

Truman Sees United Support for President in Dealing With Russia

Despite the experience and rebuffs we have had in our past efforts to get the Soviet Union to cooperate, our people would give united support to the President in dealing with any constructive proposals by Moscow.

I still do not think it advisable for the President to go to Moscow. Long before the Vice President went there, I favored and suggested that Khrushchev be invited to this country. I did this because I believed he ought to learn first-hand from the President in the White House where we stood, as a united people, on the issues which divide us from the Kremlin. I thought it was about time that the head of the Soviet Union should call on the President here, since three Presidents had traveled overseas to meet with the leaders of the Soviet Union.

Deeper Implication
But there is a deeper implication to consider in the President's visit to Moscow. Let us forget, we are dealing with a ruthless dictatorship which has imposed its will over millions of people. Need we be reminded again of the fate of the people of Poland and Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria, where Stalin had agreed with Churchill and Attlee and me to hold free elections? There are other Communist-subjugated peoples in Europe and elsewhere. What about these people? Until Khrushchev shows some kind of good faith in repudiating Stalinism by living up to the agreements made with us at Yalta and Potsdam, I would hope that a President of the United States would not lend himself and the prestige of his office to the appearance of supporting the Kremlin policy by going personally to Moscow.

I think it was all right for the Vice President to go, and I think there should be no hesitancy in sending any other high-ranking representative of the President to keep discussions and negotiations going, in concert with our allies.

As long as we are alert, the longer we talk, the better our chances will be of avoiding a third world war. And the chances are of not rushing into ill-considered compromises or sacrificing the rights of other people.

Time With Free People
Time is on our side if we know what we are doing and where we are going. Time is always on the side of free people. No government of the United States has ever refused or will ever refuse to discuss the issues confronting the world with any power, large or small. We believe in justice and freedom and a good life for everyone and no interference in the internal affairs of anyone. We do not seek to impose our way of life or system of government on any nation, and Russia is welcome to her communism.

We fear no competition from her politically, industrially or economically. But we will resist all attempts at subversion, direct or indirect. Whatever claims Chairman Khrushchev made to his American audiences about people choosing communism and having political freedom to do so, the undeniable fact remains that no nation has ever adopted communism voluntarily. And no Communist-imposed government has ever dared to face a free election where the people had a fair choice of government.

Hopes Talks Useful
I hope that the private talks between President Eisenhower and Chairman Khrushchev at Camp David were useful. Time will tell. On the surface, some of our people seem to have impressed Khrushchev, and Khrushchev seems to have impressed some of our people.

It is interesting to note that Khrushchev seemed to be more comfortable with our big businessmen and our financiers than he was with our top leaders. Many of our labor leaders have been to Russia and were unjustly accused of being soft on communism. But it turns out that most of these labor leaders saw enough for themselves to realize that Russian communism was no good for free labor, either economically or politically.

Khrushchev has proved himself to be a very expert propagandist and dynamic advocate of his ideology. But his arrogant nonsense, when referring to this country as a pure capitalist society, in that Marxian jargon of his, may confuse for a time some of the underdeveloped countries of the world. But it really should fool no one. As a matter of fact, Russia is the capitalist nation—with a small, all-powerful clique in control of all the wealth and resources. The Communists say the people own everything—but in reality they own nothing and live under state capitalism with no competition, and no accounting from their bosses.

Ours is, in all essential respects, a free competitive enterprise society, the basis of which is the freedom and the supremacy of the individual.

Chairman Khrushchev made the most of his opportunities and access to our radio, television and press to expound his Communist views to the American people. He took considerable license with the facts.

Exchange Student Gets Y Membership

Reinhart Kostlin, American Field Service exchange student from Germany, has recently joined the Medford YMCA, according to Robert L. Jones, general secretary.

Jones said that the cost of the membership was absorbed by the local YMCA branch in order to further their "building for brotherhood" program. So Reinhart may use the plant facilities and enable him to meet his friends, was the chief aim of the gift.

Reinhart is residing with the P. G. Humphries family, Ross lane, and is attending Medford High school.

OILER UNDER REPAIR

Norfolk, Va.—(UPI)—The stricken oiler, Paucatauck, part of the Atlantic fleet stationed here, was under repair today following a collision Sunday with the carrier Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The two vessels collided during a refueling operation some 300 miles east of here. Damage to both vessels was slight.

Hannah Heading Across Atlantic

Washington—(UPI)—Hurricane Hannah swirled eastward across the Atlantic today, its 105-miles an hour winds no longer a threat to the United States but still a menace to shipping.

The Weather Bureau warned all ships in the path of the tropical storm to "exercise extreme caution."

luggage compartment
New convenience has been built into Chevy's extra-roomy luggage compartment by lowering the loading height. You'll find space enough for a vacation-size luggage load under that sleek rear deck.

NEW spaciousness inside
Inside the Body by Fisher you'll find room and more room. There's room to sprawl in, room to sit tall in—and the roofline has a respect for hats. A new flatter transmission tunnel is a boon to the "middle man." Here is the kind of space that invites the family.

V8 POWER

Under the hood thrifit is accentuated in a new standard V8, engineered to deliver up to 10% more miles for every gallon while giving you more zest at normal speeds. Or you might choose its strapping teammate—Chevy's Hi-Thrift 6—the engine that starts saving the moment you flip the ignition switch. Its precision carburetion and automatic choke will show you new heights in performance and new lows in cost.

NEW QUIET AND COMFORT
Thicker, newly designed body mounts insulate you from road shock and noise, insuring an almost cocoon-like quiet. Full Coil spring suspension melts bumps as no other suspension system can. Oil hushed hydraulic valve-lifters reduce engine noise to a whisper, adding still more to your sense of well being in the 1960 Chevy.

!NEW!
refinements for the driver

Everybody will want to be the driver when he sees the kind of pleasure a turn at the wheel brings. The driver finds Chevy has further cushioned him from engine impulses by an improved clutch linkage system. He'll also find that superior weight distribution lends stability in handling and stopping.

There's a convenient new parking brake that automatically returns to its normal height after application. And Chevy provides a choice of 24 engine-transmission hookups to meet the requirements of the most discriminating driver.
