Hand-Holding Okay, But Not at 60 MPH

Globe, Ariz.—Holding hands is an amiable practice, but not between two cars speeding side by side at 60 miles an hour.

Sheriff's deputies stopped two cars after they saw them "going hand in hand" down the highway.

Two men, each listing his occupation as "handyman," were ticketed for reckless driving. They said they were handing cigarettes from one car to the other.

Grange News

Upper Rogue Grange

The annual Christmas party of Upper Rogue Grange was held recently with a potluck dinner and program.

Tables were decorated in a Christmas motif by Mrs. Paul Torrance and Mrs. Bob Chamberlain. Penny Smith opened the program with a song, followed by a Bible reading.

Gifts were presented to children in the audience. Group singing closed the program.

Mrs. Harold Barber was in charge of hall decorations, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moorhead and Mr. and Mrs. C. Richardson.

Salem—Portland businessman Len Mosee has filed his candidacy for the GOP nomination for Oregon state senator from Multnomah county. Mosee filed earlier as a candidate for delegate, state at large, to the GOP national convention next summer.

STELLA'S MISTAKE?—Starlet Stella Stevens examines the three page gate-folded color spread that shows her nude in a magazine. A Memphis newspaper editorial headed "Stella's Mistake" said "We are sorry to see Stella Stevens fall victim to the cruel press-agency of Hollywood." Miss Stevens stated in Hollywood that she is a "person who thinks for herself," and that if a nude picture was a mistake, she'll learn from it. "I have nothing to be ashamed of," she added.

Small Worlds Around Us

By Lynn M. Watkins

Chipmunk Has Troubles; He's Carefree and Cheerful

The eastern, striped chipmunk is a true philosopher. Although his troubles are many and his enemies numerous, he remains carefree and cheerful. He never allows his misfortunes to rumple his alert gaiety. He displays a friendly good humor toward friend and foe and endears himself to all who care to meet him on equal terms.

If any animal could be said to be vivacious, then this pocket-sized edition of the squirrel family, who frequents tree-roots, stone piles and stumps throughout the entire section of the U.S., is surely it. He is about one-third the size of his climbing relatives. Along his agile body he wears five black and two white stripes.

Seldom does he climb a tree, but scurries rapidly over roots and stones at the edge of the woodlots where he can dash out into the sun at frequent intervals. Show him the least sign of friendship and he will willingly eat out of your hand. Frighten him and he scampers with nervous haste and twitching tail into the mouth of his burrow.

Enjoys Life

His enthusiasm and spontaneous exuberance for living every golden minute will not allow him to remain long underground. In no time at all his prominent little ears and bright, beady eyes peak out to see that everything is again normal. He quickly scampers from his rock crevice, twitches his tail with nervous jerks and begins his prowling. He is too good natured to hold a grudge even if you shoot at him. He is ever ready to forgive and forget.

Probably of all his many enemies, and there are more of them than he can shake his tail at, the worst of them is the man with the gun. The next enemy he has to watch out for is the weasel, an animal that hunts the chipmunk in its own burrow. These burrows often run for many yards, dipping every few feet. Along the tunnel-side, rooms are dug out where food is stored.

No Mound

The chipmunk never throws up a tell-tale mound of earth at the tunnel entrance. He doesn't believe in placing the equivalent of a red lantern before the hole; it would be too easy for enemies to locate him.

A group of chipmunks often "get together" for a general "talk-fest" or "community sing" when they all chatter in a shrill voice. Just what they accomplish at these civic meetings has never been explained.

I think the chipmunk can be excused if in the joyful abandon of living he eats a bird's egg or two. He's so

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

The Hallmark of Circulation Value

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is the A.B.C. emblem a symbol of integrity for the circulation of newspapers and periodicals. It means that circulation so identified is measured according to the rules and standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative and non-profit association of 3,450 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Organized in 1914, these buyers and sellers of advertising brought order out of advertising chaos by setting up standards for paid circulation and establishing rules and methods for measuring, auditing and reporting circulations.

Therefore, the work of the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is proud to be a member, provides you with a direct and valuable service. You can buy advertising as you would make any other sound business investment — on the basis of well known standards, known values.

At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: How much circulation we have; where our circulation goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that you need in order to know just what you get for your advertising dollars. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.
