Loophole Described In Justice Overseas

Washington—UPI—The justice department told the Supreme Court today that a 1957 ruling on courts-martial has allowed civilians to go unpunished for crimes committed overseas with the armed forces.

Government attorney Oscar Davis gave this report to the high tribunal as arguments began on four cases dealing with the power of the military to try civilians abroad. He said there just isn't any "acceptable alternative" to the military trials.

Show Keen Interest
 Chief Justice Earl Warren and several of the associate justices showed keen interest in Davis's statement and asked for details.

The 1957 ruling held that in a capital case a service-woman accompanying her husband abroad is not subject to trial by court-martial. The decision was reached in the cases of two wives convicted of murdering their husbands.

Justice John M. Harlan asked Davis if the armed forces had gone ahead with trials in non-capital cases since the high courts' ruling.

Davis said the answer was yes but that the military had been "exhibiting a great deal of restraint." In 1956, he explained, there were 121 overseas courts-martial of dependents and other civilians, but the number dropped to 76 in 1957 and to 34 in 1958.

Offenses Increased
 "The number of offenses has increased, however," Davis said.

Warren asked if those not tried by the military were brought into any other court. "No, they were not tried at all," Davis answered.

Justice Potter Stewart wanted to know if these people committed "the less serious offenses."

Davis said in general this was true, although some "minor larcenies" may have been included in the unpunished group. But he added that "no capital cases or homicides" have gone unpunished.

Senator Kennedy Acts 'Very Much' Like a Candidate

Portland—UPI—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) was in New York City today after a busy two-day visit to Oregon in which he acted very much like a presidential candidate although he said he had not yet decided whether to seek the nomination.

Kennedy, 42, who plans another visit to primary-conscious Oregon next month, says he'll announce in January whether or not he will seek the Democratic nomination.

He made several speeches in Salem and Portland during his two-day stay on topics ranging from India and Red China to home buying.

At his final public appearance Wednesday he urged before the Portland Realty board an increase in the federal mortgage guarantee limit and expansion of the urban renewal program.

He said today's $22,500 mortgage limit was not comparable to the $16,000 limit of the early days of the Federal Housing act. He said it denied benefits of the insured mortgage system to many home buyers who would have been eligible in the early days of the act.

TR'S FRIEND DIES

New York—UPI—Carl Rungtius, 90, an outstanding wildlife painter and former hunting partner of President Theodore Roosevelt, died Tuesday of a stroke.

KILLS BEAR—Mrs. Georgia Wilson, of Sardine creek, is shown with the 130-pound bear she shot and killed in the Sardine creek area. Mrs. Wilson and her husband, Jim, went deer hunting recently, and Wilson went deeper into the woods, while Mrs. Wilson remained near the trail. Later in the day she heard a growl, turned and saw the bear. She shot it with her 30-30 rifle, then slit its throat and waited for her husband to return. Hunters in the Sardine creek area report a scarcity of deer this year. They said it probably is due to hounds in the area.

Migrant Workers Die in Auto Crash

Klamath Falls—UPI—Two migrant workers were killed 22 miles southeast of here Wednesday when their car missed a curve and crashed. Four other persons were injured.

Dead were William Turner and Willie Roberson. Police said their ages and home towns were unknown. Injured were Rudolph Mash, Henry Marks, Andrew Wallace and Willie Jones, driver and owner of the vehicle. Jones was treated and released at Klamath Valley hospital. The other three were held for treatment. The employment service office at Klamath Falls said Turner was believed from Yakima, Wash., and Roberson from Stockton, Calif. Home towns of the other men were not listed.
