Volkswagen Convertible

(an air-tight case for owning an open-air car)

The top of the Volkswagen Convertible is like no other. It is air-tight and water-tight because it overlaps the windshield frame. It has a real glass rear window and is completely lined and padded — no struts or crossbars show.

The VW Convertible shares every mechanical virtue of the sedans. The air-cooled rear engine can't freeze or overheat. No anti-freeze needed. All wheels are individually suspended with torsion bars (uncanny control over the roughest roads). You get 32 mpg — regular driving, regular gas. You can go 70 mph all day and park where others can't fit. The best way to get the feel of a Volkswagen Convertible is to slip behind the wheel and drive one. Come in and do it... this week.

Two Books Reviewed at Club Meeting

Mrs. C. W. Mitchell reviewed Edward Wagenknecht's book "The Seven Worlds of Theodore Roosevelt" at the meeting of the Wednesday Study club January 6 at the Girls Community club. The book is the writer's contribution to the centennial of the birth of the former president.

The author depicts President Roosevelt as a many faceted character mentioning him as a soldier, thinker, politician, statesman and peace maker and describes how he thought, spoke, felt and acted. He is presented in seven phases as the worlds of thought, human relations, family, spiritual values, public affairs, action and peace and war.

The former president was a prodigious reader and his knowledge covered a broad range of subjects, but he was particularly interested in science and history. His favorite reading was the Bible, Homer, Shakespeare and Dante. He did much writing and as an author, the critics rate Roosevelt's "Winning of the West" as his best book, but his volume composed of letters to his children is most widely read.

Forcefulness — The author describes President Roosevelt as an intense person having great charm and forcefulness and the quality of vitalizing things and passing this on to others.

As told in his "World of Spiritual Values", he was not tied down to any particular creed. He joined the Presbyterian church at the age of twelve and worked on Christian principles throughout his life.

In public affairs he had keen perception and as early as 1904 foresaw eventual trouble with Russia.

Mrs. Rita Miller gave a brief condensation of "The Ugly American" by William Lederer and Eugene Burdick.

The story is an account of various Americans, some private businessmen and others in U.S. governmental service, in southeast Asia. It tells how some of the Americans help the natives by approaching their problems on a practical down-to-earth level while others think more of themselves and remain aloof of those around them.

Critics say "The Ugly American" is a little story, but its message is great.
