Albany Family Meted Sentences For Burglaries

Two Others To Face Judge Monday

Albany—(UPI)—Five members of an Albany family Friday were meted varied sentences in Linn county circuit court after pleading guilty to charges of grand larceny and possession of stolen property. Conviction of the family and two other men solved 16 burglaries in the Linn, Benton and Marion counties. 10 Years on Two Counts Howard C. Moore, 41, father of the family, and his son-in-law, Oliver Lusk, 25, both received sentences of 10 years each on two separate counts of grand larceny. Circuit Judge Victor Olliver ruled the sentences be served continuously so both men face a total of 20 years in Oregon State prison.

Jerry Allen Moore, 20, a son, drew 5 years in the Oregon State Correctional Institution for grand larceny. Mother, Daughter Too The mother and daughter of the family, Mrs. Garnette Moore, 40, and Mrs. Lela Kay Lusk, 21, both received suspended sentences of 5 years each for possession of stolen property. The burglary operation netted guns valued at $8,000 to $10,000. Judge Olliver set sentencing of Donald Collins, 20, and his father, Dave Collins, 45, for next Monday. Young Collins pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny and his father pleaded guilty to possession of stolen goods.

Youngster Hurt In Explosion Of Gas Main

Eleven-year-old Paul Folland, son of Dr. and Mrs. Merle Folland, 109 Highland dr., was badly burned on his face and hands when a gas main exploded Saturday noon in the 300 block on Highland dr. Dr. Folland said his son and Teddy Adams, about the same age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Adams, 400 Lynnwood ave., climbed down a hole into the main. One of the boys lit a match causing the explosion which blew out the end of the main running down Highland dr., reports stated. Young Adams apparently was not hurt. Dr. Folland said both boys climbed out of the main after the explosion. The doctor took his son to a local hospital where he dressed the boy's burns and then took him home. No Barriers Erected City contractors working on a nearby storm sewer had apparently broken through the gas main, Dr. Folland said. No barriers or warning signs had been erected near the hole, he added. Gas was still escaping from the main when Medford firemen arrived.

"No, I don't know who is responsible for not placing barriers and warning signs around the hole, but I'm sure going to find out," the doctor remarked. West Yellowstone—(UPI)—Several light "earth tremors" were felt in this vacation resort town Saturday.

Christmas Tree Cutting in Area Discussion Topic

Road patrols, air patrols, prevention signs, publicity, posting reward notices, and an active cooperative program of law enforcement agencies are among the methods of control being considered against large-scale theft of Christmas trees in southern Oregon. Problems of Christmas tree thefts were discussed at recent meetings in Klamath Falls and Medford at which methods of control were considered. Present at the meetings were representatives of the Rogue River, Siskiyou, Umpqua, Klamath and Fremont National forest, bureau of land management, the national park service, Oregon state board of forestry, Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association, Southern Oregon Christmas Tree association, private land owners, the federal bureau of investigation, state police and Jackson County District Attorney Thomas Reeder. Have No Respect Carroll E. Brown, supervisor of Rogue River National forest, said the primary concern is in controlling unauthorized cutting for the commercial market. "These rustlers, of course, have no interest in whether or not the trees they cut are potential timber crop trees," Brown said. Brown stressed that control methods are not directed against the legitimate Christmas tree cutter who cuts on his own property or with the consent of the land owner. Christmas tree cutting, when done on a planned basis under the control of the land owner or administrator, need not be destructive, and may even be helpful in thinning over-crowded stands of young trees, he pointed out. Cutting, he said, will be controlled to prevent damage to the forest, and the forest will be paid the stumpage value of the trees. Like other national forest receipts, 25 per cent of this stumpage payment will be returned to the counties in which the forest is situated, he added. He mentioned that the Klamath district of the Rogue River National Forest recently sold 12,500 trees in 14 different small sales. Unauthorized and destructive cutting of Christmas trees became so flagrant in 1958 widespread concern developed.

Polio Vaccine Clinics Slated In Jackson County

Shots To Be Made Available To Public Junior chambers of commerce from three Rogue valley communities will participate in a polio Salk vaccine clinic Nov. 14, Larry Allen, Medford, general manager of the project, has announced. The program here is part of a statewide project to make the vaccine available for $1 a shot or $3 per family of shots, according to Allen. Participating are the Medford, Eagle Point and Central Point Jaycees. The Medford clinic will be set up in two locations, according to Charles E. Jones, Medford Jaycee chairman of the project. One will be in the Red Cross building, 60 Hawthorne ave., and the other will be in the county health department office in the courthouse. Open 2 to 6 P.M. The clinic will be open between 2 and 6 p.m. in Medford and Central Point. No clinic site has been arranged for the Eagle Point clinic, Allen said. Clinics also will be held in Jacksonville, Rogue River, Talent, Eagle Point and Shady Cove between 3 and 5 p.m. Nov. 14. Locations in those communities have not yet been determined. Jaycees from the three organizations will provide lay help at the clinics, while volunteers from the Jackson County Medical Society and nurses organizations will provide professional assistance in administering the shots, Allen said. Allen said all age groups will be sought for shots, although minors will need parents' consent if not accompanied by a guardian or parent. Consent forms are being prepared, he said, and will be distributed through the schools in the near future. Hope for 9,900 Shots Jaycees hope to administer 9,900 vaccine shots during the clinic. That many are available in Jackson county, Allen said. First, second and third shots will be offered in the project, Allen said, and for those who receive their first shots Nov. 14, another clinic is tentatively set for Dec. 12 to administer the second in the series. A third clinic will be scheduled next spring for the third shot, he added. Records will be kept on each individual receiving the vaccine. Possible Through Advance Gay Hallett is chairman of the Central Point Jaycee committee working on the project, and Dave Harbison is chairman of the Eagle Point Jaycee committee. Persons interested in the clinic may contact either of the Jaycee chairmen for additional information. The Jaycee program was made possible, Allen said, through a $30,000 advance from the National Foundation for the statewide program. The money was used to purchase vaccine and equipment to administer the shots.

Kennedy Calls For New Latin American Policy

Security Threat Seen in Region

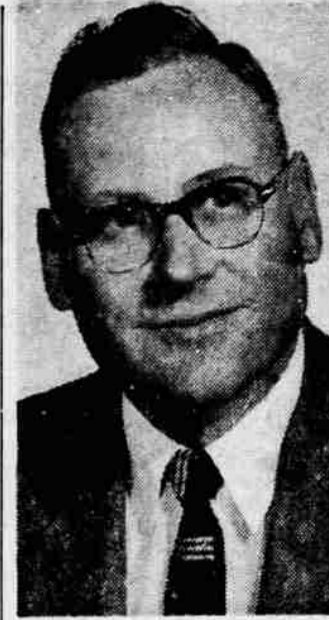

San Diego, Calif.—(UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, declaring the Monroe Doctrine and good neighbor policy inadequate, Saturday night called for a new Latin American policy. The Massachusetts Democrat warned if something isn't done soon the United States might find its greatest security threat is in the Western Hemisphere, not some distant corner of the world. He suggested six points for formation of the new policy. Kennedy was on a California swing to test the political waters for a decision on whether to seek the 1960 presidential nomination. He warned: "If we continue to take our Western Hemisphere friends for granted—if we continue to assume that all anti-American agitation is Communist inspired—our own backyard may well pose a threat to our security far greater than that posed by any distant corner of the globe." Kennedy recommended a new Latin American policy to include points such as these: —The development of a series of inter-American economic agreements for stabilization of commodity prices, and convertibility of currency and mutual adjustment of duties and quotas. —The enlargement of Latin American allocations in the development loan fund and the widest possible use of the new Inter-American Capital Development Bank. —The negotiations of individual trade treaties. —A new American attitude on dictators which would not influence the choice of leaders but make it clear that the U. S. looks with favor on free governments.

Budget Reduction Said Planned in Military Spending

Washington—(UPI)—The Defense Department has completed a tentative budget calling for a reduction of nearly a half billion dollars in U.S. military spending next year, informed sources said Saturday. They said the proposed spending figure, which still must get White House approval, was close to $40,500,000,000. The total represents a sharp cutback from the money requests originally submitted by the Army, Navy and Air Force for the 12 months starting next July 1. The sources said President Eisenhower's budget bureau wants to cut the figure another half-billion dollars to bring it down to $40 billion. Military spending now is running about $40,945,000,000 a year. The proposed U.S. defense cutback would range from 1 to 3 per cent depending on whether Eisenhower accepts the Defense Department or budget bureau view. Russia recently claimed a cut of about 9 per cent in military outlays. The two figures are not comparable, however, because many Soviet military programs are charged off as civilian outlays. The new proposal also was said to call for a slash of approximately 50,000 men in authorized military strength. Eisenhower Said In Excellent Health Washington—(UPI)—President Eisenhower—at 69—is in "excellent" health except for a mild but persistent case of bronchitis, a head-to-toe medical examination showed Saturday. Results of the check-up were announced shortly after the President left Walter Reed Army Medical Center where he underwent the two-day annual examination. Heidelberg, Germany—(UPI)—East German authorities have released U.S. Army Pvt. Michael Petrov, 27, held since Sept. 21.

Umpqua Watershed Cloud Seeding Due

The North American Weather Consultants of Oregon have announced plans to treat clouds over the North Umpqua river watershed during the coming year. The company, in contract with the California Oregon Power company, said it plans to seed clouds with silver iodide from ground generators to increase precipitation. The area affected would range from Lake of the Woods to Windigo pass along the summit of the Cascades, and between Toketee Falls and the Fish lake road in an east-west direction. Cloud seeding, sources said, has for several years increased precipitation, much of it in the form of snow, in the area. A deeper snow pack maintains a higher rate of river flow during the summer months than would otherwise be expected. The company said cloud seeding will be carried on from Nov. 15 through April 30.

Virginia Mountains Scanned For Plane With 27 on Board

Craft Disappears After Sending Radio Message

Charlottesville, Va.—(UPI)—Search units rushed to a lonely 4,000-foot mountain peak 40 miles southwest of Charlottesville Saturday night to determine if a "shiny object" sighted there was the wreckage of a Piedmont Airlines DC-3 which vanished with 27 persons aboard. Maj. Charles A. Rausch, civil air patrol commander for central Virginia, emphasized there had been no confirmation that the wreckage of the plane had been found, but added "it looks like our best lead so far." Rescuers Rushed State troopers, five or six CAP ground units, sheriff's deputies and rescue squads rushed to the mountain, near the little community of Montebello, Va. A report spread that there might be survivors, but Rausch's search headquarters here said this could not be confirmed since the search units had not reached the scene. Buena Vista police dispatcher J. B. Anderson said a report had been received that "there were a few survivors." This was unconfirmed. The sheriff's office for Rockbridge county, where Buena Vista is located, said it had received the same reports and was sending its deputies to aid in the mountainside search. Search Slows Down A vast air-ground search of the mountain county around Charlottesville slowed down tonight with darkness. There was no trace of the missing plane at nightfall. It vanished last night on a flight from Washington to Roanoke, Va., after a radio call six minutes from the Charlottesville airport. None of the passengers was from the West Coast.

At least 24 persons were reported killed and more than 100 others injured in clashes between demonstrators and police since the rioting broke out last night in Stanleyville, some 375 miles northeast of Leopoldville. "Why, I Don't Believe You're Grandma at All" Pomona, Calif.—(UPI)—Two boys, costumed for Halloween "trick or treat," were shot and seriously wounded Saturday night by a man who fled the home of one of the children, police said. Joseph Tabera, 6, was shot in the stomach as he walked on the porch of his home. Standing behind him was Michael Robert Mueller, 11, a neighbor, who was shot in the upper left leg. The children were taken to Pomona Valley Hospital for possible surgery. Police said they were unable to get full details of what happened. However, they said they had the description of a man who had argued with the Tabera family and started to leave the house "in a huff" when the boys approached.

Umpqua Watershed Cloud Seeding Due

The North American Weather Consultants of Oregon have announced plans to treat clouds over the North Umpqua river watershed during the coming year. The company, in contract with the California Oregon Power company, said it plans to seed clouds with silver iodide from ground generators to increase precipitation. The area affected would range from Lake of the Woods to Windigo pass along the summit of the Cascades, and between Toketee Falls and the Fish lake road in an east-west direction. Cloud seeding, sources said, has for several years increased precipitation, much of it in the form of snow, in the area. A deeper snow pack maintains a higher rate of river flow during the summer months than would otherwise be expected. The company said cloud seeding will be carried on from Nov. 15 through April 30.
