This column is prepared as a public service by the College of Law, Willamette University, Salem, to provide legal advice. The reader is cautioned not to apply these cases to his own problems without an attorney's advice, for differing facts may change the outcome.

Double Jeopardy

A petitioner was tried and acquitted in a Federal Court for violation of a Federal Statute which makes it a crime to rob a federally insured bank. Later, on substantially the same evidence, he was tried and convicted for the same criminal act in an Illinois State Court for violation of an Illinois robbery statute. On review before the United States Supreme Court, petitioner contended that the Illinois prosecution and conviction, after a prior acquittal for a federal offense, violated his right under the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment in that it placed petitioner twice in jeopardy for the same offense.

Conviction Affirmed

The Supreme Court affirmed the conviction holding that the case did not involve double jeopardy under the Constitution. The Court reaffirmed prior decisions, ruling that the double jeopardy clause in the Fifth Amendment is binding on the Federal

al Government only and does not apply to the states. By the same token the court ruled that the "due process" clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, which provides that no state may deprive a man of "life, liberty, or property without due process of law," does not incorporate the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against double jeopardy.

Under the present view of the Amendments, a criminal act that violates both federal and state statutes can be penalized in both court systems without being considered double jeopardy within either system. Thus the Fifth Amendment bars the federal government from prosecuting a person a second time for the same act, but it does not preclude a federal prosecution of an individual who has been tried for the same act in a state court. Likewise, a state may prosecute an individual following either a conviction or acquittal in a federal prosecution involving the same criminal act.

State Not Barred

In applying the rule that "due process" under the Fourteenth Amendment does not embrace the double jeopardy clause of the Fifth Amendment, it has been held that the "due process" clause did not bar the state of Louisiana from executing a person after an accidental failure in equipment had rendered a previous attempt at electrocution ineffectual. The Court has also upheld a state statute which permitted an appeal by the State in criminal cases, which could lead to a new trial and possible conviction in the event the appeal should prove successful.

It is thus apparent that under certain circumstances a person may be put on trial twice for the same act without violating the United States Constitution.

Exam for Military Academies Set

The civil service commission written examination for young men interested in attending one of the military academies will be held in several Fourth district cities on Saturday, Nov. 7, according to Congressman Charles O. Porter.

Porter has encouraged young men interested in taking the examination to contact his office not later than Oct. 3. Porter must send each candidate a letter of authorization to take this test and also a preliminary physical examination.

Service academy age limits are established by law. Candidates must be between the ages of 17 and 22. A candidate who took the test in July may take it again in November.

Porter will name one principal and 10 alternate candidates for the Air Force academy, one principal and four alternate candidates for the Naval academy, one principal and three alternates for West Point, and he can nominate candidates for the Merchant Marine academy. Coast Guard academy appointments are not made by members of Congress.

Under civil service commission regulations the written examination is for men who wish to be considered for appointment to the academies. The Fourth district representative has an academy selection committee, headed by Dr. Robert D. Clark, dean of the college of liberal arts, University of Oregon. Its members meet in Eugene to interview prospective candidates after results of the written and physical examinations are known.

Tests will be held in Albany, Ashland, Coos Bay, Eugene, Gold Beach, Grants Pass, Medford, Reedsport and Roseburg.
