Hank Gets Ring Victory by TKO

Chicago — UPI — Cockey Henry Hank said today he could beat Ray Robinson, Paul Pender and Gene Fullmer in one night to win his No. 1 ambition, the world middleweight championship.

"Robinson's an old man," he said, "and Pender's nothing, so I figure I could beat them in three or four rounds. Fullmer (the National Boxing association champion) is stronger, but I think I could beat him in six."

Hank's optimistic prediction came after he won a technical knockout victory over light heavyweight Jesse Bowdry at 2:45 of the sixth round.

Corvallis School Taxes May Rise

Corvallis — UPI — A 30 per cent increase in school taxes can be expected in the Corvallis school district next year.

The school district's budget review committee gave this indication after viewing proposed teaching, insurance and bus operation costs.

A 3 per cent cost-of-living increase was asked for teacher salaries, along with other policy changes which would see the salary doubled when a tenure contract is signed.

Eugene — UPI — Circuit Judge Frank Reid announced today he will be a candidate for reelection this year. Reid is the presiding circuit judge of the second judicial district.

AKINS MEETS FULLMER

St. Louis — UPI — In-and-out Virgil Akins, holder of the welterweight crown between fights, will give away years and pounds to young Don Fullmer, promising West Jordan, Utah, middleweight and Dave Crocker each scored eight points for McLoughlin.

Caryl Chessman Slated to Appear In Federal Court

San Francisco — UPI — Convict-author Caryl Chessman, 38, was scheduled to appear in federal court today for his 13th and possibly last personal bid to escape execution.

He is under sentence to die in the gas chamber at San Quentin prison on Feb. 19 for crimes committed more than 12 years ago as the Los Angeles "red light bandit."

However, the self-styled legal expert has sidestepped seven previous dates with death during 11½ years on appeal row.

U.S. District Judge Louis E. Goodman ordered Chessman's appearance today for a hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. It is concerned—as courts have been many times—with Chessman's contention that the record of his Los Angeles trial was faulty.

Requests Assistance

Chessman's attorney, George T. Davis, requested the assistance of the court Wednesday in bringing three witnesses to the hearing from Southern California.

They were Los Angeles Superior Judge Walter R. Evans, who is presiding in the Finch-Tregoff murder trial; J. Miller Leavy, deputy Los Angeles district attorney; and Stanley Fraser, former Los Angeles court reporter.

Davis could not subpoena the witnesses because they are outside jurisdiction of the district court, which covers only northern California. However, he said he might seek depositions from them in Los Angeles if they failed to appear.

People sometimes wonder whether in playing golf with Eisenhower, his partners ever consciously try to let the President win. Another term for this is "customer golf." There may have been some rather silly tactics like this in the past, but woe betide the golfer who purposely dubs a shot and the President finds out about it.

The President wants his opponents to play their best possible game because that is what he's doing. In fact, when playing with a top flight professional, Eisenhower gets as much of a kick out of watching the smooth performance of the pro as he does out of playing, himself.

The President spent last week end in Washington, much to the gratification of those who must travel with him when he leaves town—and he's been away a good bit these last few months.

At any rate, when the word was passed that Eisenhower would stay in town over the week end, this anonymous notice appeared on the White House press room bulletin board:

"Don't forget your immunization shots for Washington. All the signs are that we will be here for a long week end. Don't forget your water purifying tablets and dysentery pills."

One of the weary travel crew saw the notice and observed, "bitterness will get you nowhere—only to South America."

McLOUGHLIN WINS

McLoughlin Junior High school ninth grade basketball crew beat Eagle Point 54 to 20 in a Monday game. Score at half was 23 to 11 for the Fullmer, promising West Jordan, Utah, middleweight and Dave Crocker each scored eight points for McLoughlin.

Backstairs: Ike Cooks All Meals

By MERRIMAN SMITH

UPI White House Reporter

Palm Springs, Calif. — UPI — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower is in residence again 20 miles from here at the home of George E. Allen, his good friend from Washington, Gettysburg and other points.

Allen's three-bedroom, two-swimming pool home is on the grounds of the La Quinta hotel where the well-to-do frolic and golf during the winter months.

In the hotel only 500 feet from the Allen home, there is every conceivable luxury but behind the doors of the temporary White House, the President doffs his robes of state and puts on a cook's apron.

When the President visits Allen, he does the cooking—all the cooking. The servants are shooed out, and the President fixes every meal.

He gets up long before Allen or any of the house guests and has a substantial breakfast on the fire by 7:30 or 8 o'clock in the morning.

One day the President will feature fried mush, the next day chipped beef. He's not quite up to making his own biscuit dough, but he does dish up a tasty pancake in which water ground corn meal and buttermilk are among the ingredients.

If the pancakes sometimes turn out to be a bit rubbery, you can bet a million there's not a word of complaint from the guests. When a President of the United States does the cooking, one simply does not knock the groceries.

Evening of Music And Folklore Heard by Club

A smiling man from Switzerland provided an evening of music, folklore and information about his native land for Rogue Valley Knife and Fork club members last night.

Appearing at Rogue Valley Country club, Toni Gauer not only entertained his audience with authentic yodeling and music played on "hand harmonicas" but sandwiched in enough facts about Swiss industry and commerce to convince many in the audience that they knew very little about his country.

Gauer and his wife, who appear briefly, wore colorful costumes traditional in the area of their native Appenzel. Alternating the music with an informal lecture, Gauer told how Switzerland, a land with a mixture of several cultures and languages, nevertheless has managed to remain peaceful and prosperous, and neutral during wars which ravaged adjoining countries.

High Living Standard

The speaker pointed out that Switzerland with very little tillable land and no natural resources such as coal, iron, gold or silver, has nevertheless one of the highest standards of living in Europe, with no slums and no paupers.

A policy of "maximum freedom for every one," combined with the traits of thrift and hard work have resulted in the country's prosperity and peace, Gauer said.

Contrary to the belief of most Americans that tourists, attracted by the magnificent Swiss scenery, are the main source of income, Gauer said the main industry is the manufacture of heavy machinery.

The second most important industry is the famous Swiss watch, and the speaker said the Swiss manufacture 65 per cent of all the watches made in the world and 75 per cent of all wrist watches. Chemicals, and banking and insurance are also important to the economy of Switzerland.

Alpine Horn

The speaker, in addition to using various "hand harmonicas" for his musical numbers, displayed one of the huge Alpine horns, made from elaborately carved wood and about 10 feet long. A record of music made by the Alpine horn — this can be heard a distance of six miles — combined with the music of Swiss cow bells, was played. He also displayed a hand-carved Swiss milking bucket and the typical one-legged Swiss milking stool.

Speaking of Swiss love of music and art, and the country's current standard of living, Gauer noted that every intelligent, willing-to-work Swiss family can have a good home, perhaps of three stories, with modern electrical conveniences such as washing machines and dryers, and radios or television sets. There are no advertisements or commercials on radio and television and the speaker explained that "we pay five Miss Theresa Inglin, American Field service student from Geneva, Switzerland now enrolled at Medford High school, was seated at the speaker's table with the Gauers.

Gauer was introduced by summer south of the equator and the weather is hot and humid.

Hill Orders PT&T To Start Service

Salem — UPI — Public Utility Commissioner Jone C. Hill today ordered Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company to establish toll-free service between its Toledo and Newport exchanges.

No rate discrimination will exist between the two exchanges, Hill said, although Toledo users will note certain changes in their monthly rates.

For example, one party lines to $5.20 from $4.90; two party to $4.00 from $3.85; one party, business, to $9.00 from $8.00 and two party business to $7.00 from $6.25.

The commissioner said balloting of subscribers in the area last November and December indicated 80.6 per cent responded favorably to extended area service. The percentage against was 11.3 per cent and 8.1 per cent said either plan was acceptable.

The order says the new service must be in operation on or before March 1, 1961.

Stayton Company Plans Expansion

Stayton — UPI — A proposed half-million dollar addition to the Stayton Canning company plant was unfolded Wednesday before the city council.

The firm is a multi-million dollar operation and employs more than 1,000 during peak of the canning season.

The club president, A. C. Pierce. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan were introduced as new members.
