

CI Seeking Share of NW Crown

By United Press International
Football comes to a halt for most small college football teams this week end and only one game has the possibility of deciding a conference champion.

College of Idaho can grab a share of the Northwest conference crown by defeating Whitman at Caldwell Saturday night.

Willamette, defending champion, has already clinched at least a tie for the title. The Bearcats journey to Central Washington of the Evergreen conference for a Saturday night fray.

Lewis and Clark will travel to California Poly for another Saturday night game.

With Oregon Collegiate conference play completed, champion Oregon Tech takes the week end off prior to the season's finale next Saturday at San Diego university.

Winless Oregon college entertains Lower Columbia Junior college Saturday afternoon at Monmouth and Portland State college meets Westminster at Salt Lake City.

Southern Oregon will take on Humboldt State at Ashland Saturday night and Eastern Oregon will invade Grays Harbor to test Grays Harbor Junior college also Saturday night.

HOCKEY

United Press International
Jacques Plante is winning his fight to prove that a goalie's play — as well as his looks — can be improved by a plastic mask.

The Montreal Canadiens' controversial net-minder has yielded only five goals in four games since donning the mask on Nov. 1 and Thursday night turned in his first shutout of the National Hockey league season with a 3-0 decision over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Plante had allowed 28 goals in 12 games before a severe face cut led to his wearing the mask for the first time against the New York Rangers. Montreal officials and other die-hard hockey fans — only a few of 'em goalies — had opposed the mask as "sissy stuff."

Syracuse, Texas, USC Expected to Continue Marches

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Syracuse, Texas and Southern California are expected to continue their march toward unbeaten and untied seasons while Louisiana State, Northwestern and Penn State try to rebound Saturday on a college football card filled with important conference and traditional contests.

Several of the lucrative Jan. 1 bowl berths could be decided but it's considered more likely that such close races as the Big 10, Pacific Coast Conference and Southwestern Conference battles will continue down to the final week of the campaign.

Syracuse, the new national leader, is rated a whopping 36-point choice over Colgate, Texas is rated six points over Texas Christian and Southern California is 14 points over Baylor. Indications now are that Syracuse and second-ranked Texas will go on to a Cotton Bowl showdown that would be one of the most attractive bowl pairings of all time.

Colgate has won only one of seven games while Syracuse has rolled past Kansas, Maryland, Navy, Holy Cross, West Virginia, Pittsburgh and Penn State.

TCU Coming Fast
Texas Christian has been coming fast since early-season losses to LSU and Arkansas but Texas is given the edge because of a more potent offense.

Southern California, apparently en route to a perfect season, is competing only for the national championship since it is ineligible to play in the Rose Bowl.

LSU, beaten last Saturday after 19 straight victories, is a 22-point favorite over Mississippi State Saturday night, Northwestern is six over Michigan State and Penn State is 18 points over Holy Cross. LSU still has a strong chance to play in the Sugar Bowl, Northwestern is battling Wisconsin for the Big Ten title and the visitor's Rose Bowl bid and Penn State is expected to go to either the Liberty or Gator bowls.

Wisconsin, which tied Northwestern for the Big Ten lead last Saturday, is favored by 10 points over Illinois.

Washington, which still has the inside track for the West Coast's berth in the Rose Bowl is favored by six points over California but Oregon is rated no better than even money against Washington State. Washington and Oregon are in a two-team battle for the lucrative bid because of Southern Cal's ineligibility.

Colorado Surprise Underdog
Colorado, which seized the inside track for the Big Eight's Orange Bowl bid last Saturday is a surprise underdog to a Nebraska eleven that has lost to Texas, Kansas, Indiana, Missouri and Iowa State. The Buffaloes 4-4 would be the Big Eight's bowl choice if they finished second in the race because Oklahoma is ineligible to go for a second straight time.

Clemson, which rules the Atlantic Coast Conference with seeming ease and almost certainly will receive a major post-season bowl bid, is rated 14 points over Maryland.

In other attractive pairings, Notre Dame is 3 over Pittsburgh, Southern Methodist 6 over Arkansas, Auburn 3 over Georgia, Iowa 6 over Ohio State, Duke 7 over Wake Forest, Oklahoma 7 over Army, Dartmouth 8 over Cornell, Harvard 10 over Brown, Mississippi 8 over Tennessee, Navy 27 over George Washington and Missouri 21 over Kansas State.

San Francisco —(UPI)—Sitting on a thumb of land jutting out into San Francisco Bay, a huge concrete doughnut is slowly shaping up today as the new home of the baseball Giants.

There are some resentments in San Francisco because the city did not even consult with football interests, such as the professional San Francisco 49'ers who now play in Kezar Stadium, and come up with an all-purpose stadium. If they had, the stadium could have been put to use almost on a year-round basis instead of being constructed solely for 77 home baseball games.

Two Candlestick Theories
There are two theories as to how this was named Candlestick. One is that the peninsula is shaped like a candle. The other is that in this section there once was a campaign among the residents to put candlesticks in their windows as a guide to ships and boats out in the off-fog shrouded bay.

Whatever the reason, it will be known as Candlestick Park and, come opening day next spring, 41,000 fans will jam their way into the big doughnut to cheer on the Giant team which San Francisco has taken to its heart. And, if the Giants win, there probably won't even be too much cussing about the aroma from over the hill or the traffic jam going home.
