

Museum Guns Cleaned, Classified for Display

Jacksonville—Art Chipman, Medford, has been classifying and compiling histories of various guns in the Jacksonville museum, according to Miss Mary Hanley, curator.

The display ranges from small pistols to muskets, shotguns and rifles. Many represent various stages of firearm development and some are interesting because of their historical associations. Many of the guns were made by John Miller, pioneer Jacksonville gunsmith, Miss Hanley said.

One of the most popular guns with visitors is the smooth-bore flintlock known as an "Indian trade gun," since it was built specifically for trading with the Indians, Chipman said. The gun could be operated as long as the owner had powder. Small pebbles could be used when the lead balls were gone, Chipman said.

Members of the Jefferson State Arms Collectors and Chipman, who is president, have been cleaning the guns. Attendance at the museum from July 10, 1950, to Feb. 1, 1960, totaled 364,207. A total of 1,151 persons visited the museum in January. During January visitors came from 27 states, Canada and Peru. Cub Scout Troop, Den 1, Pack 100, Medford, and Girl Scout Troop 23, Jacksonville, also visited the museum.

Gifts and loans for the month included books from Mrs. Olive Floyd, Medford; John Tyrrell, Lake Creek; Hal Ogle, Klamath Falls; a book and a map from Dr. Arthur S. Taylor, Ashland; a campaign handkerchief from R. L. Burdick, Ashland; framed arrow points representing 12 Indian tribes from Warren T. Lee; an account book from Charles E. Ogle, both of Salem; letters and documents from Mrs. Marguerita Burch, Jacksonville, a cushion from C. C. Hoover, and a bank note from John Fichtner, both of Medford.

More than half of all the fresh water in the world lies within Canada.

Reese Creek Renegades

The meeting of the Reese Creek Renegades was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry.

Our leader, Cliff Moore, read an article on the demand for meat on the market. He showed us a picture of a hog with the parts marked so we could prepare for a test. David Calloway and Laqueta Stephenson are to give reports on either beef or dairy projects.

Following the meeting we had a game and Mrs. Perry served refreshments. The next meeting will be Monday, Feb. 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips. Kay Stephenson, Reporter

Renegades

Reese Creek Renegades held meetings at the Greb and Perry homes. Conservation was the main discussion topic. A snow party was planned. Kay Stephenson, Reporter.
