Body of 10-Year-Old California Girl Found in Mexico

Hijuana, Mexico — (UPI) — The body of a 10-year-old California girl was found in heavy brush Tuesday night about 15 miles south of this border city.

Mary Lou Olson had been missing from her National City home since Jan. 3. Her father, Lawrence, a postal worker, made the identification.

Autopsy Scheduled
"What kind of person could do something like this," sobbed the grief-stricken man. "How could they get a child across the border?"

An autopsy was scheduled for today to determine how long she had been dead and whether she had been molested sexually.

The child was clad in an undershirt and pink blouse when found by a Mexican laborer in heavy brush in an arroyo about a half mile off the Tijuana-Ensenada highway. A wad of blue paper was found stuffed in her mouth and bruises covered her body.

Bruise Seen Cause
A severe bruise on her left temple might have been the cause of death, authorities said.

Mexican authorities had been participating in an intensive search for Mary Lou since she disappeared 10 days ago when she left her home to go shopping three blocks away.

The FBI said it was stepping into the case to help find her slayer.

Brucker Recalled To Washington

Naha, Okinawa — (UPI) — Army Secretary Wilber Brucker today was abruptly recalled to Washington, apparently to explain before Congress his statement in Formosa that the United States would defend the Nationalist-held offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

Brucker left unexpectedly at noon today for Korea, cutting short his scheduled two-day visit here. He said he shortened his visit to Okinawa to enable him to appear before the Senate Armed Service Committee, on Jan. 20. He also will appear before the House Armed Service Committee, on Jan. 21.

In Seoul, Brucker told newsmen he was not quoted correctly in Taipei and was quoted out of context. He said, "you have to read the whole statement to find out what I said."

Congress To Get Report on Soviet Missile Strength

Washington — (UPI) — The Defense Department was to give Congress a report today on Russian missile strength and American ability to survive and strike back after a surprise attack.

Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr., and aides were called before a closed-door session of the House military appropriations subcommittee. Confident of Power

Gates was reported confident of U.S. power to deter Soviet attack during the critical few years ahead when the Russians may outnumber this country in inter-continental ballistic missiles.

The "mix" of forces—missiles, bombers, carriers and submarines and their wide dispersal around the globe will be more than Russia's available missiles could knock out in one blow, according to this view.

To Give Latest Facts
The Defense Department said officially only that Gates would give the "latest available facts" on vulnerability of U.S. retaliatory forces and on Soviet missile capability.

Military experts frankly concede that there will be a short period in the early 1960s when the margin of American "targets" over Russian missiles is uncomfortably small.

To Have Underground Sites
During this period, American "targets" will be "soft"—bomber bases and above ground missile pads. Reasonably accurate intercontinental ballistic missiles could easily knock these out.

But the expectation is that by the time Russia has large numbers of ICBMs, America will have a considerable number of "hard" targets—underground missile sites which are very difficult to knock out.

Stock Prices Up On Good Support

New York — (UPI) — Stocks advanced on good support today with steels, chemicals and electronics pacing the upturn. Industrial shares which sold off sharply in the last five sessions displayed a 2.10-point rise in their average 30 minutes after the opening.

DuPont and Allied Chemical, both used to compile the average, were up around a point or more. International Paper and Goodyear each showed gains of more than a half each.

Steel issues favored the upside. U.S. Steel, Youngstown and Republic advanced fractionally, while Bethlehem eased. General Motors firmed in the autos where Chrysler dropped around a half.

Bond Interest Ceiling Debated

Washington — (UPI) — Lawmakers differed today about whether President Eisenhower has a chance of persuading Congress in its brief election-year session to remove the 4 1/2 per cent interest ceiling on government bonds.

Administration backers were encouraged by the fact that Democratic leaders displayed willingness to consider the legislation, even though Senate or House floor action would produce a party-splitting battle.

Rep. Lee Metcalf (D-Mont.), leader of a liberal Democratic bloc, conceded the legislation has a "50-50 chance" of House passage despite opposition from his group. But he insisted that "it hasn't a chance in the world" of getting through the Senate.

Hearings by the Senate Finance Committee probably will provide the first real test of public and senatorial sentiment on the issue.

Charlie Airlift Will Be Resumed

Fairbanks, Alaska — (UPI) — The Air Force today was hoping it would be able to resume its removal of men and equipment from the scientific ice station Charlie in the Arctic ocean.

The airlift was slowed Tuesday by temperatures ranging as low as 45 degrees below zero. Still on the floe, located 450 miles west of Point Barrow, Alaska, were three civilian scientists and 12 military personnel.

An "orderly withdrawal" from the ice station was begun about a week ago when the floe started disintegrating. Repeated breaking of ice from its sides has reduced the ice floe to one-fifth its original size.

DECLARE CREW DEAD
Tripoli, Libya — (UPI) — All 10 men aboard a U.S. Army U-1A "Otter" aircraft that crashed on a flight from Wheelus Air Base to Benghazi Jan. 4 have been officially declared dead. The Army said Tuesday the plane probably fell into the Mediterranean.

Ike Denies Pressure in Steel Dispute

Washington — (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today it was silly to suggest that the administration used threats or pressure to settle the steel dispute.

He made the statement at a news conference in response to a request for comment on the settlement reached last week and the role played by Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

In announcing the agreement, Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said it resulted from behind the scenes efforts by Nixon and himself.

Democrats have charged that politics was involved and that Nixon was brought into the dispute to help build himself up for the presidential race.

The President said the administration's action was really a simple affair. There had been a long deadlock, he said, and there was no evidence that progress toward a settlement was being made during the 80-day injunction obtained under the Taft-Hartley law. He said it seemed possible that it would be helpful if new personalities tried to mediate and that he had asked Nixon and Mitchell to try.

The President said the final solution which they proposed lay between the position of the disputing parties.

Eisenhower said those circumstances included the contracts negotiated by the union with the can and aluminum industries and information that the workers would reject the steel industry's final offer in a vote, required by the Taft-Hartley law.

The President then commented that any idea that there was any government threat or pressure was silly. He said both sides accepted the terms voluntarily.

Eisenhower said for the first time since the end of World War II there would be no immediate steel price increases in a steel settlement.
