Are the Pattersons friends of the Perkins?
Do the Browns and the Fothergills speak?
Are the Brewsters too old for the Serkins?
Isn't Forbush a bit of a freak?

Are the Lamperts a little too arty?
Have the Joneses got over their fight?
We may have a small dinner party,
If there's anyone left to invite.

—Richard Armour

You know why drive-in banks were established, don't you?—so the cars could see their real owners.

—Thomas J. Mullen

The 10-year-old was quite upset. "Gee, Mom," he said, "you're strict. You won't even let me see movies about God!"

The mother was astonished. "When did I stop you from seeing pictures about God?"
"Well, first you won't let me see 'God's Little Acre' and now you won't let me see 'And God Created Woman.'"

—Basil Wapensky

how can you miss it?

"Yes, Janet, take the same road you would if you were going to the city and keep on coming straight—but there are curves, of course. You stay on the main road for what seems ages but isn't, really. Watch for the place where there are so many acacia trees. You can recognize them by their yellow blossoms, although I'm not sure they're in bloom right now. Well, anyway, you turn there. It's a right-hand turn, but that would be left for you because you're coming from the other way. Stay on the side road for quite a few blocks—I don't know how many because they're not all cut through. When you come to Cliff Drive, you turn the way you were going when you got to the acacia trees. Oh, about those acacia trees—you'll see a lot along the highway, but don't pay any attention to them until you see the biggest bunch of all. What's that? You don't know what an acacia tree looks like? Maybe you'd better call your husband to the phone, and I'll have my husband give him directions. . . ."

"This is Bill, Joe. Take Highway No. 1 to Bay Street. Turn left on Bay to Cliff Drive, then right on Cliff to 25th Avenue. We're on the southwest corner."

—Harold Coffin

"Here's a letter from our men in the Middle East," said the manager of a giant American oil company. "They say they're short on water."

The president scowled. "Bah, they always say they're short on water."

"This time I think they mean it," the assistant said. "The stamp is stuck on with a pin."

—A. W. Stinson

It's hard to know exactly when one generation ends and the next one begins. But it's somewhere around 9 o'clock at night.
