By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

New York—Michael Stone, 19, of Cleveland, one of Charles Van Doren's former students at Columbia university, commenting on Van Doren's admission that he was coached on the TV quiz show "21":
"The whole class stands behind him 100 per cent. I feel that he did not do wrong. The fault lies with the people behind the show."

Washington—President Eisenhower, explaining what he was trying to say about the effect of the national debt on the nation's youth in a letter he wrote to his 11-year-old grandson, David, last year:
"Whatever I put onto the national debt, even one dollar, means you (David) are supporting me. . . . If I get a bigger car, you are picking up the tab."

Los Angeles—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) discussing California's political weight after stating it was unlikely he would enter the state's Democratic presidential primary:
"California is a key state and anyone considering running has to come out here."

Washington—The Rev. Charles E. (Stoney) Jackson, of Tullahoma, Tenn., giving an explanation why he later said probably was an exaggeration of why he didn't state on the air that the "$64,000 Question" and "$64,000 Challenge" were rigged:
"I could see my bullet-riddled body as I passed an alley somewhere."

Cole Convicted On Murder Charge In San Francisco

San Francisco—(UPI)—George Cole, who was once listed among the FBI's "most wanted" criminals, was convicted of second degree murder Monday night for the fatal shooting of a San Francisco policeman during a tavern holdup in 1956.

The verdict was handed down by a jury of seven women and five men. The 32-year-old Cole now faces a sentence of from five years to life in prison.

Ironically, Cole's accomplice in the holdup pleaded guilty of first degree murder—although he insisted Cole fired the shot that killed Police Sergeant Joseph Lacey.

Serving Life Term
The accomplice, Thomas a Hamrick, is serving a life term in San Quentin Prison with no chance for parole.

Defense attorney Gregory Stout did not seek acquittal, but asked for a second degree verdict. Stout based much of the base on the claim that Cole "blacked out" from drinking beer and taking barbiturates the night Lacey was shot.

Pistol Produced
The prosecution presented three witnesses who identified Cole as the man who killed Lacey. It also produced a pistol, believed to be the murder weapon, which was found in Oregon where Cole was known to have traveled immediately after the shooting.

Cole was at large for nearly two and one-half years and was placed on the FBI's "most wanted" list on Feb. 25, 1957. He was arrested by FBI agents last summer in Des Moines, Iowa, where he operated a service station.

Stubblefield Twins Gaining Strength

Portland—(UPI)—The Stubblefield twins of Parma, Ida., still are gaining strength and weight, doctors at the University of Oregon medical school hospital said today.

The girls, born Siamese, were separated by surgery Oct. 6. Jeanette now weighs 12 pounds and Denett 11 pounds 7 ounces.

A spokesman said both girls now take solid food although Jeanette still breathes through a tube in her throat which was placed there when she started to fail after the operation. No date has been set for removal of the tube. She will be trained later to breathe normally, doctors said.

The girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Stubblefield. They were born June 29.

Death Brings Rumor Of New Consistory

Vatican City—(UPI)—The death of Frederico Cardinal Tedeschini revived speculation today that Pope John XXIII may soon hold another consistory for the naming of new princes of the church.

Even before Cardinal Tedeschini's death Monday, reports had been circulating here for some time that the Pontiff planned to increase further the strength of the Sacred College to as many as 100 Cardinals.

Until Pope John's reign, the college did not exceed 70 cardinals.

But last Nov. 17, shortly after his coronation, John named 23 new cardinals, raising the total to an unprecedented 75 members.

Since then four cardinals have died.

Most Find Jury Duty Exciting and Satisfying

Some dread the idea of serving on a jury in the trial of a lawsuit. That fear disappears for most when they actually experience jury service.

Some years ago the question "Did you find jury service as juror interesting?" was asked of over 1500 men and women who had served on juries in the year that had just ended. The almost unanimous answer was "yes." It is pretty clear, then, that one should serve on a jury, if called, not only because it is a duty and a privilege in the highest sense, but also for the

Let's take a look at jury duty in the circuit court in Oregon.

The county clerk (depending on the county) prepares a list of jurors each year by selecting names by lot from the latest tax roll and registration books, from different parts of the county. Separate sheets of paper containing the name, residence, and occupation of each person on the list, and folded to conceal the name, are placed in a box. The names of persons to make up a panel of jurors are drawn from the box between 10 and 20 days before court is to be held, in accordance with detailed instructions given by the law. The sheriff summons the jurors to attend court by giving written notice to each of them by mail.

It is against the law to ask to be placed on a jury list.

Oregon jurors must be citizens of the United States, must have lived in the county for the preceding year, must be in the possession of their natural faculties and of sound mind, and must not have been convicted of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. No person shall be summoned as a juror in any circuit court more than once a year.

Exemptions Listed

Judges, civil officers, physicians, dentists, optometrists, chiropractors, osteopaths, Christian Science practitioners, undertakers, firemen, active members of the Oregon National Guard and persons who have had six years active service in the Oregon National Guard are exempt from jury duty, as are members of the state legislature when the legislature is in session.

A citizen may be excused from acting as a juror when his health or the death or sickness of a member of his family requires his absence; when he is over 70; and when he is acting as a licensed pharmacist. Jurors are not to be required to serve for more than four weeks at a time. Jurors receive $7.50 a day for their services, plus additional sums to cover travel and to from court.
