IN MANCHESTER—Sen. John F. Kennedy is applauded by girl workers as he leaves the Arms Textile Mills following his visit in Manchester, N.H., Monday. He began his campaign for nomination for the presidency by the Democratic party with visits to Nashua and Manchester, two of the large population centers in the "Granite State."

Premier Returns From Quick Trip To Paris Meeting

Statement Issued After Long Session

Paris—(UPI)—Premier Michel Debre returned from a quick night trip to rebellion-torn Algiers today and said emphatically that the government remains determined to let Algerians decide their own future.

His statement was a clear warning to the European settlers in Algeria that De Gaulle's Fifth Republic would not tolerate any armed revolt against his policies.

Debre issued it after conferring with President Charles de Gaulle for an hour and 15 minutes.

Debre flew to Algiers during the night aboard a French jet-liner, conferred with top military and civil commanders there and then streaked home before daylight as De Gaulle sought to end the uprising without further bloodshed.

Says France Harmed

"The object of the quick trip that I have just made with the minister of the armed forces (Pierre Guillaumat) was, without doubt and above all, to confirm the instructions previously given on the reestablishment of order," Debre's statement said.

"The rioting has already done too much harm to France."

The policy of France toward Algeria has been clearly defined by De Gaulle and approved by Parliament, Debre said.

Behind him in Algiers, Debre left a city seething with tension. About 9,000 rebellious settlers were concentrated in a small, barricaded section of the city ringed by French paratroopers. There were fears a quick trigger could set off a new series of rioting and bloodshed that already had taken 27 lives and wounded 136.

The big fear in France was that the army might side with the rightists. Debra's statement sought to hold them loyal.

He said the riot in Algiers resulted from a "campaign of lies" about French policy. He warned that if it continues it would drive a wedge between the French in Algeria and the French in France that would be "a veritable disaster."

The whole nation was rallying behind De Gaulle and he had the support of almost all factions of French politics and the press in his effort to put down a rebellion that started because of his efforts to end the 5-year-old Algerian War.

Neuberger Says Some Aspects Of Seashore Bill Disturb Him

By A. ROBERT SMITH
Mail Tribune Washington Correspondent

A. Robert Smith

Washington—Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) Monday introduced the proposed Oregon Dunes national seashore bill drafted by Gov. Mark Hatfield and his Natural Resources Committee.

Conceding that some features of Hatfield's bill "disturb me," Neuberger suggested that the Eisenhower Administration, in effect, arbitrate the differences that remain between the proposals of the Republican governor and the Democratic senator.

Neuberger said he would agree to any part of Hatfield's bill that the Department of the Interior will approve, and he hoped Hatfield would agree to any changes the Interior Department found necessary for successful creation of a national seashore park.

Reach Agreement

"I think the best way to get that park to go," Hatfield said, "is to reach an agreement on the details of the legislation authorizing such a national park," Neuberger told the Senate. "Many years from now, the important and essential thing will be the existence of a great national park along America's most majestic shoreline—it will not be what politician saved his vanity or pride by feuding with another politician over whether or not the park should be established. My goal is not political warfare; it is to bring Oregon its first new national park since Crater Lake was set aside in 1902."

Last week Neuberger rapped the knuckles of his colleague, Sen. Wayne Morse, for having indicated he would oppose any seashore bill for the Oregon Dunes. At that time he called for cooperation between himself and Hatfield. Hatfield then said he would not be a party to any infighting between the two senators on the issue and he hoped Morse and Neuberger could work out their differences.

To Seek Report

Neuberger said his plan now was to have the Senate Interior Committee, to which the new bill was referred, ask the Interior Department for a report on its provisions.

"What they accept, I will accept," said Neuberger of Interior and its National Park Service.

He noted that if created, the Oregon seashore park would be the 181st addition to the national park system since the park system was started in 1872.

"This means that a vast body of experience exists for determining operating policies of the National Park Service," Neuberger observed. "I am quite willing to abide by the judgement of those who possess this experience. I feel certain that Gov. Hatfield will likewise trust the judgement of the Department of Interior and the National Park Service."

Neuberger listed five features of the governor's proposed bill which the senator said cause him particular concern.

Extension of Area

1. Any extension of the seashore area prescribed in the bill could be made only with approval of the governor and the Oregon legislature. Neuberger said this provision "may not even be constitutional" because it gives state authority veto power over Congress.

2. Elimination of allowance for an exchange of O&C Timber for the 10,600-acre tree farm of Crown Zellerbach Timber Co. along Tahkenitch Lake. Neuberger said this would prevent an arrangement by which employment at the West Linn mill of the company would be safeguarded.

3. Two sections, 5 and 9, of Hatfield's bill "appear to establish divided or dual jurisdiction" between state and federal jurisdiction over wild life. Neuberger's contention was that the purpose of the bill was to coordinate conservation of all resources by a single agency for multiple benefits.

4. Payments in lieu of taxes for 25 years to cushion the loss of private property taxes. Neuberger said "the Bureau of the Budget under this administration is known to be opposed to it as a general practice." He proposed 3 years.

Sand Stabilization

5. Section 7 which stipulates that sand stabilization and erosion control be in accord with the "present program planned by the U.S. Soil Conservation Service." Neuberger said this would tie the Interior Department's hands because the present dune stabilization program was "formulated with other uses of the area as the objective." He suggested, instead, that Soil Conservation Service officials from the Department of Agriculture be consulted by Interior in drawing up its dune stabilization program.

Presumably, these are the chief points to which the Interior Department would make suggested changes in Hatfield's bill, for Neuberger consulted with Interior officials about the governor's bill, before deciding to introduce it.

now to the meat of the situation—especially the meat of the Algerian situation.

In the Algeria of today, there are roughly a million Frenchmen and seven or eight times that number of native tribesmen. The Frenchmen own a whole lot of the valuable property of Algeria. The Frenchmen have been the DEVELOPERS. They have reclaimed the better soil and made it fruitful. They have built beautiful cities. They are now developing the oil. The Moslem tribesmen hang out in the rugged hills, and from time to time they make forays against the properties of the French.

These Algerian French feel—quite strongly, one can be sure—that if Algeria is given what we call statehood, the French, who are outnumbered seven or eight to one, will wind up in the small end of the horn.

LET'S now turn the chip over and look at the other side of it.

Suppose someone proposed that our State of Jefferson be given back to its original owners. Suppose the original tribesmen outnumbered the whites seven or eight to one as it is the present case in Algeria.

In that case, I have an idea there would be blood on the moon here in the State of Jefferson, as there is blood on the moon in Algeria.

ALL this isn't designed to say that Algeria should be given back to ALL the Algerians. It isn't designed to say that our State of Jefferson should be given back to its original Indian owners.

As Omar the Tent Maker so vividly and musically says: "The moving finger writes, and having writ moves on; nor all your piety and wit can lure it back to cancel half a line, nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

This piece isn't a defense of the Algerian French. It isn't designed as a defense of our ancestors who took over

Diana Barrymore Found Dead Monday

New York—(UPI)—An autopsy was performed today to find the cause of death of hard-living actress Diana Barrymore, 38, who had been warned by doctors that she would die young.

"She had been full of concern about dying," according to Mrs. Essee Kupcinet of Chicago, who was with Miss Barrymore Sunday night. "She told me 'I want you to get a nice black hat and a veil indicate that her drinking had become excessive, however."

Miss Barrymore was known to have entertained several friends the night before she died. They included: Glen Stencel, an actor, Mrs. Essee Kupcinet, wife of Chicago columnist and TV personality Irving Kupcinet; Edward Thomajam and John Cook.

Diana Barrymore at birth was considered a child of fortune. She was heiress presumptive to the throne held by America's first family of the theater.

Her father was the reigning monarch of the stage—the great profile, John Barrymore, one of the world's most celebrated Shakespearean actors. Her mother was a successful poetess, Michael Strange.

of her funeral—it's going to be soon." She was joking in a way, but she was worried about dying."

Miss Barrymore's body was found lying face down on a bed in her Manhattan apartment by a maid Monday afternoon. Three empty liquor bottles were in the kitchen and several tablets and other sedatives were in a cabinet near the bed.

No Notes Found

Dr. Colter Rule, who had been treating Miss Barrymore for chest pains, said she died in her sleep of natural causes. But no cause of death was listed by police pending a report on a medical examiner's autopsy at Bellevue hospital.

Police said the actress, a former alcoholic, apparently began drinking again about Christmas time. They did not

Jupiter Near End Of Research Steps

Cape Canaveral, Fla.—(UPI)—America's Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile today stood one step away from completing its current series of research and development tests here.

The 60-foot-tall rocket, one of the most versatile and reliable in the U.S. arsenal, made a successful 1,500-mile experimental trip over the Atlantic ocean Monday night.

Informed sources said one more shot, set for sometime in February, will complete Jupiter's present test program. Another series, of an undisclosed nature, is scheduled to start "sometime late this year."

Swastikas Found In Portland

Portland—(UPI)—Swastikas were found on a Jewish Synagogue and on a Baptist church building here Sunday and Monday and the FBI was asked to investigate.

It was the first report of a swastika to appear on a Jewish institution here since a recent outbreak that has seen the symbols of Nazi Germany appear in western Europe and in the United States.

The swastika on the Jewish synagogue was found Sunday morning on a side door. Another was found Monday morning on a First Baptist church building.

David Robinson, of the Portland chapter of the Anti-Defamation League, said "I am inclined to believe it's a crackpot imitating stories he reads."

The FBI said it had received the information on the synagogue swastika but declined to say if it had launched an investigation.

Stocks Retreat in First Hour Today

New York—(UPI)—Stocks retreated a bit during the first hour today.

Sellers continued to chip away at the stocks used to compile the averages.

Brokers look for a continuation of this steady downward pressure until a future rally is able to attract a heavy following.

DuPont broke sharply from the opening and showed a loss of nearly 5 points after the first hour. Westinghouse gave up more than a point.

U.S. Steel eased after a firm opening in its section where Youngstown tacked on a small fraction. Republic and Bethlehem eased. Motors also weakened with Ford and American off more than a point each.

Freshmen Records Mailed by College

Ashland—Reports of academic records of first-term freshmen students have been mailed to their respective high school principals this week, it was announced by Mrs. Mabel W. Winston, Southern Oregon college registrar and dean of women.

Freshman students come from 64 high schools in Oregon and 38 in other states. Of those high schools with 6 to 30 freshmen enrolled, Lakeview topped the list with an average of 2.68 for the 8 students at Southern Oregon college.

Of those high schools with 25 or more freshman students on the campus, Klamath Union High school of Klamath Falls, ranked above all others with 2.57 for the 30 freshmen enrolled. Yreka, Calif., with six students reached 2.59.

The overall grade point average for all 436 first-term freshmen of 1959-60 at SOC was 2.15. Mrs. Winston said.

Medford Man Elected To Association Post

Maynard Hadley, Medford, was elected to the executive board of the Oregon Gasoline Dealers association at their annual meeting held recently in Oceanlake.

Preceding the three day convention the Western Council of Petroleum Dealers met. The council recommended the divorcement of the oil companies from the retail field and criticized "dumping" of gasoline on the market.

Other officers elected for the association at the meeting were E. A. Haugstad, Salem, president; and board members Victor Kaufman, Seaside; Oliver Curtis, Eugene; and Earl Davis, Pendleton.

Peron En Route to Europe to Live

Madrid—(UPI)—Ousted Argentine ex-President Juan D. Peron is on his way to Spain today on a trip that may mark his farewell to the Western Hemisphere.

Peron left the Dominican Republic where he has lived for two years as a refugee, in a chartered Brazilian airliner at 9:55 p.m. Monday. He is expected to stop off in Bermuda, the Azores and perhaps Portugal on his way to this country.

A spokesman for the Spanish foreign ministry said Saturday Peron would spend "several weeks" somewhere near the Mediterranean port of Malaga before going on to Switzerland to live.

Colonists Given Permission to Move

Seattle—(UPI)—Twenty-four 20th century colonists today were scheduled to resume their journey to the Galapagos Islands after being delayed in Grays Harbor on the Pacific ocean for more than a week.

The Coast Guard gave the colonists permission Monday to continue the voyage in their 100-foot former refrigeration ship, Alert, which was led into the Grays Harbor community of Westport Jan. 16. Westport is located about 80 miles southwest of here.

The colonists had sent out a distress signal for assistance when the Alert's bilge pumps failed to function. The vessel had taken water through leaky seams.

The Coast Guard said the Alert had undergone satisfactory repairs and now had sufficient electrical power to operate all pumps as well as other equipment.
