Jackson County Men to Appear on Congress Panels

Jackson county men will appear on panels during the Oregon Logging Congress scheduled for Eugene Feb. 25, 26 and 27. It was announced Friday night at a meeting of the Southern Oregon Association and Tree Farm Association in the Jackson hotel.

Dale Prentice, secretary-manager of SOCTFA will appear on a panel of "What is adequate fire protection?" He will outline a cooperative plan of fire protection. Bob Nelson, Timber Products, will appear on the same panel to talk on the importance of slash burning.

Theme of the conference is "from stump to dump." Lausmann's Lousy Loggers, an instrumental music group, has been invited to attend the congress. The group was organized by A. A. Lausmann, owner of Kosag Lumber Industries, South Pacific highway. Its members are in the local lumber industry.

Russ Jamison, public relations for SOCTFA, reported that he is working on "Tree Farm News Notes," a periodical for the association. A local radio station is also planning a news program with features of the lumber industry.

Prentice reported he had recently attended the Pacific Logging conference and learned that Senate Bill 1737 is now in a house committee. This bill would be dangerous, if passed, to such radio networks as Roxy Radio operator by SOCTFA, he said. It would allow the Federal Communications Commission to assume legislative, executive, and judicial functions, Prentice said. Under the proposed bill it could set regulations, fines and establish a policing system.

Few Christmas tree cutting arrests have occurred, he reported. Roxy Radio network has assisted in rapid apprehension of those cutting trees without a permit, he noted. Posting of lands has had "a drastic affect," he said.

Thompson was unable to stop in time, state police said.

Minor damage occurred. Mrs. Bliss was informed by police that a complaint would be filed against her in district court for failure to yield the right of way.

Firemen Saturday were also called to put out a trash fire at the Eighth st. bridge construction. No trash fires are allowed to burn in that area after dark, they said.

Jacksonville—American Legion Centennial Post No. 100, Jacksonville, was chartered by national headquarters at ceremonies here Friday night.

An estimated 175 Legionnaires, auxiliary members and visitors attended the event, which included a smorgasbord sponsored by Jackson v i l l e firms.

Past District Commander Keegan Townsend, Medford, was master of ceremonies and present district commander, Bill Friend, Grants Pass, conducted the business meeting.

Other department officers included District Vice Commander Cliff Connors, Grants Pass; Mrs. William Friend, district auxiliary president, Grants Pass; and Mrs. Earl Bigelow, department vice president, Medford.

Rotary's Purposes Outlined for Club

Rotary's purpose in 1959 was to eliminate the idea that might be right and to create a better relationship between nations.

The purpose was outlined by E. B. Lemon, district governor of Rotary International, who was principal speaker at the Dec. 1 meeting of the Medford Rotary club.

Lemon's speech had to do with this year's slogan of Rotary International, "Building Bridges of Friendship."

He pointed out the influence of Rotary in the world today due to its world-wide membership of one half million persons. He said there were delegates from 66 countries at the New York Rotary convention last spring.

In a telegram to the International Convention of Rotary, President Eisenhower hailed them as a great force for peace, Lemon said. He said that Rotary has been helpful in settling labor disputes, and can even take some credit for settling a border dispute between Ecuador and Peru, which had been a problem for nearly a hundred years.

At the present time, he said, Rotary is sponsoring nearly 150 men and women who are taking post-graduate studies in foreign countries.

He was introduced at the meeting by William Caldwell, Medford, past district governor.

BLM, Mill Owners Battle Over Road

Corvallis—UPI—A battle between Benton county mill owners and the Bureau of Land Management may be carried to Washington, D.C., the mill owners indicated here Friday.

Ralph Hull, owner of a sawmill at Dawson in south Benton county, said he and others were considering a trip to the nation's capital to meet with Edward Woolzey, national director of the Bureau of Land Management.

At issue was the location of a timber access road that would tap some 210 million board feet of Oregon and California counties' timber managed by the BLM.

The mill owners contended the road should emerge at Dawson over existing private roads, but BLM has mapped a new road that would come out two miles south of Dawson, nearer the Eugene markets.
