

Air Force Will Inactivate Bases Due to Missiles

Washington - (UPI) - The Air Force, in a new move emphasizing the trend toward missiles, announced Wednesday that it will shut down a Vermont air base and inactivate three jet fighter squadrons in Vermont, Ohio and New York.

The Air Force said the action reflected the "changing composition of the Air Force, involving increasing numbers of missile units and decreasing numbers of aircraft units."

At the same time, the Air Force released $150 million for work at previously announced Intercontinental Ballistic Missile bases.

California Included
Included with $43 million for Titan ICBMs at Beale Air Force Base, Marysville, Calif.; $31,900,000 for Atlas ICBMs at Lincoln, Neb., Air Force Base; $43,200,000 for Titan ICBMs at Mountain Home, Idaho, Air Force Base; and $31,900,000 for Atlas ICBMs at Schilling Air Force Base, Salina, Kan.

The cutbacks followed a disclosure in Dayton, Ohio, Tuesday by Air Secretary James H. Douglas that the Air Force's authorized manpower strength is being cut by 20,000 men.

Not Up to Strength
The Air Force is not up to its authorized strength of 845,000, however, and will have to reduce by only 8,000 men to get down to its new level of 825,000 by next June 30.

The manpowers cuts apparently are being ordered now in anticipation of budget cuts for personnel next year. They reflect coming reductions in air defense jet squadrons as well as cutbacks in B47 Strategic Air Command squadrons.

The Air Force currently has 27 wings of fighter-interceptors with three squadrons to a wing. Today's move will reduce it by the equivalent of one interceptor wing.

Grange Favors Overall Basin Plan

Sams Valley Grange went on record this week opposing construction of the Agate dam before overall development of the Rogue basin.

In a letter signed by Albert Straus, Grange master, and R. A. James, secretary, and county commissioner, Congressman Charles O. Porter was informed of the Grange's feelings.

"The Grange did vote unanimously not to favor the construction of the Agate dam or any other dam being built piecemeal from the overall plan in the Rogue River Flood Control Reclamation basin program," the motion read.

"The Grange is in favor of a full basin program acceptance and authorization. Construction and development then to follow. We sincerely hope you will give this plan your fullest cooperation," the letter stated.

Shortages Due In Fall, Winter

New York - (UPI) - Consumers will feel the pinch of the nation's longest and most costly steel strike this fall and winter in the form of shortages of most cars, refrigerators and other durable goods, Iron Age magazine said Wednesday.

These shortages are not likely to be critical, the trade weekly said, but the consumer's range of choice will be limited.

Many manufacturers of these products have already had to cut back or shut down production completely, the magazine said. Regardless of the date of the strike's end, it added, further cutbacks for weeks are inevitable.

Even auto plants with top priority for new steel do not expect to return to production before three to five weeks after the mills reopen, Iron Age said.

Many appliance dealers are out of 1959 models, and next year's models are slow coming in, the trade publication said. This situation will grow progressively worse until the mills resume production.
