By EVALYN P. WATSON
Shady Cove-Trail - At a recent meeting of the Shady Cove Rotary club at the Rogue River Lodge the guest speaker was Richard Courtwright, attorney with the firm of Courtwright & Day, Medford, who gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the pitfalls of legal procedures and technicalities.

Following his talk a question period was held with many and varied questions on different phases of legal action being asked and answered.

Walker of Medford. The baby, born Nov. 25 at the Rogue Valley Memorial hospital, is the couple's third child. She has been named Pamela.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burdett of Shady Cove and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Walker of Medford. Mrs. Minnie Barker of Sandy, Ore., is a great-grandmother to the baby. The Burdett's now have seven grandchildren.

Department Benefits From Dry Weather

The Jackson county roads department is benefiting from the long dry fall, Engineer Paul Rynning said this week.

The grading of 3 1/2 miles of road in the Howard-Prairie area has been completed, he said, and rock surfacing is three-quarters finished. Good weather conditions have put the project way ahead of schedule. The crews do not expect to complete the project this year.

The department recently moved its rock crusher from the Howard Prairie area to the Old Military bridge on Rogue river, Rynning said. Another project is grading and rock work on the south fork of the Rogue river in preparation for the new bridge to be started there next year.

Pat Lloyd, San Diego, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Williams, Shady Cove. Pat, a former resident of Shady Cove, lived here about 12 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Williams bought the property from him that he later sold to the Catholic church in Shady Cove as well as a large piece of other property there.

Douglas Frisbie, Roseburg, accompanied by his friend, Wayne Star, also of Roseburg, visited at the home of Doug's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Burdett of Shady Cove over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark of Big Butte creek, Trail, have just returned from a trip to Modesto, Calif., where they visited with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cline and en route home stopped off in Grass Valley where they visited with Mrs. Clark's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Weisbrod, and her brother and his wife, Mr. and

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke of Tacoma, Wash., have been visiting their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Karner of California-on-the-Rogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chamberlain of Trail returned from their trip to Rye, N.Y., about the middle of November and since then have made a trip, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lawson, to Boise, Idaho, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Nesbitt. Mrs. Nesbitt is a sister of Mrs. Chamberlain and Mrs. Lawson. The Lawsons, who stayed at the Chamberlains' home while they were on their trip to New York, left this week for their home in Palo Alto and will also visit in Ukiah, Calif., with Mr. Lawson's brother. Then they plan on going down to Topanga Springs, Ariz.

Many Good Ways with Popular Waldorf Salads

Waldorf salad has long been on the preferred list of salads at this time of year. A natural when we have an abundance of apples, celery and nuts. First we give you standard Waldorf recipe; then suggest some quick and delectable changes.

Take six tart red apples, pare or not as you wish, and cut into bite-size pieces. Cut enough celery to make 1 1/2 cups. Chop one-quarter to one-half cup walnuts. Combine all three ingredients with real mayonnaise and you a basic Waldorf salad.

—Instead of walnuts, use toasted almonds, black walnuts, pecans or filberts.

—Add little white grapes or halves of rich dark grapes that have been seeded.

—Hold out two well-formed stalks of crisp celery and stuff them with chunky-style peanut butter. Slice stalks slantwise into one-quarter crescents. Salt these well and use as salad garnish.

—If you're not a weight watcher, try mixing a liberal amount of whipped cream with the mayonnaise with maybe just a touch of sugar and pure vanilla extract. —Many like to combine mayonnaise and sour cream, half and half for salad dressing.

—Garnish with doppel of mayonnaise with bright grape, walnut, maraschino cherry or pecan halves for extra dress-up.

Spiced Walnuts
Welcome Anywhere
Plenty of Oregon walnuts for making of fragrant fruit-nut breads, cookies, chewy bars, rich desserts, creamy candies and myriad other goodies. Here we spice them for home partying, for sharing.

2 cups beet sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons ginger
1 teaspoon cloves
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons water
2 cups walnut halves

Measure sugar, salt and spices into a paper or plastic bag; shake well until blended. Beat egg whites until foamy; add water. Pour over the walnut halves and mix to dampen all surfaces of the nuts. Drain off excess egg white. Shake dampened walnuts with spiced sugar. Spread mixture into flat pan, separating nuts.

Bake one hour in 300 degree oven. Cool; shake off excess sugar. The spiced sugar remaining may be stored in a tightly covered jar and used again.

Candied Citrus Peels With Gay Variations
Candied orange and lemon peels have long been a holiday delight. There's a traditional way with them that takes several days. Then there's this short and easy way that's done with honey. Honey needs watching to prevent scorching . . . so watch it!

Peel from 3 oranges or 6 lemons
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup water

Cover peel with water; add salt. Boil one half hour; drain. Cover again with water; boil until tender; drain. Cut peel in strips. Bring sugar, honey and water to boil. Cook peel at low temperature to gently absorb most of the syrup. Cool several hours; drain. Spread out to dry on rack or waxed paper until surface syrup has been absorbed—one day or more. Store in covered container.

Colored Peel. Add red or green vegetable coloring to syrup.

Spiced Peel. Add a little cinnamon or clove to syrup. Tie spices in cloth to prevent darkening peel.

Chocolate Peel. Coat peel with melted dipping chocolate.

Whole Shells. Cut top from orange and remove fruit from shell. Candy shell allowing three to four times as much syrup or enough to cover completely. These shells may be used as containers in which to make a favorite fruit cake or for holders for nuts or candy.

It isn't a minute too soon

(and if you think otherwise, run, don't walk to the nearest calendar) for winding up that gift list as well as for seeing that the family is adequately fed. Fancy foods will be welcomed by anybody and everybody. For sharing, there's nothing with which to compare them.

Major fancy food categories and a partial list of items will give you some notion of the possibilities; to list them all would fill a newspaper column.

Consider cocktail meats and fish . . . caviar (red, white, black, Beluga, etc.) . . . cocktail spreads, tidbits, snacks, preparations, nuts . . . cheese products (maybe with cognac, kirsch, mustard, sherry, caraway) . . . candy in ways beyond numbering . . . condiments, seasonings, chutneys and the like . . . cookies, biscuits, assortments, shortbread.

Exotic Foods
Exotic foods like fried baby bees, roast caterpillar, smoked frogs legs, rattlesnake meat, chocolate covered ants . . . fish and seafood (in butter, with truffles or octopus, smoked filets of swordfish, lobster Thermidor, king crab, brook trout) . . . hors d'oeuvres (artichoke hearts, antipasto, tiny shrimp, shad roe, Bombay duck, etc.) . . . fancy fruits (papayas, branched cherries, kumquats, etc.) . . . National foods are many:

Scandinavian, Chinese, Japanese, Kosher, German, Italian, Dutch, French, Mexican, Spanish, etc. . . meat products (Canadian bacon, Virginia ham, smoked turkey, whole quab, frogs legs, pheasant, etc.) . . . olives, pickles, jellies, honey (a hundred delights) . . . salad dressings and sauces of rare distinction.

Soups of exquisite flavor (shrimp, Vichyssoise, turtle) . . . vegetables such as hearts of palm, petit pois, wild rice to but hint at possibilities . . . vintage wines . . . desserts, syrups, puddings (Nesselrode, plum pudding, babas, crepes, brandied mincemeat).

Consider also the galaxy of new cookbooks, fish servers, cheese servers, fancy doilies, and napkins of many kinds and size, party picks, candies . . . pots and pans!

We're at the bottom of the market report column — so the family will just have to shift for itself. For best buys, see newspaper ads, store displays.

Steel Management Rejects Ike's Call

Washington — (UP) — Steel management's chief negotiator today rejected President Eisenhower's call for round-the-clock negotiations in an effort to end the marathon steel dispute.
