The Medical Roundup

On Operating an Eye Bank

In the Sight-Saving Review there is an interesting article by Alena Drake on the operation of the Illinois Eye Bank in Chicago. Miss Drake tells how the bank was started and how it has grown. People cannot will their eyes because it takes too long a time to probate a will. No; people must tell their families, or executors, that they want their eyes given to a bank. The person's eyes must be removed by a surgeon and sent to the Eye Bank within three hours after death, and the transplantation to a blind person must be performed within the next 24 or 36 hours. If what I read recently is true, soon eyes in "a bank" will be kept for weeks in a special solution.

DR. ALVAREZ

Details of mailing the eyes, or sending them by airplane, have been worked out. A special package has been made; the Red Cross volunteer motor helps, and the Eastern Air Lines transport the eyes without charge. Eyes which are not needed in Chicago are sent to the Eye Bank in New York. The Eye Bank in Chicago was organized by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness, with the cooperation of the Chicago Ophthalmological Society. The New York office is called the New York Eye Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc. Today there are full-time workers in the Chicago bank, and last year 210 eyes were made available to ophthalmologists. In 11 years, 694 eyes have been donated. It is a fine thoughtful type of person who wants, after he is gone, to do his bit toward helping some blind person to see.

Dope Addicts

I now read that the Federal Bureau of Narcotics' Statistics have shown that there are 44,148 dope addicts in the United States. Most of them are under 30 years of age. It is estimated that they are paying $300,000,000 a year to gangsters to supply them with heroin alone. The addicts who just must find somewhere a large sum of money for their dope, usually do not work, so they are compelled to rob someone in order to get the money. They can't go without dope because this is so very painful to them. The financial situation is much worse than it appears at first sight, because when a man steals a mink coat out of someone's apartment and takes it to a "fence" he does not get $5,000; I imagine he is lucky if he gets a tenth or a twentieth of that. This means that in order to get 50 or 100 dollars a day for his dope, he must steal $1,000 or more.

I now read that the United Kingdom recently reported to the United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs in Geneva that, in Great Britain, they have only 359 known addicts. According to the report, the British give their addicts the narcotics at so low a price that the gangsters can't stay in business. Some people feel that we ought to try the British method, but others tell us that it wouldn't work.

MOON SURFACE

The surface of the moon contains an estimated 14,657,000 square miles.

Insurance Claims Payment Approved

Salem – (UPI) – Circuit Judge Val Sloper has empowered Oregon Insurance Commissioner V. Dean Musser to receive and pay claims against Mid-Union Indemnity company, including the use of state-deposited funds of the insolvent firm.

A suit was filed by the Oregon attorney general on behalf of the state and Musser early this week. Musser said in the proceeding that Mid-Union Indemnity had $52,000 in bonds deposited with the state treasurer and assets amounting to at least $12,000 elsewhere in Oregon.
