Women of Rotary To Open Season
The first fall meeting of Women of Rotary will be held at the home of Mrs. Jorgen Jorgensen, 1913 Hillcrest road, Wednesday, October 14. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock and members are to bring their own table service.
Bridge and canasta will follow a short business meeting. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Jorgensen, SPring 2-7475.

Community Day Date Announced
Board members of the Medford Council of United Church Women met at Central Point Presbyterian church last Monday afternoon to plan the annual World Community Day program. It will be held in First Christian church, Medford, Friday, November 6. Mrs. L. B. Pierce is chairman.
Theme for the program will be "Full Partnership for Peace." The morning will open with a brief business session at 11:30 o'clock and a covered dish luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. Grover Corum will speak on "Refugee Year" during the luncheon.
Mrs. O. S. Acker, Aberdeen, Wash., will be the afternoon speaker. She will also show slides pertaining to the day's theme.
The call this year is for children's clothing and layettes for relief work in both home and foreign fields. Shoes of B width and low heels for women are also requested, it is stated.
Following the business period, Mrs. William Ricken was honored with a shower of gifts by those present. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Thursdays the Spanish class meets at 9 a.m., taught by Michael Dillon. The orchestra practice sessions start at 10 a.m. under the direction of Edward Root.
Shuffleboard games are played each Saturday morning, directed by William Jones.
Teachers are needed for copper tooling, cake decoration and for a choral and dramatic groups, Mrs. Rankin said.
Hostesses for the morning hours are also needed.
The Senior Center will celebrate its first anniversary October 15. It was opened for the purpose of providing a center for leisure time activities, hobbies, classes, discussion groups for retired men and women more than 50 years old.
Five Days a Week
The Center has been open five days a week, three afternoons and two mornings for a year, entirely by volunteers with an attendance of nearly 200 persons each month.
The program of activities has been evaluated by the committee in charge every ten weeks and new activities added as requested. No charges are made for membership, no fees for teachers or staff are given, so it has depended entirely upon volunteers to keep it going.
The Center is equipped through donated furniture and recreation materials, a well stocked library of books, magazines, and records, piano and phonograph.
The Rogue Valley Council on Aging sponsors the Center and a committee is in charge of the activity.
The city of Medford heats and lights the building given to the council for this use.

Griffin Creek Mothers Club Affiliates With Oregon PTA
Members of Griffin Creek Mothers club voted Wednesday, October 8, to join the Parent-Teacher association, and a charter for the new organization will be presented at the next meeting.
The vote to change the club followed a panel discussion on PTA by Mrs. Leigh Gustison, president of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. William Seibert, president of the Medford PTA council; and Mrs. Emerson Anderson, president of the county council.
Officers introduced by the president, Mrs. Delmar McKee, at the meeting in the school cafeteria were Mrs. J. M. Tucker, vice president; Mrs. Max Priebe, secretary; and Mrs. Walter Roemer, treasurer.
The regular meeting night of the group has been changed to the first Thursday of each month to avoid conflicts with mid-week church meetings.

Garden Club to Meet October 16
Gold Hill - The Gold Hill Garden club will meet Friday, October 16, at the home of Mrs. Loyd Dusenberry in Sams Valley. A potluck luncheon will be held at noon, followed by the business session and program.
Winter bouquets will be the topic of the program. All members are to bring dried materials suitable for making winter arrangements.
Mrs. George Smith was hostess for the September meeting at her home on Sardine creek road. Mrs. Gervas H. Southall was elected president of the Garden club replacing Mrs. Ernest Gregory who resigned prior to moving to California. Mrs. Dusenberry was appointed to serve as chaplain.
The lesson for the last meeting was making flower arrangements for criticism. The women picked flowers for the garden at Mrs. Smith's home.

Temperance Union To Hear Talk By Mrs. Grover Corum
Mrs. Robert Bridge will present the devotional program at a meeting of Women's Christian Temperance Union Thursday, October 15, in Girls Community club. The program opens at 2 o'clock and an invitation is given to all interested to attend.
Mrs. G. O. Sanden, president, will preside during the business meeting.
The program will include two vocal numbers by Mrs. A. C. Pierce, accompanied by Mrs. O. C. Failing. Mrs. Grover Corum will speak on the topic "Refugee Year."
Refreshments will be served at the close of the afternoon's activities.
Wednesday, October 14, the day preceding the meeting date, members of the WCTU will hold a rummage sale in the Eagle's hall, it is announced.

Elliotts To Show Pictures

Pictures of Iraq will be shown at the Monday program for the Arm Chair Travel group at the senior activity center starting at 1 p.m., according to Dr. Frank Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. Bert Elliot, who spent some time in that country, are the guest speakers and will show their colored pictures.
Last Monday Robert Heffernan showed colored slides of Hong Kong and islands in the China sea. They included views of the refugee camps and the life on the water-fronts of the thousands of fishermen who live all their lives in boats. Mr. Heffernan will show slides taken in Europe at a later date. Any resident who has traveled and is willing to share their pictures with others is asked to contact Dr. Frank Roberts, SPring 2-2874.
Volunteers
Other activities at the center also depend on the cooperation of people who are willing to teach or lead classes.
The art class which has been meeting each Tuesday afternoon since the center opened last October is without a teacher and will not be in session until one is located.
Miss Margaret Ossenbruge, Mrs. Nettie Williams, and Mrs. Ruby Twedell have been volunteer teachers and are unavailable this fall. Anyone qualified and willing to teach is asked to call Mrs. Fred Rankin, SPring 2-8448, or the Senior Center, SPring 2-4163.
Wednesday, October 14, Mrs. Ethel Byers will conduct a class in ceramics at 1 p.m. The class may be entered at any time.

The Senior Center will celebrate its first anniversary October 15. It was opened for the purpose of providing a center for leisure time activities, hobbies, classes, discussion groups for retired men and women more than 50 years old.
Five Days a Week
The Center has been open five days a week, three afternoons and two mornings for a year, entirely by volunteers with an attendance of nearly 200 persons each month.
The program of activities has been evaluated by the committee in charge every ten weeks and new activities added as requested. No charges are made for membership, no fees for teachers or staff are given, so it has depended entirely upon volunteers to keep it going.
The Center is equipped through donated furniture and recreation materials, a well stocked library of books, magazines, and records, piano and phonograph.
The Rogue Valley Council on Aging sponsors the Center and a committee is in charge of the activity.
The city of Medford heats and lights the building given to the council for this use.

Thursdays the Spanish class meets at 9 a.m., taught by Michael Dillon. The orchestra practice sessions start at 10 a.m. under the direction of Edward Root.
Shuffleboard games are played each Saturday morning, directed by William Jones.
Teachers are needed for copper tooling, cake decoration and for a choral and dramatic groups, Mrs. Rankin said.
Hostesses for the morning hours are also needed.
