Steelworkers Ordered Back To Jobs for 80-Day Period

Union Appeals To Halt Enforcement Of Judge's Act

Public Health, Safety Imperiled

Pittsburgh — (UPI) — A federal judge today ordered the nation's 500,000 striking steelworkers to return to their jobs for 80 days under the Taft-Hartley Act. The United Steelworkers Union appealed to block enforcement of the order.

U.S. District Judge Herbert V. Sorensen, 47, an Eisenhower appointee, agreed with the President that the 99-day strike imperiled the nation. Sorensen handed down the back to work ruling after a three-hour meeting of union and industry attorneys on the question of retroactivity. Eisenhower, through the Justice Department, asked Judge Sorensen Tuesday for the injunction.

Sorensen said he signed the petition because he found the steel strike to be "inimicable to the public health and safety." He said he agreed to Eisenhower's request "in order that further negotiations may go on while the basic needs of the country are being met."

The judge asked the attorneys if they had anything to say.

Arthur J. Goldberg, chief counsel for the union, said the USW "objects and accepts" the injunction.

Goldberg began to explain his appeal motion but Judge Sorensen interrupted him to say that he had already contacted 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Austin Stanley in the same building and that Stanley "is ready to wait upon you."

It was the second time in history that the government intervened directly in a nationwide steel strike. In 1952, President Truman seized the mills under what he termed the implied powers of the presidency, but the U.S. Supreme Court ruled his act unconstitutional.

Although Judge Sorensen ordered the strikers back to work, they are free to continue the walkout after 80 days.

Public Hearing Set On Farm Labor Law

One in a series of 11 regional public hearings on a preliminary draft of the health code required by Oregon's new farm migrant labor law will be held in Medford Nov. 17, the state board of health has announced.

The hearing will be held in the Jackson county courthouse auditorium.

The proposed code lists health requirements for farm labor camps and fields on water supply, toilet and hand washing facilities, refuse disposal, rodent and insect control, shelter, food service, and the control of communicable disease or illness.

Time will be made available at the hearings, the health board said, for growers and other interested persons to be heard on provisions of the health code.

The farm migrant labor act was enacted by the 1959 legislature. It will not become fully operative, however, until final acceptance of the health code and employment of staff, the board of health said.

Death Comes To Last Of Texas Quintuplets

San Antonio, Tex. — (UPI) — last of the Hannan quintuplets, a one-pound, 11-ounce girl that could fit comfortably in an adult's hand, died today after an 18-hour and nine-minute fight for survival.

The quintuplets were all girls and none lived long enough to be named. The one that lived the longest was "Baby D," so called because she was the fourth to be born. Their pretty blonde mother,

President Arrives For Vacation at Augusta Golf Club

Augusta, Ga. — (UPI) — President Eisenhower flew to his Georgia vacation retreat today, seeking five or six days of golf and rest to shake the last trace of a cold, and was greeted by leaden skies and a driving rain.

The presidential plane landed at Bush Field here after a two-hour and 21-minute flight from the nation's capital.

The President headed directly for his cottage on the grounds of the Augusta National Golf Club.

Although Eisenhower's arrival weather was not encouraging, the forecast for the Augusta area called for rain to let up Thursday night or Friday with a week end of mild weather and sunshine. Temperatures were expected to be in the middle 60s and low 70s over the week end.

Klamath Girl SOC Homcoming Queen

Ashtland — (UPI) — An 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Klamath Falls, Charlene Finchum, today was named homecoming queen of Southern Oregon college.

Miss Finchum, a sophomore and a secretarial major, is 19 and stands five feet, eight inches tall.

Neuberger Accepts Cancer Speech Offer

Portland — (UPI) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) has accepted an American Cancer Society offer to speak at a banquet in Madison Square Garden next April honoring the originator of the famed "Pap" test to detect cancer in the cervix in women, Dr. George H. Papanicolaou.

The babies, the 47th recorded quintuplets were born three months prematurely Tuesday within 12 minutes.

Board Remands Ashland Boy To Juvenile Court

Action Follows Letter by Kelly

Salem — (UPI) — The State Board of Control has signed papers remanding a 16-year-old Ashland youth to the Jackson county juvenile court. The youth had been at MacLaren school for boys.

Last week Circuit Judge Edward C. Kelly of Medford criticized the Board of Control in connection with the youth's case. The Board earlier had criticized the courts of both Jackson and Clackamas counties and declared the boy was too tough for MacLaren.

Judge Kelly told the Board it should have formally investigated the matter instead of "resorting to hearsay" from MacLaren.

The Board of Control signed the papers remanding the boy Tuesday.

The Board also instructed William Ryan, Board secretary, to send a copy of the MacLaren case report to Judge Kelly.

The youth had been sent to MacLaren Aug. 22 and later escaped after which he was arrested in Clackamas county.

Mill Completes Mishap-Free Year

The Central Point plant of the Gulf Red Cedar division of Great Western Producers, Inc., New York, completed an entire year's operation without an industrial lost-time injury of any sort Oct. 13, the Western Pine association has announced.

With an average employment of 34 men working an average of 1,900 hours each during the year, Gulf Red Cedar recorded a total of 64,500 man hours of work without a single lost-time accident.

The record was cited as outstanding in the industry-wide safety promotion program launched by the Western Pine association three years ago.

Plant manager at Gulf Red Cedar is Bernard Parent, who was a member of the Southern Oregon district safety committee of the association during its first two years. Jack Campbell is assistant manager, and Glenn Kelley is plant superintendent.

Gulf Red Cedar company, which had plants in Central Point and Stockton, Calif., with headquarters in Richmond, Va., was taken over by Great Western Producers, Inc., earlier this year. The company now is a division of the New York corporation.

De Gaulle Balks On Timing for Summit Meeting

Views Seen Reflected

Washington — (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle balked today on going along with the western allies on the timing of a summit meeting.

While President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are urging the summit meeting be held in December, the French government issued a Cabinet announcement today declaring the "best chance" for the East-West conclave would be next spring.

The French statement was issued after De Gaulle met with his Cabinet and undoubtedly reflected the French leader's views.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the department would have no official comment on De Gaulle's move. He also said he knew nothing about a report from France that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had accepted an invitation by De Gaulle to visit France early next year.

Khrushchev has declared his willingness to go to the summit any time.

Ike Orders Space Team Transferred

Augusta, Ga. — (UPI) — President Eisenhower today ordered the transfer of the Army's space team headed by Werner von Braun to the civilian National Aeronautics and Space Administration to "best serve the national interests."

The shift of the big Army ballistic agency will be submitted to Congress as a reorganization plan in January. But Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today "procedures and mechanics" involved in the transfer would be undertaken immediately.

Asked if the President's action "takes the Army out of the space field," Hagerty said, "Yes."

Kennedy 'Looking For Some Votes'; Predicts Victory

Plans Will Be Told in January

Portland — (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) conceded Tuesday night that he was out here "looking for some votes as well as helping the Democrats raise money."

But the youthful appearing senator still said he was not yet a candidate for next year's Democratic presidential nomination. He said again he would announce his plans in January.

Kennedy was winding up a busy two-day visit to Salem and the Portland area today.

At a breakfast meeting of the Democratic Round Table here today, Kennedy predicted a victory for his party next year but said the going would not be easy.

He said the potential for an overwhelming victory "is there . . . and this state looks like it will lead the parade." But he warned against taking victory for granted.

"Let us recall that our national ticket in 1956 carried only seven states and lost 41. Let us remember that our national ticket has not carried a single northern state since 1948," he said.

Wants More Classrooms

Tuesday night Kennedy called for classrooms, more teachers and better trained teachers. He said there were 50,000 teachers on the job during the past year who "had no adequate training for that job."

Kennedy, who is of Catholic faith, was asked how he felt about separation of the church and state. He replied, "I think it is the only way that church and state can function in their respective areas. Christ came out for it, although not specifically on method, when he said: 'Render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's and unto God that which is God's.'"

A Real Debate

He made a humorous observation about differences between himself and Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) "Someone has suggested that Senator Morse and I be nominated, and then the country could hear a real debate on the issues without ever tuning in on the Republicans."

Expected Boom In Economy Out

Washington — (UPI) — The economic boom anticipated for the last three months of this year is out the window. Government officials blame the steel strike.

The boom had been expected to whittle unemployment to the lowest level in two years. Officials also had hoped it would produce enough tax revenue to keep the federal budget in the black.

But the narrow budget surplus of $95 million predicted for the current year now is in grave danger of turning into deficit and unemployment is expected to remain above 3 million because of the 99-day steel walkout.

Sites Considered For New Hospital

Ashtland — At least seven sites are under consideration by the Ashtland city council's hospital advisory committee as possible locations for a new general hospital here.

The committee has issued an invitation to Ashtland residents to submit written recommendations for possible sites.

Ashtland voters last week approved a $350,000 bond issue to help finance construction of a new hospital.

Arnold Bauder, chairman of the advisory committee, said the group would welcome suggestions for possible sites, but pointed out that sites should have a minimum of five acres.

The committee recommended that the firm Roald Schmeer and Harrington of Portland be retained as architects. E. H. Singmaster, committee member, said the Portland firm has helped the local committee and that it has been architect for more than 15 hospitals which have been constructed in the state in the past several years.

Kennedy's Position 'Lousy,' Morse Tells Democrats

Corvallis — (UPI) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.)

observing his 59th birthday here Tuesday night, told Benton county Democrats that as for the possibility of Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) as a 1960 presidential nominee, "his position is so lousy I just can't support it."

Morse said another Democrat he wouldn't support is Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Lists Possibilities

He numbered among those he "could" back for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination Adlai Stevenson, Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.), New Jersey Gov. Robert Meyner and California Gov. Edmund Brown.

Verbal sparks flew between Morse and Sen. Kennedy upon Kennedy's arrival in Oregon Tuesday for a two-day visit. The Oregon senator criticized Kennedy earlier for his part in the new labor law and Kennedy said Morse's attack surprised him because Morse made it a "personal matter."

Morse also told his audience of about 150 here that his own Democratic party, which controlled the last session of Congress, compiled a "sad record."

He asked, "What happened to the 1956 campaign pledges of the party?" He singled out for criticism the Congress' attitude toward housing, civil rights, education and tax reform.

Sees Federal Sales Tax

Of tax reform, he declared that "we shifted the load from those who can pay to those who can't."

"Watch for a movement," he said, "within the Democratic party for a federal sales tax." The ground work of it, he said, was the gas tax increase.

Snider Vice President Of Oregon Cities League

Portland — (UPI) — Mayor Loren D. McKinley, 39, Tillamook, today was named as president of the League of Oregon Cities, succeeding Edward Harms Jr., mayor of Springfield.

John Snider of Medford was named vice president at the closing session of the League's annual convention. Corvallis City Manager John Porter was reelected treasurer.

Chessman Given Stay of Execution

GETS STAY—The Supreme Court today granted an eighth stay of execution to Caryl Chessman, convicted kidnaper, so he can bring his 10th appeal to the high tribunal. Chessman was to have been executed Friday. Here he answers questions at a press conference upon receiving word of the court's action. (UPI Telephoto)

Chessman Given Stay of Execution

San Quentin, Calif. — (UPI) — Caryl Chessman received news of his stay of execution by the U.S. Supreme Court today with icy composure.

"Thank you," was all that he said to correctional Sgt. T. C. Gilbert when the officer relayed the word to Chessman in San Quentin's death row. In Washington, the Supreme Court had announced its action at 8:08 a.m. (p.s.t.).

No Emotion

Chessman showed no emotion and did not seem surprised that his 11 years and five months under death sentence were to be prolonged.

Last July 10 the black-haired, lean-faced convict-author told United Press International that he believed he would win a stay of execution.

Word of the stay came to Chessman 50 hours before he had been scheduled to enter the San Quentin gas chamber at 10 a.m. Friday.

Court Asked For Stay

His attorney, George T. Davis, asked Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas last Friday for the stay. Douglas referred the petition to the entire court which acted today to permit Chessman to bring his 10th appeal to the high tribunal.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, who as former governor of California denied clemency to Chessman, did not participate in the decision.

The stay may mean up to two more years of life for Chessman even if the final decision goes against him, Davis said.

Sentenced in 1948

Even if the court rejects the new appeal, Davis said, the necessary legal procedures, including the setting of a new execution day, are likely to consume nearly a year. If the Supreme Court decides to hold a hearing in the case it might be two years before a decision is reached, he said.

Chessman received two death sentences in 1948 after being convicted on 17 counts of robbery, kidnap, rape and perversion. The fact that no murder was involved and the length of his fight to escape the death chamber has brought worldwide appeals to spare his life.

Ashtland Man Shot Accidentally in Leg

Ashtland — Robert Franklin Shuck, 21, of 1210 Ashtland Mine rd., Ashtland, was getting double-barreled treatment at Ashtland General hospital today for a back injury and for a gunshot wound in his right leg.

Shuck, according to Ashtland police, was on his way to the hospital to have his back treated, when the accident involving the gun occurred. Hospital attendants today reported he was "getting along satisfactorily."

Police related that Shuck was driving his wife yesterday evening to her parent's home, where she was to say during his hospital visit. On the seat between them were his shaving articles, some food, her purse and his holster. 22 single-action revolver.

The Shucks didn't know it was loaded, police said. When the couple reached their destination and she was picking up the articles from the seat, the gun discharged through its holster, the bullet causing a flesh wound in Shuck's right calf, according to the report. Police said the revolver was mechanically defective.
