Hedrick Junior High

By Vicki Toenniges
Medford schools were hosts for Education-Business Day last Thursday. Guests attended an orientation meeting and coffee hour and then were transported to their assigned schools.

Hedrick was the host for three businessmen who participated in Education-Business Day: Eston Humphrey of the United States National Bank; Frank Van Dyke of Van Dyke, Deilenbeck and Goodwin, attorneys; and Richard Payne of the First National Bank.

Report cards for the first nine weeks of the school year were sent home last Wednesday. These were greeted by smiles, and a few moans and groans. One student was overheard saying, "Oh well, I can smile, 'cause they won't be out again for another nine weeks."

Many boys have turned out for basketball and practices have been conducted after school this past week.

Home room Red Cross representatives have handed out membership cards and pins to all students who donated to the Red Cross. All signed the membership scroll.

The Stingers held their dance Nov. 20. It was a girl-ask-boy dance and the theme was "Dreamer's Holiday". Tickets sold for 20 cents stag and 15 cents couple. Chairmen of the committees for the dance were Rosanne Legas, decoration, publicity, and cleanup committees; Ronald Reynolds, chaperones; Linda Morse, records; Leslie Van Gordon, refreshments; Karene Miller, entertainment; and Julie Wray, tickets. Advisors for the dance were Miss Janeth Elliott, Mrs. Mary Ann Athanas, and Mrs. Glorianna Littman.

The "Atoms at Work" van, sponsored by the Atomic Energy commission, visited Hedrick Friday afternoon. It was sponsored here by the Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce to show how atomic energy could be used for peaceful purposes. All eighth and ninth grade science classes visited the van during the afternoon.

The Hedrick Future Homemakers of America held its regular noon meeting Tuesday. Special speaker was Mrs. Marge Bevel who demonstrated different hair styles for the girls. Leslie Van Gordon, Candy Kollenburg, and Wendy Hunter had their hair styled and modeled at the meeting.

All students eating in the cafeteria with birthdays during the month of November were honored at the "Birthday Table" Wednesday at lunch time.

Mrs. Edmae Adamson and her pupils made a turkey and many other artistic objects for the lunch room. The children cut out the feathers for the turkey from scraps of paper in the art room. They pasted them on the design. The students and others appreciate the efforts in making the school cafeteria so attractive. The first graders had a lesson on health and learned about all the foods that children should eat to make them strong.

The Book Cover club was organized Friday. The members are four sixth grade girls. They are Martha Anderson, Cheryl Hall, Deborah Neff and Julie Nelson. Marge Hart, our school secretary, taught the group how to cover books.

Members of the Drama club are busy preparing two plays. The Thanksgiving one is called, "Colonial School Days," and the other is "A Prince Is Where You Find Him."

Mike Farthing, president of the student body, and Martha Anderson, vice president, met the three businessmen Thursday and escorted them to Mr. Robert Sage's office. Mr. Sage, the principal, gave them an overall view of the school. They visited class rooms of different grade levels and ate their lunches in the cafeteria with the children and teachers.

Tuesday, Nov. 24, a student body meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Our National Assembly program will follow the student body business meeting.

Robert Wobbe's science classes prepared outstanding exhibits and experiments recently. Many visitors have been dropping in to view them.

The sixth grade chorus composed of 65 students, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Hamilton, are practicing on musical numbers they will give at the next Roosevelt Parent-Teachers association meeting in December.

The boys and girls in Mrs. Lois Sullivan's and Mrs. Olive Manley's rooms are making turkeys to send to Camp White to decorate trays for the residents on Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Marguerite Black's pupils are classifying rocks. The pupils have made a rock collection for their rooms. Many children got an idea and started their own rock collections. They have discovered many unusual rocks in their own front yards.

Mrs. Maurine Shore's fifth grade class made book posters for "Book Week." There were posters on horses, dogs, Pilgrimage, life, mysteries, and even some on children. Most of the posters were good.

Mrs. Laura Patterson's fifth grade class is testing rocks for limestone in their science class. To test them they used vinegar and hydrochloric acid. They put the rocks in groups of hardness and softness.

Mrs. Grace Brownlee's sixth grade made Thanksgiving pictures on newspaper and then outlined them with a black color crayon.

Erick Nordahl, from Ronald McKenna's sixth grade room, has become a citizen of the United States. He was formerly a Canadian. Erick has lived in the United States for two years.

Mrs. Lois Webb's third grade has been studying crystals. They have done experiments on how crystals are formed. One experiment showed them how frost is formed. They also studied salt crystals.

Mrs. Artha Metz's third grade has been making plays out of some of their reading stories. They have been learning more about the space age from their Weekly Reader. The pupils have also collected leaves and butterflies and are learning how to identify them.
