

Two Relected as Directors of Loan Association Here

H. J. Field and E. H. Singmaster were relected directors of the Jackson County Federal Savings and Loan Association at the group's annual meeting here last week.

Other members of the board of directors are W. J. Warner, Glenn O. Taylor, J. H. Pletsch, John P. Moffat and Seth M. Bullis.

Pletsch, who also is secretary, reported that the association had a successful year last year, when the organization observed its 50th anniversary.

Pletsch reported that on Dec. 31, 1959, total assets amounted to $17,035,116.42, an increase of 12.7 per cent over the 1958 total. The increase was from an inflow of savings totaling $1,952,515.91.

Reserves Reported
Reserves in the association were increased $147,782.72, he said, and added that total reserves and undivided profits were 10.35 per cent of the total savings.

The association processed 615 conventional and Federal Home administration mortgage loans, totaling $4,485,178.34, an increase of $2,055,697.25 over 1958. The increase in home financing, he said, automatically adds to the economic progress through the purchasing of materials and services used in home building.

Warner, president of the firm, said that in order to provide more modern service in home financing and savings, the association opened a branch in Ashland, and construction started recently on a new home office in Medford.

A dividend of 4 per cent per annum was declared Dec. 31, 1959, and the association has paid $529,030.02 in dividends during 1959.

Local Man Gets Distinguished Citizen in Safety Award by MSC

Russ Jamison received the Medford Safety Council's distinguished citizen safety award and Gulf Red Cedar Mill of Central Point received the Frank Hull trophy for safety improvement in the past year.

The awards were presented along with others at the safety council's annual awards banquet held at the Rogue Valley Country club Friday night.

Some 187 persons attended the banquet to see the safety awards presented and hear Roseburg Chief of Police Vernon Murdoch Jr., tell of that city's reaction to the August 7 explosion which took 15 lives and did $10 million worth of property damage.

Jamison, a local public relations consultant and active in civic affairs, received the award from C. D. (S w e d e) Larson, 1959 president of the safety council who recognized Jamison as the real "workhorse" of the council and for his outstanding service to safety both as secretary of the council for the past two years and as a citizen.

Frank Hull Award
Gulf Red Cedar Mill received the Frank Hull safety improvement award for not having a lost work time accident at the plant in 1959 compared to eight lost-time accidents in 1958. The award was presented by Jackson County Sheriff Joe Walsh.

Berry Bigham, a past president of the safety council and a member of the board of directors presented Saved-A-Life awards to seven persons who are responsible for saving lives in 1959.

Paul Quinn, Ashland, and Joe Bodak, Central Point, received awards for saving Alfred Dillon, 18, from drowning in Jackson Hot Springs swimming pool Sept. 6 when they pulled Dillon from the pool and gave him artificial respiration.

Sgt. Raymond Seely of the Medford police department received an award for saving the life of Mitchell Smith, 2, by giving him mouth to mouth artificial respiration after he had been overcome by fumes from a gas heater, Dec. 20.

Mrs. Arlene Kornstad and Mrs. Ethel Kornstad, both from Medford, received the award for their prompt action which saved Danny Kornstad, 2½, after he fell in a well April 18. The women kept the child afloat until help arrived.

Kenneth Phillips, Medford, received the award for rescuing Edward Love, 8, from the Lake of the Woods where he was drowning, last July 4.

The seventh Saved-A-Life award went to Patrolman Dennis Perkins of the Medford Police department who, on May 23, crawled under a burning box car and pulled out Russell Jackson who would have burned to death.

The traffic engineering commendation was presented to the City of Medford Traffic Engineering department by Medford Police Capt. Clyde Fichtner, past treasurer of the safety council, who said the award is given to the city for its outstanding contributions to public safety through its traffic engineering program.

Accept Award
Ray Vaughan, assistant city engineer, accepted the award on behalf of the engineering department.

Ollie Smeltz, of the state industrial accident commission, presented industrial safety awards to Gulf Red Cedar, for its safety improvement in the past year, to Ideal Cement, Gold Hill, for going 1,270 days without a lost-time injury, Terry Love, 8, from the accident, to the California-Pacific Utilities company, for going 1,481 days without a lost-time accident, and to Jeddelloh Brothers Sued Mills, Gold Hill, a relatively new company employing 70 to 80 persons, for going the entire year without a lost-time accident and for the safety program at their plant. Special safety citations were issued by Sheriff Walsh to McGrew Brothers Sawmill, Bruce Blew Logging company and Steve Wilson Logging company for their outstanding driver safety and safety education programs.

Ralph Matthews was installed Friday night as the 1960 president of the safety council. He told the group that the council, which is the only active safety council in Oregon, will continue to carry on its program of contributing to community safety.

Matthews outlined the three main functions of the council. The first is to recognize the individual contributions to safety of firms, individuals, and the school safety patrol.

The second function is to call attention to safety hazards in the community and work towards their elimination, and the third is to cooperate with other groups in the promotion of safety.

Other Officers
Besides Matthews other officers installed at Friday night's banquet were Rudy Tetrault, vice president, Greg Ort, treasurer, Russ Jamison, secretary, and Paul Bettiol, C. D. Larson and Buford Johnson, to the board of directors.

Capt. Fichtner, who was general chairman of Friday night's banquet, introduced Chief Murdoch or Roseburg, saying one of the things that surprised him and other Medford police officers when they visited the Roseburg area shortly after the explosion, was the way things were organized.

Chief Murdoch said that cooperation of the various agencies, the police, county, Civil Defense, National Guard, Red Cross and state police was the one factor that contributed most to the orderly and organized manner in which the people of Roseburg met the challenge presented by the disaster.

He reviewed the events leading up to the explosion of the dynamite truck and the disaster that followed. He also showed the group several slides showing scenes of the devastation caused by the explosion which leveled several blocks in the heart of downtown Roseburg.

HOW CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HEALS

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN ELDERLY BRITISH COUPLE picked a time for their first visit to America when the dock workers were out on strike. It was actually the third vice-president of the steamship company, standing by for the emergency, who carried their baggage off the ship.

The grey-haired Englishman obviously was impressed. "You see," he whispered to his wife, "in America even the porters are well-dressed!"

When Sister Madeleine wheeled the portable library up to the bedside of a perky young lady in the hospital near Holyoke, Mass., the young lady asked mischievously, "Got anything here that's been banned lately in Boston, Sister?" "My dear girl," answered Sister Madeleine with a twinkle, "we haven't even got anything here that was WRITTEN in Boston!"

Annual Meeting Of Jeddelloh Mill Held Wednesday

Gold Hill—The annual meeting of the share holders of Jeddelloh Brothers Sued Mills, Inc., in Gold Hill was held Wednesday at the company's offices here.

President Fred Jeddelloh gave his review of the past year. He pointed out that 1959 was a year of big decisions for the company due to the heavy influx of orders for the particular machinery that the company produces and intense expansion program instituted. The company manufactures machinery for saw mills, including gang saws.

He presented a comparison with conditions that existed at the time when the company was formed. For instance he said in 1956, the company had sales of approximately $160,000. In 1959 the sales jumped to $1,000,000. The pay roll from $66,000 dollars in 1956 to $380,000 in 1959. Employment increased from eight in the beginning of 1956 to 65 at the end of 1959, he added.

He stated that all in all, approximately 10,000 square feet of floor space was added to the company's manufacturing facilities to bring the total to approximately 24,000 square feet. In addition a 1,500 square foot engineering building was constructed and furnished with the most modern drafting equipment and staffed with competent people.

In 1959 the company was able to design and put on the market quite a number of additional products which will give the company a considerable amount of stability and will make sales outlook for the future bright, he concluded.

Fred Jeddelloh, Otto G. Jeddelloh and Dale S. Collins were relected as directors.
