TOP PIRATE - Jack Hoff

buhr, stellar guard, above, gleamed the individual honors Wednesday at a Phoenix high school banquet. He was named most inspirational player, outstanding senior, best tackler and best downfield blocker for the Pirates who reached the Oregon A2 semi-finals.

Bob Layne Inks For Lifetime

Pittsburgh —UPI— Quarter-back Bobby Layne, closing out his 12th season in the National Football League, signed a "lifetime" contract Wednesday with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Whatever the number of seasons the veteran signal-caller may have left in him, the contracts call for them all to be played with the Steelers. Salary terms were not disclosed.

"I play year to year," the 32-year-old Texan drawled. "But I hope to have three or four more seasons of football in me."

Layne added that he had stated previously that "Pittsburgh would be my last stop."

SPORTS

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

There weren't too many of the Robinhood clan out last week end and no one could blame them for not being too optimistic in the face of one of the driest falls on record. Things are getting so dry that it wouldn't be too surprising if our wintertime fish started showing up with dry, chapped skins. Sometimes it's hard to be optimistic because just when we resolve some man made situation that's hard on fish or game, then old mother nature steps in and knocks out our accomplishments with one blow.

SPRING CHINOOK

Cole Rivers, our local game biologist, is in the process of completing his yearly report to the game commission and he has some very interesting things to say regarding the spring chinook run on the Rogue River. The 1959 run, which is the returning group of fish which were hatched and washed out by the 1955 flood, made an 88.8 per cent return. This means that the 15,000 or so fish that were counted over the ladder this year were less than the parent run. A 100 per cent return would mean that they equaled the parent run, which numbered over 16,000 fish.

FEW STRAGGLERS

The low summer flows and high water temperatures which characterized the Rogue this year are factors which stimulated an early migration of these fish to the upper parts of the run above Rogue-Elk and caused a higher count than was expected earlier in the season. The rush of fish to the upper river would leave very few stragglers below the counting station as would normally be at the same time of another year. These facts are obtained by an aerial survey of the river in the fall to determine population density and placement of spawning beds.

SHORTER SEASON

At the present time there is a move afoot to ask the game commission to shorten the season by 15 days. This would mean that the salmon season in the upper river would close on the 1st of July. Local sportsman groups are considering this as an attempt to help the spring chinook run regain some of its strength. Undoubtedly there will be opposition to this by individuals and groups who will feel that this is an infringement on their rights. It is hoped that they will not be able to set aside their selfish interests in light of the need to protect these fish when they reach their spawning areas and when they are especially vulnerable to the fisherman.

WHY FOR?

Reasons for a shorter season are to be found from the facts available catch data. In 1958 there was a total of 1825 fish caught above Gold Hill. Of this total there were 1725 fish caught above Gold Ray dam. This number amounted to 11 per cent of the total run of salmon over Gold Ray dam. According to the man who knows, the low numbers of fish comprising the yearly runs makes this percentage an excessive amount. The heaviest catch of the season was made in the Shady Cove to MacLeod area after the fish had established themselves near their spawning beds. Since the fish start holding up near their spawning riffles about the 20th of June, a 15 day cutoff on the season in the upper Rogue would chop the catch by about 20 per cent.

SNAGGERS AGAIN

If they didn't exist we wouldn't have to talk about them, but one of the best reasons for shortening the salmon season is that July is the month when salmon snappers start crawling out from under the rocks in epidemic numbers. There is no way of knowing how many salmon are taken by this stastistic form of fishing. The fish that are caught this way are not displayed to the public but are hidden because of the crime they show themselves victim of. Then there are the numbers of fish that get off the snapper's hook and swim away to die without being benefit to anyone, not even their own race. By closing the season by the 1st of July, the spring chinook will be protected when they are most easily caught and when the snagging method is most effective.

THE ANGLER'S LOG

A fishing report during the present dry period is a withering thing in that most of the steelhead are still way down river or aren't in a biting mood because of the cold water.

Klamath River—Reports indicate things are quite slow because of cold, cold water. A few fish are being dredged up but it's an all day job with very little action.

Rogue River—The Rogue is open below Mule creek and reports keep coming up from Agness and Illahe concerning lots of big fish holed up down there. Fish up to 12 and 14 pounds are being caught.

Illinois River—The Illinois is still low and clear of very many fish. A few have been caught but most of the fish are held back by a falls 5 miles up from the mouth and another one about 15 miles up.

Smith River—There are reports of some fish caught below the 101 highway bridge just above tide water. The rain hasn't hit the California coast yet and the fish won't move until then. The Chetco river has had some rain and has fish moving in it for those who can make the trip.

THE OPTIMISTIC CORNER

I think the weatherman's convinced of our problem. He's been trying to get it to rain for several days now. Don't discourage him.

GOOD LUCK!

Portland Firm Low Bidders on Dam Job

Walla Walla —UPI— Montag Halvorson, McLaughlin and Associates of Portland was apparent low bidder at $32,381,096 Thursday for completion of the north shore construction work at John Day dam on the Columbia river.

Runner-up was a joint offer by Ostrander Construction Co. and Guy F. Atkinson Co. of San Francisco at $34,725,410. Henry J. Kaiser Heavy Construction Co., Oakland, was third low at $36,418,995. Government estimate was $33,918,682.

It is expected that the north shore project will be completed about August of 1962.

SEC Attorney Dies In 23-Story Plunge

New York —UPI— Edward O. B. Reid, a senior attorney for the Securities and Exchange Commission, jumped off 23 stories to his death Thursday from the SEC offices here, police said.

He was in the midst of a major investigation, according to Paul Windels, SEC regional director.

Windels described the 55-year-old bachelor as a "sensitive man, extremely dedicated to the work of the commission . . . and carrying an extreme workload."

State Prison Machine Shop Foreman Dies

Salem —UPI— The foreman of the Oregon state prison machine shop, Fred M. Phillips, died Thursday. He was 65.

Phillips was foreman for the last 18 years.

He was a stepbrother of the late Oregon Gov. Earl Snell.

Guatemala is the only one of the Central American republics that is still predominantly Indian.

School News

Gold Hill Schools

The second edition of the Hanby High Lights, a school newspaper was circulated recently. The project has, through Walter Doherty, eighth grade teacher at Hanby, become a part of this year's curriculum in conjunction with the language and arts classes.

Students of the sixth, seventh and eighth grade classes submit material to the departments to be edited. Eighth grade pupils working on the paper are Ogden Kellogg, editor in chief; Dave Force, news editor; Barbara Schatz, book review editor; Lorraine Hixon, feature editor; Sherman Keiger, sports editor; Bob Turner and Barbara Beck, sharing art and make up copy. Duane Zander is distribution manager and Penny Flenner is business manager.

The student council of the Hanby school mailed a check of $25 to UNICEF for aid to needy children of other lands. The student body also selected the picture "The Living Desert," as its treat to the Patrick and Hanby schools to be shown Dec. 23, principal of Gold Hill schools Gilbert Mack reported.

The fifth grade pupils sponsored a skating party at Grants Pass recently. Teachers accompanying the youngsters on the buses were Mrs. Ida von Buskirk, Mrs. Shirley Anderson and Leon Myers.

Skating parties are held the first Friday each month. The buses leave at 6:20 and return at 10 p.m. only elementary students, including the fourth through eighth grades, are permitted to ride the school buses, the principal said, and parents are requested to pick up youngsters when the buses return to school.

Hanby will attend a basketball jamboree at Elk Trail, today, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Students that wish to go may ride the school buses.

The first basketball game is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 18, at Talent at 4 p.m. Coaches are Leon Myers and Lynn Burnston.

A new public address system has been purchased by the student body and will be installed in time for the Christmas program Tuesday, Dec. 22, at 7:30 p.m.

The annual turkey dinner will be financed by the Gold Hill Parent Teacher association. Mrs. Arthur Boye will furnish desert for the dinner which will be held Wednesday, Dec. 23, in the Hanby school's cafeteria for students of both schools.

The PTA will sponsor the appearance of Santa Claus following the school program and treats will be given each child. Named to work on this committee were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Estremado, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Foley and Mrs. Robert Smith, supervised by Mrs. Leonard McMahan, vice president of the unit.

Mrs. Donald Meister, membership chairman, reports that 92 have joined the PTA. She said the membership drive will continue through the Jan. 14 meeting of the unit, at which time those who have not joined may still do so.

There will be no December meeting of the PTA.

Mrs. Charles Rosecrans and Mrs. Melvin Johnson plan to sew costumes to be worn by students appearing in the Christmas program. The school's student body furnished the material.

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Elmhurst, Ill.—State Prosecutor William Bauer, indicating he was not surprised at the acquittal of Mrs. Willia Moniz, mother of five, on charges of killing her husband's mistress: "A mother of five kills her husband's lover—then goes to trial right before Christmas. I hope I never have to try another one like that."

Los Angeles—Gov. John Burroughs of New Mexico, stating that he is not a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination for either president or vice president: "I'm the only one who isn't. I guess. But you couldn't get me out of New Mexico for anything. I like living there too well."

Chicago—Frank Wollney, field service director of the National Poultry Institute, noting that Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Arthur Flemming's ban on chickens treated with a certain sex hormone applies to less than 2 per cent of the nation's chickens: "We're still taking all steps to see that this doesn't become another cranberry situation."

New Delhi—President Eisenhower, urging an end to suspicion, aggression and armed force in a speech before the Indian Parliament: "Can we not join in a five year or a fifty-year plan against mistrust and misgiving and fixation on the wrongs of the past?"

New Directors Are Welcomed to Club

Ashland —Dr. Earl Lawson, retiring president of the Siskiyou Knife and Fork club, welcomed four new directors at a board meeting here this week.

New directors are Dr. John T. Weisel, Medford; Mrs. Ralph Burgess, Ashland; Wallace Iverson, Medford; and Mrs. Richard Westberg, Ashland. Mrs. Frances Worth was named to fill the unexpired term of Miss Gertrude Engle, and Dr. Edward E. Brown was appointed to complete the one-year term of Chester Corry.

Dr. Brown was elected president. Dr. R. L. Burdick will serve as vice president. The next regular dinner meeting will be Jan. 26, when Toni Gauer of Switzerland will present a musical program.

Eagle Point Band To Present Concert

Eagle Point —The Eagle Point High school band, under the direction of Charles Martin, will present its annual band "Pops" concert in the Eagle Point grade school gymnasium Sunday, Dec. 13, at 3 p.m.

A fall Christmas theme has been selected for decorations and music. Refreshments will be served during intermission. Tickets will be available at the door.

The high school band has played for most of the home football games and have been getting considerable experience in marching this year. Members of the band are Paul Evers, Victor Everett, Lana McGraw, James Wheeler, Sandy Smith, Frances Huffman, Joanna Malloroy, Karen Jossey, Frank Dyball, Molly Gregg, Ann Higday, Barbara Lacy, Teresa Pruitt, Susan Eastia, Connie Gregg, Judy Murphy, Kathi Murphy, Shannon Matthews, Lucille Perry, Ruth Millard, Phyllis Peck, Don Benson, Ed Hancum, Raymond Johnson, and Gary Sheldon.
