SEX CRIMES AND MENTAL DISEASE

An interesting report has just come from the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Kilmer, who said in the House of Lords that in the last six months, in England and Wales, 3,630 persons had been convicted of sex offenses against boys and girls under 15. Of these persons only 7 per cent had previously received treatment for some mental condition. Of 964 persons convicted of indecent assault on young persons, 5 per cent had a history of some mental disorder.

The report as abstracted did not tell how many of the sex offenders, who had never been treated by a psychiatrist, were decidedly odd or queer or psychotic. There are hundreds of thousands of such people in the world, and even we physicians have an unfortunate tendency to look upon them as normal until they have been locked up in a mental hospital. Commonly, they are anything but normal, as anyone who has to live with one of them could tell us.

FERTILE PERIOD IN WOMEN

I was just reading a summary of a careful study of the fertile period in some 200 women. Dr. E. J. Farris, of the Wistar Institute, concluded that women can conceive from the tenth to the twentieth day of a menstrual cycle that may vary from 20 to 43 days. Actually, with artificial insemination, there were 80 conceptions, and 98 per cent occurred in the period from

Thornton to Attend Meeting in D. C.

Salem—UPD—The housewife buying toothpaste and tranquilizers and the investor taking a flier in the stock market will both come under consideration at a national conference which Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton will attend in Washington, D.C., March 10-11.

Recent congressional investigation into alleged misleading advertising and purported overpricing of many commodities such as so-called miracle drugs have directed widespread public attention to possible need for more effective legal protection of consumers, Thornton said.

Thornton was invited to the meeting by U. S. Attorney General William P. Rogers.
