DON WILSON Honored at Dinner

Associate Pastor To Assume Duties In Coquille Area

Sunday evening, Jan. 24, a farewell supper was given at the Pathfinder clubhouse honoring Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilson and family.

Mr. Wilson has for the past year and a half served the Seventh-day Adventist churches in the Medford district as associate pastor.

The social hour was spent at playing games. A short program was presented. The Wilsons were presented with a set of the Seventh-day Adventist Bible Commentaries and a purse.

The Wilsons are moving this week to Coquille where Mr. Wilson will be in charge of three churches.

Expected to arrive next month to assume duties as pastor of the Valley View and Ashland Seventh-day Adventist churches will be Pastor A. F. Wellman, now with the Montavilla Seventh-day Adventist church in Portland.

Following his arrival Pastor John Trude will be in charge of the Medford and Eagle Point churches. Prior to Mr. Wilson's resignation the two men served the four area churches.

Saturday, Jan. 23, was Religious Liberty Day in the Seventh-day Adventist churches throughout the United States.

Constitutions were read that the freedoms man sought in the new world may not vanish within the next decade, and they will not be snuffed out by enemies outside the country. The willingness of citizens to let someone else do their thinking for them and to rely on government for not only economic security but also religious security spells disaster for a free democracy, Pastor John Trude said.

In Saturday's sermons, reference was made specifically to government support for religious activities and legislation to enforce Sunday observance.

Adventist church members sent their offerings last week to be used by the International Religious Liberty association, Washington, D.C. The association keeps close tabs on legislation that tends to indicate any encroachment on religious liberties, and where necessary assists with legal action when such might help to defend these liberties.
