

Girl Scouting in Area Serves Girls Through Age 17

Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles in which agencies of the United Medford Crusade are discussed. Today's article discusses the Girl Scout program in this area.

The Rogue Valley Girl Scout Council, one of the organizations benefiting from the United Medford Crusade, always welcomes new Scouts and leaders to its ranks.

Girl Scouting serves girls from the ages of seven through 17 with a program divided into three age groups. Brownie Scouts are seven to 10 years of age, Intermediate Scouts from 10 to 14, and Seniors from 14 through 17. This division offers the best in activity and service for each age group, with programs geared to fit interest and needs.

The Brownie Scout program is centered about teaching girls to enjoy activities they plan and carry out themselves. The early phase of Scouting teaches girls that the pleasure of doing is the reward of doing.

This fall Brownie Revel, a day of fun and activity for Brownies from all over the area, will help the younger girls become better acquainted with Scouting activities. As throughout the world, the program for Brownies in our area is basically concerned with selfless service to home and family.

Added Incentive
Intermediate Scouts continue in the self-planning and production of activities, with the added incentive of the Girl Scout proficiency badges. The proficiency badges are symbols of jobs well done, given in fields from "outdoor ckers" to "group musician." The knowledge of a badge as a symbol is always retained, the activity being stressed as the important aspect of Scouting.

A charm school to be held for girls from the sixth through the eighth grades, will encourage Intermediate Scouts of the area to be more careful of their personal appearance, their health, and to become more graceful on all occasions. During the course of the charm school, the girls will work toward proficiency in hosting and other womanly arts for which they may earn badges.

Senior Scouting in the Council is primarily concerned with service to the Scout and the community. While offering aid to the business and public service people in the town, the teenage Scout has opportunities to pursue vocational fields of her choice.

In aiding younger Scouts, giving time in business offices, volunteering work in hospitals, learning about Civil Defense and preparing themselves in first aid, Scouts are widening their horizons and serving their communities.

1,500 Cattle Are Expected at Sale

Approximately 1,500 head of cattle are expected for consignment at the annual Jackson County Feeder sale Tuesday at the Midway auction yard, according to Bill Bray, auction yard owner and auctioneer.

This is not as large a sale as last year's when 1,853 animals were sold, he noted. Many of the Rogue valley cattle are already sold and a number of cattlemen are holding for better prices, Bray said. Cattle coming out of the feedlots now are selling for 3 cents lower than 30 days ago, he noted.

However, the valley's beef animals are of "real good quality," Bray said. Unlike many other areas this was a good feed year for Rogue valley cattle, Bray explained.

The prolonged dry spell over much of the country and particularly in California has influenced the cattle demand. Early rains in California, where many of the feeder sale buyers come from, came too early to do the ranges much good there, Bray noted. They are now dry again.

Bray asked all consignors to at least call the yards and tell how many head they are bringing in since all cattle will have to be sorted Monday. Deadline for sale entrants is 11 a.m. Tuesday.

During the five years of the feeder sale demand has been built up for valley cattle, Bray noted. Six hundred cattle were sold the first year.

Guillaume Couture, first settler on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, arrived at Lauzon, Quebec, in 1647.
