

NEW YORKER—The new Chrysler four-door hardtop offers more headroom and legroom. Its styling is in the tradition of the Chrysler 300, with air-scoop front grille and a minimum of ornamentation. Chrysler New Yorker sedans feature all wool-cloth interiors. The car is now on display at Hamlin Motor company, Eighth and Front sts., Medford.

Ashland Writer To Teach Course

Ashland—Special class sessions in creative writing will be conducted by the well-known Ashland author, W. Verne Athanas, as part of the general extension program. Beginning on Tuesday, Oct. 20, between 7 and 9:45 p.m., Athanas will instruct W-218, creative writing in room 251 at Medford High school. The class will offer three hours of college credit and will be styled to meet the individual needs of the students.

Registration will take place at the first class meeting or due to the limitation of only 20 students, preregistration may be made at the general extension division office at Southern Oregon college. The fee is $31.50.

Prominent in the field of writing, Athanas has written such novels as "The Proud Ones," "Rogue Valley," and "Maverick." His publications include some 100 short stories, novelettes, and series appear-novelettes, and serials appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Redbook, Esquire, Country Gentleman, Bluebook and Argosy.

A number of his works have been adapted for television, movies, and anthologies published both here and abroad.

Wall Street Chatter

New York—[UPI]—Just how deeply the steel strike and tight money have hurt the economy won't be known until business has returned to an "ex-steel strike" basis, says Business Reports Inc.

If it develops that business has been basically hurt, the firm points out in its market letter, then "we may well see a substantial decline in money rates" in the months ahead. One weight seems to have been lifted from the stock market, however, the firm notes. "Dictator Khrushchev has come and gone and we now realize what should have been apparent before—there is not likely to be any nearby easing in the cold war."

W. E. Hutton & Co. notes the public seems to increase its confidence in American Motors even as the competition introduces the new "compact" cars, "which is in line with predictions."

Steel Magazine says General Motors and Ford's medium-priced compact models reportedly will be introduced in the springtime.

Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. considers shares of New England electric system an "attractive income situation." The company currently is yielding 5.2 per cent on an indicated $1.08 annual dividend.

SNUFF SAID
Northampton, England—[UPI]—Justice Wintringham N. Stable called a short recess in a trial Thursday because "I carry a box of snuff in my pocket and unfortunately the lid has come off and it is all over my pocket. I want to collect it up."
