Greece, Source of Government, Seventh Stop on Ike's Travels

By United Press International
President Eisenhower's seventh stop is in a nation slightly larger than New York state which gave the western world the foundations of its government, its art and architecture, its philosophy, its science, its political thought. It also gave the West its first post-war victory over Communism.

Greece points like an outspread hand into the wine-dark Mediterranean Sea, dripping jewels from its fingertips to form islands. This cluster of mountains, deep-cut bays and tiny islands became in the centuries before Christ the seat of culture which formed the basis for Western civilization. Dig deep under almost any aspect of modern life and you will find Greece.

Land of Wonder
It is the land of gods; of Mount Olympus and its Zeus-led tenants; of Homer, Plato, Aristotle, Aristophanes and countless other demigods of thought and literature; of Alexander the Great and Spartan courage; of the Olympiad and the first marathon run.

The Greeks had a word for it, and their Golden Age produced a civilization which is still the wonder of the world. Its architecture and art are still revered and copied; its monuments still rank among man's greatest achievements. The Acropolis and the Parthenon, the temples at Paestum, the sculptures of Delphi, the vases of Attica, crumbling Doric and Ionic columns, the Winged Victory of Sathothrace—all remain targets at which lesser civilizations aim.

But Greece is not all history, and not all Golden. Its 8,130,000 people are rich in antiquities and comparatively poor in spendable wealth. Its forests are denuded, its manufacturing almost nil, its agricultural dependent on the arable 1/4 of the country.

Settles Cyprus Dispute
But the Greeks are used to fighting. They fought the Romans in 46 B.C. and lost, fought the Ottoman Turks in 1453 and lost, fought for their independence in 1830 and won.

They fought the Italians in 1940 and were winning when Nazi Germany moved in to beat them. After World War Two, they fought a bitter guerilla war against local Communists who attempted to seize the government.

Greece is governed by a royal couple as popular as anywhere: King Paul, 58, and Queen Frederika. Its prime minister, 42-year-old Constantine Karamanlis, is a tough anti-Communist friend of the West. With the dispute with Turkey over Cyprus settled, Greece is taking its place in the councils of the West.

Stores in Russia Draw Big Crowds; Merchandise Poor

Social life in the Soviet is completely different from that followed by most Americans. There are no church clubs or circles for either men or women, no service clubs as Lions, Kiwanis, 20-30 or Rotary. Neither are there fraternal organizations such as Eagles, Redmen, Knights of Columbus, Elks or Masons. Luncheon and dinner meetings and programs, which are a part of our way of life, are completely absent in Soviet social life. When we conversed, students reported that their parents on occasion would meet at each other's apartments for visiting, chess, and to listen to music programs or to observe television. We were told that the Communist party sponsors meetings for both youth and adults on matters relating to the nation's welfare. Citizens—both men and women—are encouraged—in fact—expected—to attend.

Divorce Difficult

In studying Soviet history one finds that many social patterns and attitudes have completely reversed themselves in the past decade. They have moved from a free flowing type of morality and social custom to one of "near puritanism". Divorces are extremely difficult to obtain. The U.S.S.R. now has one of the lowest divorce rates of any country. One sociologist was critical of existing divorce laws. He considered them too strict in that they were forcing incompatible parents to live together which often resulted in their children becoming emotionally disturbed and resulting in maladjustment.

Night clubs with "girl shows" and motion pictures based on sex appeal are banned. Jazz type of music is considered unacceptable and is not to be found on available records or sheet music. Conduct which relates to sex, such as petting, love making, or even holding hands is considered uncultured and not to be seen in public places. Those with whom we discussed this type of conduct merely answered, "it is bad," or "it just isn't done."

It was interesting to find that the U.S.S.R. sets aside one day in the spring as "Woman's Day". On this occasion every woman in the Soviet is expected to take a complete holiday and respite from her work and duties. It is considered a paid holiday for them and various types of programs and activities are carried out in their honor.

A typical family in the U.S.S.R. has a limited choice of entertainment. While operas, ballets, circuses and sports programs are quality productions and well attended, they are not readily available to the majority of citizens. Transportation problems and costs limit attendance. Since these programs are under government sponsorship they are rigidly censored and controlled.

Museums, of which there are many, are well attended. They offer the Soviet people entertainment at a very low cost. We found many parks, large and small, in every city. Even the small rural communities had parks and zoos and sizeable crowds using the failities. Only a few American cities have museums comparable to those observed in the U.S.S.R. Our parks and zoos compare most favorably to theirs. We have far more places for family and group picnics.

More Cars Than Expected

There were far more private cars in Russia than we had anticipated. Yet in comparison to America, few families have the use of cars to go places and travel on week ends and vacations.

Those interested in reading for recreation will find only books and magazines which have been censored and approved by Soviet officials. No American books, magazines, or newspapers of any type are available except those which are critical of our way of life. The people appear to be prodigious readers. It seems that there were several bookstores or stands in every block. It was not unusual to observe dozens of people, mostly men, reading in the parks. Copies of the newspapers are posted daily on the walls of buildings. Again, it was not unusual to find people standing in line in order that they might have an opportunity to read the news. With the government censoring and limiting publications, citizens do not have the opportunity for choice and variety that we have. The cost of reading material of all types was very reasonable; however, the quality of the printing and paper used was considerably below our standards.

Apparently the Communist officials are concerned about recreation and leisure time activities for their people. They have provided a variety of activities in the form of public entertainment such as opera, ballet, circus, sports contests, youth and adult rallies, public parks, radio, television, motion pictures, and quantities of reading material to fill this need and demand for things to do. In terms of the average American's expectations, the Soviet program is limited and would be considered boring. How long the Communist leaders will be able to contain the masses by censoring all programs, and referring to things many people would like to see, hear, and read but are now denied as being uncultured and unpatriotic, is a question that history will have to answer.

New Cigarette Found Lowest in Tar, Nicotine

Washington, D.C.: The United States Government has just received a special report which shows that a new filter cigarette—today's new Life—has achieved the least tar and nicotine ever attained. This report, filed with the government in the public interest, supersedes all previous ratings.

Achieves Least Tar, Nicotine
Following accepted research practice, the table shown at left omits all brand names except the one lowest in tar and nicotine—new Life. One of the scientists who developed new Life, Mr. Thomas Wade, said in an interview:

"This new advance was largely due to one factor—the super-absorbent Miltecel Filter developed for Life Cigarettes. With this new filter, Life has been able to achieve the least tar and nicotine of any cigarette made, as shown by the filter ratings on file with the U.S. Government."

Report to Government Welcomed
Life has set a new standard of tar and nicotine reduction. Life scientists have also developed new taste enrichment which delivers full flavor never before possible in a filter cigarette.

Smokers, acting on the new ratings filed with the U.S. Government, are changing to new Life . . . for the least tar and nicotine in history.
