

Youth Spends Past Summer Traveling Throughout U. S.

Charley Goodman, 20, who spent the summer traveling throughout the United States, is expected home soon to visit his family on Griffin Creek rd.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted J. Goodman. Two sisters, Theodora and Sally, also are at home and an older brother, Jesse Lynn, is in the Navy.

Charley, a graduate of Medford High school and former Oregon State college student, left home last April to look for work in California. He wrote his family May 6 and did not contact them again until he sent a wire last week. He had visited 32 states since leaving California July 23 with a bed roll and $250.

He sent his worried parents the wire after fellow workers in Sacramento told him that they had seen his published picture and read that his family was seeking his whereabouts.

His father, who is in charge of maintenance for Western Union in Klamath Falls, already had received several telegrams from other persons indicating that Charley was all right. One was from a woman in Salinas, Calif., who had met him on a guided tour of New York City.

Mrs. Goodman said that they had also received a letter earlier from a woman in Omaha, Neb., who said she had met Charley in New York.

Because of his apprehension, Charley's father traveled to Sacramento to see for himself how his son was faring, and found Charley employed in a peach cannery. Charley was surprised that the family had been worried. The woman in Nebraska told the Goodmans that Charley plans to return to school, but the family will be happy just to see him return home.

Members Return From Conference

Members of the wards in the Klamath stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints returned last week from general conference of the church held in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Attending the general conference and the Relief Society conference held prior to it were the nine members of the Klamath Stake board of the Relief society.

They included Mrs. Collins Hassell, Ashland, president; Mrs. Forrest Winkfield, Medford, first counselor, and Mrs. Herald J. Cluff, Ashland, second counselor; Mrs. Norma Wilford, Ashland, ward secretary; and board members, Mrs. William Ferris, Medford; Mrs. William L. Davis, Mrs. Joyce Smith, Mrs. Dennis Ray Hassell, and Mrs. Jasper W. Millward, all Ashland.

Among the stake officials not previously mentioned who attended the conference was Ronald E. Phair, Klamath Falls, stake counselor. Bishops included Harold L. Catmull and Charles Wesley Clark, both Klamath Falls. Their wives also attended.

Castro Loyalists Nab Three Rebels

Vinales, Cuba—Loyal troops captured three of a band of five rebels against Premier Fidel Castro's regime after a brief week end gunfight near this western mountain town, it was reported today.

Havana reports which said a soldier was wounded in the skirmish were denied here. Capt. Zena Hernandez, adjutant of the 6th Infantry Regiment, said that ex-Cpl. Luis Lara Crespo, who was captured, was the leader of the anti-Castro band. It had been operating from a hideout in the Organ Mountains of Pinar del Rio Province.

Patience Pays Off For British Woman

Marlow, England—Miss Dorothy Blewitt, a 61-year-old spinster, finally got her man. Perseverance did it.

Back in 1916 she fell in love with Tom Rance and told him so in her love letters. But he didn't take her seriously and up and married her Aunt Alice.

Aunt Alice died in 1917 and Dorothy made another stab, but he married another girl named Dorothy.

"I didn't give up," Miss Blewitt said. Two years ago the second Mrs. Rance died. Then three weeks ago Miss Blewitt remembered that Rance, now 77, was a handyman and that she needed some work done around the house.

"I called on Tom," she said. "Within a week he proposed. I'm going to be Mrs. Rance—at last."

Talks Resumed In Dock Walkout

New York—(UPI)—Negotiations resumed today in the two-coast dock strike halted by a Taft-Hartley injunction Oct. 8.

Officials of the International Longshoremen's association and the New York Shipping association were meeting for the first time since 70,000 longshoremen walked out of Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports Oct. 1.

The strike was halted after eight days by a federal court order. The original no-strike order was extended Saturday for the full 80 days authorized by the Taft-Hartley law.

Longshoremen could resume the strike if no agreement is reached when the injunction expires in December.

Small Worlds Around Us

Pigmy Rattler Isn't Fatal But You'd Better Avoid Him
As far as size is concerned, the so-called ground rattler does not amount to much. Neither does the word "ground" indicate any outstanding characteristic, as all snakes spend most of their lives on the earth.

But these little fellows are unusual inasmuch as they are about the smallest of the rattlesnake family, so natural they are often called the "pigmy rattler." Seldom, if ever, do they exceed 18 inches in length, and they are about as large around as a lead pencil.

But they are true rattlesnakes with the power to strike, and equipped at birth with poison sacs and sharp fangs. They even have a set of diminutive rattles on the tail. Many people are bitten by this tiny rattlesnake, but seldom is the bite fatal. The bite does cause pain, swelling and a feeling of extreme nausea.

Like his larger relatives, the pigmy rattler rattles for all he's worth when excited, and strikes at the same time. However, the rattle does not have the ominous sound of the large rattlers. It sounds more like the buzzing of an insect. Usually the sound cannot be

Tongue Point Sailors Hurt in Auto Upset

Woodburn — (UPI) — Three Tongue Point sailors were hospitalized by a Saturday night one-car crash on the Baldock freeway about two miles north of here.

David O. Delker, 33, Robin C. Harmer, 20, and Charles J. Kemp, 22, were all taken to St. Vincent hospital in Portland.

State police said the sailors' car slid off the freeway and overturned.

state "they always live in dry areas."

He's Pretty
Actually, the ground rattler is a rather pretty little fellow, provided you can overcome your natural aversion to poisonous reptiles and agree with the scientists that snakes are a beautiful and interesting form of animal life.

For those few who are interested in the anatomy of snakes, the scales on the top of the pigmy rattlesnake's head are a study in geometrical arrangement. . . . a regularly arranged shield on the top of the head. Like all members of the Crotalids, they also have the deep pits on either side of the head located between the ear and the eye which indicates "pit vipers."

They may be small, these Lilliputian rattlers, but they are vicious. Although their bite is seldom fatal to a human, they are enough like their larger cousins to warrant being left strictly alone.
