Jane Russell Puts Finishing Touches On Annual Project

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

Hollywood —(UPI)— Motherhood and Jane Russell seem to go together about as well as Liz Taylor and Debbie Reynolds – but beneath the sex goddess veneer buxom Jane is something of a mother to 7,000 youngsters.

As president of WAIF, an international organization for homeless children, Jane has placed some 7,000 orphans with adoptive parents.

This week the brunette screen siren put the finishing touches to the biggest project of her life, the fifth annual WAIF ball Nov. 7, to raise more than $50,000 for the organization.

Jane began the WAIF nine years ago when she encountered difficulties adopting a child of her own. She went to England and brought home with her a wriggly little guy named Tom. Since then she has adopted two more children. And if things work out, she hopes to bring home a fourth.

Two Types of Countries

"I just put two and two together," Jane said. "There were thousands of couples in this country who wanted children, and thousands of children in Europe who needed parents. It was that simple."

Working through International Social Service, Inc., Jane and WAIF invaded 72 countries finding orphans for adoption.

"Countries fall in one of two categories – those with too many orphans, and those with too few for the number of people who want to adopt," she said. "England and Scandinavia now have a shortage of adoptable kids.

"This year most of our children are coming from Germany, Greece, Italy, Korea and Japan. It changes from year to year.

"Two things we always do, place children with people of their own religion, and keep brothers and sisters together. Several times we've placed families of four youngsters with new parents."

Jane went on to say her organization has more parents lined up in this country than it can supply with children.

"We don't need more parents," she said. "We need money to bring the youngsters over here. And that's why we're putting on the Imperial ball – at $100 per person.

"The Chrysler Corp. helps us raise the money to finance our adoptions, and this year to keep the international flavor we've invited Princess Marie Cecille of Prussia to be the royal guest of honor. Last year Queen Frederika of Greece was present and helped bring in $55,000.

"To me this work is far more fulfilling than acting. And in its own way, more exciting."

San Francisco offers the nation's most expensive taxicab rides—50 cents for the first quarter-mile and 10 cents for each additional quarter-mile.

More Americans – 67,594,000 in all – were employed this past July than at any other time in the nation's history, according to the Labor department. That same month, all nine newspaper advertising classifications measured by Media Records showed lineage gains over July, 1958. Automotive advertising – up 39 per cent – scored the largest increase.

The Topkapi Museum in Istanbul formerly was used by Turkish Emperors as their residence. In those days, as many as 10,000 persons sat down to a single meal. One thousand cooks were engaged to prepare the food.

APPLEGATE VALLEY
Wedge Business Good

By MAUDE ZIEGLER

Applegate Valley – Seventeen years ago J. R. (Dick) Hoffman started making live oak wedges for loggers to fell trees, and he continues in the business at his Thompson creek farm.

It is a paying business with no overhead except stumpage and gas, Hoffman says, and he sells to lumber companies in northern California, points in Idaho, Bend, Klamath Falls, and other areas.

Hoffman was a "gypo" himself in the Klamath country, and started making wedges and selling to "gypos" as a starter, but he lays no claim to inventing wedges for he says Arkansas men brought the idea to Klamath.

He started making the wedges at his ranch on an investment in two saws and a mandrill. He later bought a larger saw, and when his tractor wore out he bought another engine. He uses a bolting saw and a rip saw, first cutting the wood into bolts without knots. He makes the wedges in four sizes.

He has exhausted the live oak from his own property, and buys within a 40 mile radius from the bureau of land management and from private owners. Hoffman can get a hundred dollars' worth of wedges from the average tree, and for the most part sells the product green, he states. Live oak is the only usable wood for the wedges that are used to place in the open cuts when felling and bucking logs.

Throughout the years Hoffman has maintained one chief business policy, "One price to all," whether he is selling in wholesale lots or to the individual. His ranch has 83 acres in cultivation and 440 acres in timber. He has turned his ranching over to federal agricultural conservation management, and at the present time his land is in altifescue and sub clover. He is a son of the late George Hoffman, who came from Germany, and in 1872 homesteaded on Thompson creek. Hoffman's uncle, Ed Bolt, also of a pioneer family, lives with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kyer, originally of West Virginia, are new residents of the area, having purchased the Frank Mitchell residence on Jacksonville hill. Kyer has retired from 20 years' service in the Army, where he was a chief warrant officer. As a hobbyist he is a competitive marksman and has numerous trophies from contests around the world.

He competed in teams from 20 NATO countries in 1952, and was on various Army teams at Camp Perry, Ohio. Kyer won in the U.S. Army-Japan pistol match in 1958, and entered the national midwinter matches at Tampa, Fla.

He still is active in this field, and expects to attend the contests again at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Local square dancers attending a square dance at Savage creek near Grants Pass recently were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, Mr. and Mrs. Lance Offenbacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Offenbacher. Local dancers have joined a new group starting at Provolt Grange hall.

A "set" giving an exhibition at the Upper Applegate Grange booster night program this month included Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Offenbacher, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Offenbacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred West.

Women of the Little Applegate Sewing club will meet at the home of Mrs. Glenn Saltmarsh Thursday, Oct. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Watson and son, Bill, of San Jose Calif., were recent guests of Watson's uncle, John Byrne. They were accompanied on their return south by Watson's father, Harold Watson, who had spent some time here as a guest of the Byrne family.

Mrs. J. C. Hayden has returned to her home in Sacramento after spending some time with friends in the Upper Applegate, where the Haydens formerly lived. While here she was a guest of Mrs. Forbes Brown and Mrs. Gerald Buck. Mrs. Ed Finley also entertained a small group of friends in her honor at an afternoon coffee hour. Mr. Hayden, who was known to many in this area, died in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nelson and son and daughter of Klamath Falls were recent guests of Mrs. Sophia Straube.

Harry Malott has returned here after spending the summer at Everett, Wash., where he joined his son, Ralph, in traveling to points north.

Mrs. and Mrs. Henry Dutton and Vern Wilmoth of New Mexico are spending some time prospecting and mining in the Palmer creek area. They are working the Helen Maples claim.

Mrs. John Byrne will be hostess to ladies of Upper Applegate Extension unit at her home Nov. 4. "Living within 24 hours a day" will be the project led by Mrs. Otis Buck and Mrs. Edna Sawyer.

Among those from other areas attending Grange booster night program here recently were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Miller, and Estelle Lewis of Fruitdale Grange at Grants Pass. Those attending from Roxy Anne were Mrs. Marie Pfnister, Mrs. Bessie Wright, and Mrs. Eleanor Mankins.

David Pittock, Ninth grade student at Grants Pass High school, kept his audience in laughter much of the time with his extemporaneous account of the 4-H wagon trek to Corvallis last summer. He spoke to the Booster night crowd at the Grange hall. His younger companion speaker, Virgil Prowell, chose a little different method of presenting his remarks, and reached in Dave's shirt pocket for his carefully preserved notes.
