

Formal Notice to Be Published on Surface Rights

The U.S. forest service has requested the bureau of land management to publish a formal public notice regarding the determination of surface right on mining claims in the Ashland "A" and Applegate "B" areas, which will appear in local newspapers for nine consecutive weeks.

In addition, a copy of such notice will be delivered to persons whose names and addresses are determined as provided in the new law. The owner of a mining claim located prior to July 23, 1955, will have 150 days after the first publication to assert surface rights if he chooses to do so, the forest service said.

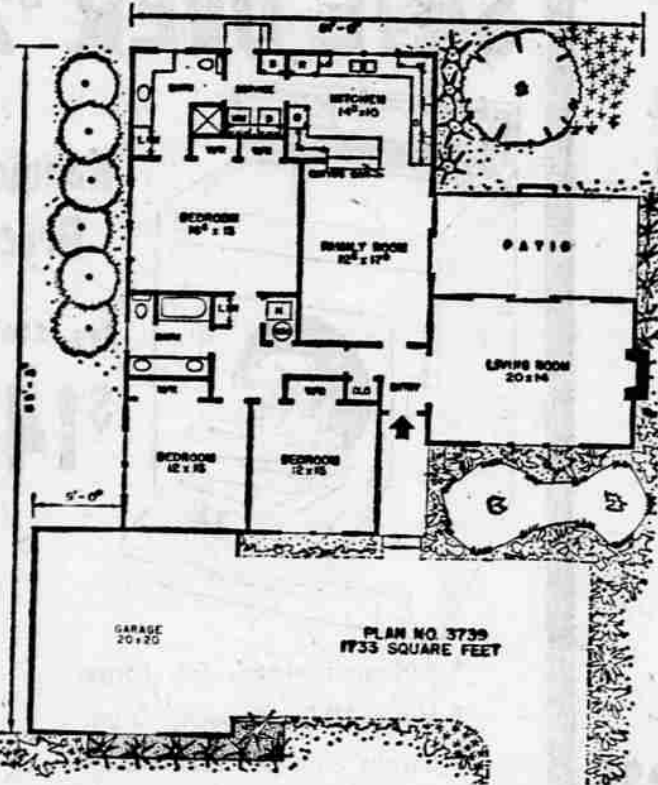

A claimant may ignore the notices, thereby waiving rights to the surface until the claim goes to patent, yet maintaining his original mining rights. The claimant may file a verified statement asserting his rights to the surface. In that case, his claim will be examined by mineral examiners.

Recognize Valid Rights
If his rights are considered valid, the forest service will probably recognize such rights and not attempt to establish the public's rights to control the surface resources under the new law, the forest service said.

Claims of questionable validity will be considered before a hearing officer of the bureau of land management, department of the interior, which will make the final decision. Both the claimant and the forest service will present their testimony at the hearing.

Whatever the decision, the claimant will retain his mineral rights. If the decision is in the claimant's favor, he also retains all surface rights.

Maps of the Ashland "A" and Applegate "B" areas now being published and copies of the Multiple-Use Mining law of July 23, 1959, and of the procedure for the determination of surface rights set up by the law are available for inspection at the forest supervisor's office, post office

This Week's Home For Living—

Mr. and Mrs. Home Builder, here is the home you said you most preferred—as close to the ideal American home as you can get. It was designed to specification that you have requested in several surveys. Your favorite features and ideas have been incorporated throughout the house.

All bedrooms are extra large and will easily accommodate twin beds. A very small space has been used for hallway, yet there is excellent circulation from the sheltered entry to all rooms.

Besides the entry and broom closets, there are two wide linen closets. Additional storage has been provided beneath the large pullman lavatories in each bath. The three-quarter bath is conveniently located next to the master bedroom where it is also easily accessible to the kitchen and rear yard—very handy in the event a swimming pool is built.

Note the wall cabinet over the washer and dryer. The kitchen also has an unusual amount of both wall-hung and base cabinets. With the newest in built-ins, your daily tasks in the kitchen are lightened, less time consuming and certainly more enjoyable. The kitchen is separated from the family room with a built-in eating bar.

For those who desire a fireplace in the family room, one can be built in the corner, next to the centrally located forced air heater and water heater closet.

The traffic-free living room not only has windows in front which offer a full view of the street, but also has sliding glass doors—as does the family room—that open onto the partially roofed patio where the family can enjoy outdoor living in complete privacy.

The carefully thought out exterior has been designed for the discriminating. The roofing is cedar shakes while stone is used for the planter and fireplace. Both vertical and horizontal wood siding are used on the front elevation to add more textural interest.

Complete working drawing of the above plan can be obtained at a cost of $7.50 for the first set, and $5 for each additional set, when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available for a period of four months from this date. Please allow two weeks for delivery. If the above home does not entirely meet with your satisfaction, a new home plan book, Homes for Living, may be purchased for $1. Send all orders for either plans or books to Hiawatha Estates, P.O. Box 404-T, Northridge, Calif.

News and Notes From Camp White

By WALTER TOWNSEND

The Annual Employees' Children's Christmas party was held in the theater Dec. 20 at 4 p.m. Miss Mayme Barrett was chairman of the program.

The children sang Christmas songs. An interesting movie of the season was shown. Santa Claus presented each child a gift.

Cartoonist James Jenkin, Camp White, was born in Butte, Mont., on Washington's birthday. He became an artist at the age of 10, and has practiced cartooning ever since.

Each day he entertains the members with two or three original cartoons.

Fred Oper was his early inspiration, which the cartoonist used to create Maud, Alphonse and Gaston in many newspapers throughout the country.

Recently Chief Librarian Enid Holmes attended a convention in Los Angeles where Dr. John Powell of UCLA spoke. He is librarian there. During the past 25 years, he has bought 1,250,000 books for libraries on the UCLA campus.

He is also an author on books and reading.

A special Christmas program will be held in the theater at 10 a.m. Christmas Day at Camp White.

The Rev. James W. Neely of the First Baptist church, Medford, will be in charge of the program. There will be Christmas music, both instrumental and vocal, and Christmas readings.

The public is invited.

Cat Food Yields Valueless Pearls

Barboursville, W. Va. — A local filling station operator was unable to cash in on a rare find when he discovered three pearls in a can of cat food he opened to feed his pet.

Harold Porter noticed a small round object, about the size of a pea, which the animal refused to eat. More investigation brought to light another pair of similar pearls.

Porter brought the pearls to a jeweler and learned the cooking of the oysters, in which the pearls originated, along with the other ingredients in the cat food, had spoiled their luster and rendered them valueless.

Hunch Saves Life Of Television Fan

Altoona, Pa. — A TV fan narrowly escaped death when a portable video antennae fell into the bathtub with him.

Brian Stanley, 39, was found unconscious from electric shock. His wife, who weighs only 120 pounds, tugged her 200-pound husband from the tub where he lay unconscious.

She told police she happened to look into the bathroom "on a hunch." Investigators said his wife's pulling probably started Stanley's breathing again.

Woman Finds Leak In Electricity

Elizabeth City, N.C. — A woman called the office of the power company and complained her bill was too high. The company checked her meter and wiring and reported nothing wrong.

A couple of days later, the woman called to apologize, announcing she had discovered the trouble.

"I found a socket without a light bulb in it and the electricity must have leaked out of there," she explained.

Diner Patrons Get Steaks Well Done

Jerseyville, Ill. — Patrons at a diner here got their steaks well done.

The firemen, answering an alarm, reported a fire was caused by "overheated steaks on the broiler . . . steaks slightly charred."

Cops Save Jug To Jug Jugmen

Florence, S.C. — While police were chasing a speeding car, they saw two half-gallon jugs tossed out of the auto ahead.

What to do? Stop and pick up the evidence? Or keep after the two occupants of the speeding vehicle?

They stopped, gathered up bits of broken glass and the paper bags in which the jugs had been carried. Back at headquarters, the officers succeeded in spooning out enough moonshine to hold as evidence.

Turned out they guessed right. They came upon the fugitives an hour later, escorted them to jail, and later saw them sentenced to 60 days each.

POWER PRODUCER

New York — The U.S. ranks first in the world in the production of electricity with 43.5 per cent of the total. Russia is second with 9.1 per cent and England third with slightly less than that.

VEIN FUNCTION

Baltimore — The veins are blood vessels that return the human blood from the capillaries toward the area of the heart.

Cincinnati — Small amounts of manganese metal are used to toughen steel. Small amounts in the animal body also serve to toughen the bones.

Washington — Both major political parties and almost 90 per cent of the nation's press supported Hawaii in its bid to gain admission to the Union.

CAR MILEAGE
Detroit — About 30 per cent of all the passenger automobiles in the U.S. are driven 40,000 or more miles per year.

Washington — Mail transportation in the United States varies from ocean liners and helicopters to the primitive dog teams and mail carriers on skis.

ZERO POINT
Schenectady — Absolute zero, the point at which all molecular motion is believed to stop, is 459.6 degrees below zero.

We will close at 6 P.M. Christmas Eve to allow our employees to be at home with their families . . . closed Christmas Day. Prices in this ad are effective Saturday, December 26 ONLY.
