

Salad Varieties Demonstrated At Unit Session

Central Point—"The proof of the salad is in the eating" added interest to the lesson for the day at the last meeting of Central Point Home Extension unit, held at the home of Mrs. Leo Gheardi.

Mrs. Maynard McKay and Mrs. George Dunphy, lesson leaders, demonstrated a variety of salads, using an intriguing flavor to add a piquant touch to an otherwise ordinary salad and matching that dressing to a particular salad. Many seasonings were tested.

Twenty-six members and six guests attended the meeting.

Mrs. Charles Klutsenbeker presided over the business session. In charge of program planning were Mrs. Ben McManama and Mrs. Charles Taylor. Mrs. Helen Ekdahl became a new member.

Letters of appreciation were read from Miss Mary Pat Lucey, and from the Rogue Valley Memorial hospital. Unit members had placed books and toys in the hospital to amuse children.

Plans were discussed concerning the first aid course which will be given to the Central Point group and the Lone Pine Extension unit. Further details concerning this will be announced in the near future, the president said.

Also on the program for a later date will be a series of health lessons given by doctors of the valley.

The annual "Mad Hatter" party is planned for the next meeting. This has proved to be most popular with the members. Each woman makes a hat for the day. She may use any ordinary items of the home, lifting them from the realm of common household use to the decorative task of forming a milder's chapeau. After the style show the hats are auctioned to the highest bidder. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace West February 17, and the lesson will be on synthetic

Exchange Students Speak For Medford Study Club

Theresa Inglin, Geneva, Switzerland; Rheinart Kostlin, from Ludwigsburg, Germany, two exchange students, and Carolyn Mencke, an American Field Service exchange student from Medford to Kurikka, Finland, were guest speakers for the January meeting of the Travel Study club of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs. The meeting was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edward C. Root, 3261 Jacksonville high, the club's international hostess.

The executive board, Mrs. Clay M. Lee, Mrs. William E. Boone, Mrs. Marvin Nelson, Mrs. Frank L. Stratton, Mrs. Jack D. Brummond and Mrs. Root were hostesses.

This was the second annual guest day for the club.

Mrs. Frank Bash, American Field Service director, introduced the speakers.

Miss Inglin said that Switzerland, only a sixth the size of Oregon, has five million population and is called the "playground of Europe." The speaker said that Lake Geneva, also called Lac Lemann, is the largest of the lakes near the Alps and is very beautiful with its background of high, snow-covered peaks.

Four Languages Explaining that four languages are spoken in her country, French, Italian, German and a mixed language, Miss Inglin said that girls attend one school and the boys another. They attend school from 8 a.m. until noon, and from 2 to 5 p.m. and take from 11 to 13 subjects. Theresa believes the Swiss students are better fitted for college than those here. There are no activities such as pep clubs or football teams. Social life is limited, and students cannot attend many shows.

Both television and radio are government controlled, and there are no commercials, she said.

Miss Inglin said the 22 states in Switzerland form a republic somewhat like that of the United States; they have a president, a parliament to make laws and a constitution to protect the rights of the people.

Bicycling is the favorite sport, and skiing the national sport, she said.

Miss Inglin attended her first formal dance here in Medford. The student said she likes the school here, and likes the American people very much.

Speaks German Rheinart Kostlin explained that Ludwigsburg is in western Germany, and that it has a population of 70,000. Germans live much like people of the United States and Canada, he said, and the government is much like that of Switzerland.

There are 13 grades in school, with few outside activities, the student said. Rheinart stated the school he attends has 700 students, and there are many subjects. He noted that some of the greatest scientists have come from Germany and said Germany has had many great scholars.

Bicycle riding is the most popular recreation. The railroad, used by everyone, is owned by the government. It is difficult for relatives to visit back and forth in Eastern and Western Germany, the speaker said. Special permits must be granted, and there is much red tape. The student said he hoped Germany will some day be reunited. He thought it a great privilege to be on the football squad of Medford High school this year.

Miss Mencke said that in Kurikka she lived with the Luhtala family, who are Lu-

Officer Installation Held For Medford Rose Society

Officers of the Medford Rose society for 1960 were installed in joint installation ceremonies with the Roseburg and Grants Pass Rose societies January 28 at the Grants Pass Junior High school.

Mrs. Nat Schoen, Vancouver, Wash., president of the American Rose society, was installing officer.

Officers of the Medford Rose society installed were Dr. Louis G. Gentner, president; Mrs. Ranald Axtell, vice-president; Dayton Deputy, second vice-president; Mrs. Carl Norris, secretary; Mrs. Jessie Stagg, treasurer; Mrs. George Fiero, librarian, and Mrs. Edith Urdike, historian.

Thirty-five members of the Medford Rose society and their guests made the trip to Grants Pass by chartered bus. This joint meeting, attended by more than 100 Rosarians, also honored Mrs. Schoen, who came from Columbus, Ohio, where she had been installed as the new president of the American Rose Society.

Mrs. Schoen presented a gift from the three southern Oregon societies.

Mrs. Schoen spoke of the possibility of moving the office of the American Rose Society to the west coast, where the best roses in the world are grown. She reported that the American Rose Society foundation had allocated $3,000 a year for the next three years for research and testing for the eradication of mildew on roses. This project is being carried on at Oregon State college, where some progress has already been made. The college matches this amount and the Northwest District Rose societies also contributed $1,000 for the program.

Mrs. Schoen announced that two members of the Medford Rose society had been appointed to national committees. Mrs. Ranald Axtell, Trail, is now a member of the committee on old fashioned roses, and Ernest Vehrs, Grants Pass, is to serve on the committee on awards and prizes. Both Mrs. Axtell and Mr. Vehrs are consulting rosarians and accredited rose judges.

Rose Slides Slides were shown of the newer roses, and also pictures of interest that were taken at the different rose shows and conventions in the Pacific Northwest the past year.

Rose bushes were donated by Armstrong Nurseries, Hemets of California and Tillotsons, for prizes. Medford members receiving prizes were Mrs. Carl Norris, Mrs. A. O. Floyd, Mrs. Berniece Miller, Miss Claire Hanley, Mrs. Lillian Gentner and Bus Driver Fred Linton, who all received Tiffany roses. Mrs. Mabel Quackenbush and Mrs. Dayton Deputy received new introductions by Armstrong Nurseries, and Mrs. Edith Urdike and Ranald Axtell received old fashioned roses.

Refreshments and a social hour followed the program.

Lamb Soup New York—Cauliflower lamb soup is a meal in itself. Cook 1 pound of ground lamb over medium heat until browned. Drain excess fat. Combine meat with 3 table-spoons of all-purpose flour, 1 package (1 1/2 ounce) dehydrated onion soup mix, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir in 1 1/2 quarts of water. Cover and cook over medium heat 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add 1 package (10-ounce) frozen cauliflower and cook 15 minutes, or until cauliflower is tender. Makes 2 quarts.

Eye Strainers New York—If your eyes get weary watching television, check for eye strainers.

Don't have glossy or reflected objects or lights that project into the screen. Don't watch TV in a dark room. Don't let children sit close to the set looking up. Don't place TV in a "cross traffic" area. Don't watch from chairs placed at angles to the set. Don't read or sew and try to watch TV.

Greatcoat Look Prevails For Spring; Collars Big

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor

New York—This spring the term "the great and near great" applies to coats.

The greatcoat look, with the fabric flowing from the shoulder, shows in bulk, in soft, large collars, in dropped and deep-cut sleeves and frequently in oversized patterns such as herringbone, chevron and block plaids.

Monte Sano and Pruzan, a famous coat and suit house, showed the "great and near great" in both street and three-quarter length coats. Many were sash-belted all the way around; others had a narrow back belt tied under and looped in the fabric.

Monte Sano also featured the slouch coat-casual, bloused, and tied at the waistline; and a whole passel of white coats in mesh, basket weave, and popcorn textured fabrics.

Neckline Varieties In all coat collections, the woman shopper will find a variety of necklines—the collarless, cardigan style; a tiny, neat flat collar; and the cape back coat with flat front.

Look also for a deep sleeves with sloped shoulders, for dolmans, and for three-quarter length sleeves with turned-up cuffs.

Here by individual firms are highlights of the collections: Monte Sano had a full-length sleeve. Many sleeves were above the elbow. Suit jackets were longer, one a "thumb-nail" length, and another which inched down to tunic proportions.

Paul Parnes—Designer Beni Claire offered a variety of jacket shapes including the trimly fitted. Tailored touches of narrow leather belts, glazed white linen collars, white platter buttons and bias edgings on jackets were part of the workmanship of his house.

Hannah Troy - Mrs. Troy checked in with checks in all sizes, colors and textures in her dresses, suits and costumes. Necklines away from the neck, both collared and collarless, looked young and new. The slim silhouette was number one, done in light-weight woolsens, handsome silk crepes and silk linen, some with dainty lingerie trim.

Gianni Slevens Pauline Trigere - The French-born designer continued a master of the bias cut of fabric to shape dress to the figure. Sleeves for daytime and evening were giant. One sleeve, which she called the canopy, was more of a cape. Her "elbow room" jackets were small boleros with sleeves ending at the elbow. Many of the coats for daytime and evening were in her "spiral" silhouette—the look of a series of capes.

Oleg Cassini—The designer, who holds that "clothes should make a woman look like a woman," showed the usual figure-moulding silhouette with many daring necklines. His daytime suite and costumes with packets in the short, the long and conventional lengths —made free use of white collars, cuffs and bows.

Mollie Parnis—Miss Parnis, who designs many of Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower's clothes, introduced the swagger silhouette with roomy sleeves and shoulder area and ease at the waistline. Swagger jackets were cut to cling at the front of the waist, but drop straight and free at the back. Skirts stressed front fullness with under-contruction holding their folds or wide pleats in place.
