

Change of Scene May Help Cure Skin Eruptions

Chicago (Science Service) — A change of scene or workmen's compensation may be more potent in curing a skin eruption than the best treatment the dermatologist can offer.

In case histories of some 3,000 industrial workers point to at least 30 reasons why a patient's skin may not clear up after the original cause is removed, Dr. George E. Morris of Tuft Medical school reported recently.

He told scientists attending the American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilology meeting here that workmen's compensation seems to slow the recovery of some patients. They find they can receive almost as much money by not working as they did while working. Another patient had suffered a disabling dermatitis for two years which cleared quickly when he learned that only healthy workers would be transferred to another location.

Reasons Listed
Other reasons given by Dr. Morris concerning why a patient may fail to respond to treatment are:

1. Serious nervous upset;
 2. Sensitivity to chemicals, particularly to one structurally related to the chemical that caused the original eruption;
 3. Vitamin deficiencies; and
 4. Excessive heat or cold.
- Over-treatment and the use of certain antibiotics can also influence the patient's response, Dr. Morris said.

Republican Wins Iowa Election

Des Moines, Iowa — (UPI) — Republican John Kyl, who staked his campaign on President Eisenhower's "Crusade for Peace," won the race for congressman from Iowa's 4th District Tuesday in a victory over an "anti-Benson" Democratic opponent.

Republican leaders immediately hailed the election as an indication the GOP is on its way to victory in 1960. Kyl, 40, a big, husky TV newscaster with a "self sell" approach, buried Democrat C. Edwin Gilmour as he captured 12 of the 14 counties in the district and even badly dented the Democratic industrial strongholds.

Unofficial returns from 311 of the 313 precincts gave Kyl 28,020 votes to 25,610 for Gilmour.

Pope Formally Bestows Red Hats

Vatican City — (UPI) — Pope John XXIII formally bestowed the red hats of office on seven of eight new cardinals of the church today and indicated he intends to name more in the future. The eighth cardinal received his red hat in France.

The pope presided in the Vatican Palace Hall of Consistories at another in a week-long series of ceremonies which end Thursday for the new cardinals, including two Americans. The additions bring the sacred college's number to a record high of 79.

The new American cardinals are Archbishop of Chicago Albert G. Meyer and Archbishop-Bishop Aloisius Muench of Fargo, N.D.

No citations were issued in the 4 p.m. accident.
