More Local Control Over Welfare Seen

Klamath Falls - (UPI) - More local public control over public welfare programs in Oregon seemed a possibility today after a week end meeting of the Legislative Interim committee on Public Welfare here.

Klamath county doctors argued against "rigid rules and regulations without realism." Jean Jewett, state welfare administrator, said she felt that the state administration could delegate some power to local levels without jeopardizing federal matching funds.

Rogue River Native Prefers Utah Prison

Point of Mountain, Utah - (UPI) - A 42-year-old Utah state prison inmate suspected of masterminding last year's counterfeiting and narcotics ring at the prison said today he would rather stay where he is than go back to Oregon. Inmate Gordon S. Little, who has spent the last 11 months in isolation for his alleged part in the counterfeiting and narcotics racket, said he will refuse to sign waiver of extradition papers received from Oregon authorities.

The Utah Board of Pardons has terminated his sentence to an Oregon hold on Jan. 19, 1960. If he is returned to his home state - he was born in Rogue River, Ore. - he faces longer terms in the Oregon prison on a habitual criminal charge.

Chessman Denied Hearing by Court

Washington - (UPI) - The Supreme Court today denied another hearing to Caryl Chessman, who for 11 1/2 years has been forestalling death in California gas chamber by legal maneuvering from his prison cell.

The brief order means California is again free to carry out the execution. The former "red light bandit" of Los Angeles had asked the court to either free him permanently or grant him a new trial. Chessman was convicted under California's Little Lindbergh law in 1948 on 17 counts of kidnapping, robbery and sexual assault.

Salem - (UPI) - The State Water Resources Board has announced Jan. 5 as date for a hearing here on the application of Pacific Northwest Power Company for a license to build high Mountain Sheep dam on the Snake river.
