

Conservatives Hammer Angle Of Summit Talks

London—UPI—The Conservative party hammered at the summit meeting issue today in an attempt to flatten the booming Labor party bid to return to power in the Oct. 8 general elections.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan all but told the voters it would be suicidal to send anyone but himself to meet with President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev at the summit. Congratulations Sent

The prime minister Monday night sent messages of congratulations to Khrushchev and Eisenhower on their joint communique regarding the week end talks at Camp David, Md. He told them that he hoped to meet them soon—obviously at the summit.

And in the speech in West London Monday night, Macmillan took some of the credit for arranging the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange visits. "Do you think Mr. Khrushchev and President Eisenhower would have been promoting and discussing together at Camp David if I had not decided to break the ice and go to Moscow?" he asked a Conservative rally.

Proud of Help

"We are on our way to the summit. I am proud that Britain has helped to clear the way."

Leaders of the Labor party, which has shown a steady gain in popularity in newspaper-sponsored public opinion polls, did not neglect the summit issue but they continued to attract huge crowds throughout Britain by concentrating on domestic issues.

Sonic Booms Blamed For Noise in Portland

Portland—UPI—A series of loud booms over the Portland metropolitan area Monday night were thought to be sonic booms.

However, Portland Air Base said none of its planes were flying at the time, about 10:23 p.m. Many residents in an area from Oregon City to Vancouver, Wash., reported windows and dishes rattling. No injuries or damage were reported.

As late as 1880, about two-thirds of America's homes were still heated by wood.

NATO Allies Invited for Briefing on Conferences

Washington — (UPI) — Representatives of the 15 NATO allies were invited to the State Department today for a briefing on President Eisenhower's talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Livingston T. Merchant, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and Foy D. Kohler, the deputy assistant secretary, were to fill in the foreign diplomats on the discussions at Camp David, Md.

In Line With Promise The consultation was in line with Eisenhower's promise to keep America's allies fully informed of conversations with the Russians on Berlin, disarmament and other international issues.

Secretary of State Christian Herter gave similar information Monday to representatives of the SEATO pact nations. However, it was reported that Eisenhower and Khrushchev touched only briefly on Far Eastern matters.

The briefings of Allied diplomats were viewed as a necessary prelude to substantive negotiations on the Berlin problem and a probable Big Four summit meeting this winter before Eisenhower visits Russia in the spring.

No Agreement Informed sources said that Eisenhower and Khrushchev reached no agreement during their week end talks on where the Berlin negotiations should start, or when or at what diplomatic level.

Endless Rows of Wood Coffins Hold Japan Storm Victims

Nagoya, Japan—UPI—Endless rows of wooden coffins and sodden straw mats for the dying. Stricken peasants moving past in never-ending search for their families in this twice dead city.

The story of typhoon Vera, most destructive storm to hit Japan in centuries, could be outlined in statistics: 1,799 dead, 1,953 missing, 8,073 injured, 970,000 homeless.

Horror in Faces But its horror lay in the faces of the people, their struggle for food and water, the dysentery which ravaged their bodies, the glazed look on their faces as they searched the rubble for those who were lost.

It lay in the face of an old woman dressed in threadbare kimono, her lips pressed tightly against toothless gums, watching intently as the lid of a coffin-like box was raised.

She steered herself and then peered within. Wordlessly and with a slight shake of head she moved on to the next box and the next and the next.

Not Enough Boxes There were not even enough of the wooden boxes to hold the bodies in this city which suffered more than 1,000 dead. Some of the bodies lay on straw tatami mats, their faces covered with scraps of cloth.

Long lines of survivors trudged past these boxes through the day, wondering when help would arrive from Tokyo. But communications were smashed by the fury of a storm that set off landslides and floods.

The wooden boxes themselves were hurriedly built for the gruesome chore of identification. The head end of each was hinged so it could be quickly opened and closed.

Feeding Flames Humphrey, a leading contender for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination, said the administration's action in threatening to invoke the Taft-Hartley act is "feeding the flames of inflation."

The administration, Humphrey said, has not protected "the reasonable requests" of the strikers and, moreover, has failed to crack down on the "rampant profiteering" of the companies.

Steel companies have "refused to curb their insatiable appetite for higher prices and ever soaring profits," Humphrey charged.

Linfield College Loan Gets Approval Salem — (UPI) — The Community Facilities Administration informed Rep. Walter Norblad (R-Ore.) today it had approved a loan of $825,000 to Linfield College at McMinnville.

The money will be used towards construction of a campus cafeteria and two student dormitories.

Hancock was released on $1,000 bail.

He was arrested last Friday by Jackson county sheriff's deputies and Livestock Brand Inspector Rex Woodward in connection with the attempted sale at Midway Auction yard of three Holstein heifers belonging to James Alvin Carlson, route 3, box 76, Medford.

There were 198,208 male prisoners and 7435 female prisoners confined in state and Federal prison and reformatories at the end of 1958.
