

Woman Television Writer Blasts Career Girl Cult

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
New York—Lucille Kallen, who earns her living writing comedy, sees nothing funny about the "cult of the career girl" in America today.

"This cult, she charged, perpetuates the premise that to have a career should be a woman's ultimate goal. 'Housewife becomes a dirty word,' said Miss Kallen.

The tiny brunette is one of a rare breed in the television industry; so far as she knows, there are only three women writing comedy for the home screens.

Miss Patricia Griffin
Jewelry Maker On Program for Ashland AAUW

Ashland—Miss Patricia Griffin, Seattle, Wash., will exhibit her handcrafted jewelry at the February meeting of the Ashland Branch, American Association of University Women, tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the College Commons.

Miss Griffin is a graduate of the University of Washington home economics department. While attending the University she studied design with Glenn Alps and Viola Patterson, ceramics with Virginia Weisel and Prof. Bonafina, and jewelrycraft with Miss Ruth Pennington. After graduation she attended college at Pasadena, Calif., and studied jewelry handcrafting.

Miss Griffin has a shop at her home where she recently has started sculpturing. One of her wood carvings of a madonna is on exhibit at the Little Gallery at Southern Oregon college.

Miss Griffin is a member of the Washington Arts and Crafts association and has work on display and for sale in the traveling educational exhibit as well as in several affiliated shops in Seattle and Spokane, Wash., and in Eugene, Ore. One of her wood carvings was exhibited in the Northwest Sculptors' invitational show. She has also exhibited regularly at the Little Gallery at Frederick and Nelson's in Seattle, the Henry Art Gallery, Fry's Museum in Seattle, Maryhurst college in Portland and last month finished a show with several others in Everett, Wash.

Miss Griffin is the house guest of Miss Seri Scanlon, director of mining services of Southern Oregon college and chairman of the arts and crafts committee of the Ashland AAUW.

Members of the Medford branch are invited to attend the meeting.

"But I am not a career girl," she said, "and I don't want to be one. I write for the same reason any other creative person produces; I have to. It is rather like the man who wanted to climb Mt. Everest 'because it's there.'"

Popular Myth
"Unfortunately," she said, "because of this cult, the average girl showing up today feels that if she is at the right drug store counter at the right time, she will be discovered and go on to fame and fortune.

"This glorification is so much nonsense. Yet the movies perpetuate it. So do books and magazines and other media."

"And what happens? The girls by the thousands come into business, neither because they must earn a living or satisfy an emotion drive, but because it's the chic thing to do.

"They have no idea of the dedication, of the years of work, which produce the Margaret Meads and the Margaret Bourke-Whites.

"It is no wonder we have such a bad time in the masculine world. The men resent the fact that so many average, ordinary girls are being spoiled for wifehood and motherhood."

Miss Kallen, Toronto-born and educated, was trained to be a concert pianist. But while in school, she organized a little theater group and wrote many of the skits and songs for the shows.

In the late 1940's, she sold a script for a Helen Hayes radio show and decided it was time to try New York.

She was writing night club acts and off-Broadway revues when Max Liebman, the television producer, spotted her. "I think he hired me because I looked like Sylvia Fine," said Miss Kallen. Miss Fine is the wife of comedian Danny Kaye and writes much of his material.

Salute To West
She was on Liebman's staff for "six or seven years" when he was producing the "Your Show of Shows" series. Now, she is a free-lancer but Liebman hired her to help with his latest production — the U.S. Steel Hour's "American Cowboy," televised tonight.

The show is a comedy portrayal of the West in sketches, songs and dance.

Miss Kallen said in her opinion there are few women in her field because "this is a back-breaking, frustrating profession" where you are subject to the combined pressures of the client, the agency, the star and all technical facets of the medium.

"And I don't pretend that working hasn't affected the job I do as a mother," she said. She is the wife of an engineer and has two children, a boy of 6 and a girl of 3.

"But at least," she said, "I don't try my lines out on them. My family's never the guinea pig."

Prize Winners Named by Club

Extension Group Plans Luncheon
Jackson County Extension Alumnae association will meet Monday, February 15, at the home of Mrs. C. C. Hoover, 2095 Gregory road. A business session is set for 11 a.m. and at 12 a potluck luncheon will be served.

The afternoon program on research will be presented by Mrs. Fred Middlebush, the research chairman.

To reach Mrs. Hoover's home members are advised to drive out the Crater Lake highway toward Camp White; Gregory road turnoff is to the left before reaching the camp.

Knights of Columbus Class Honors Frank L. Applegate

Frank L. Applegate

A long-time resident of Medford and descendant of a famous Oregon pioneer family was honored last Sunday when the "Brother Frank L. Applegate class" of 25 candidates was initiated into Rogue River council, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Applegate and their daughter, Miss Ella Applegate, were guests of honor at a Rogue Valley Country club banquet which climaxed a day of initiation activities. About 200 Knights and their guests attended the event.

Several officials of the organization were in Medford to participate in the day's program. Included were Joseph H. Blissenbach, The Dalles, Ore., state deputy; Edward J. Bell, Stayton, Ore., state secretary; Raymond J. Martin, Eugene, state chairman of decent literature committee; Robert Higgins, Eugene, supreme council insurance representative; Phillip Heidt, Eugene, deputy of District 7; John L. Hochstatter, Portland, grand knight of the Roseburg council; and Frank L. Williams, grand knight of Grants Pass council.

Also attending the banquet were several members and their wives from Eugene, Roseburg and Grants Pass councils.

State Secretary Bell, who has known Mr. Applegate for many years, introduced the honored knight to the banquet guests and presented him with the council's gift, a gold chain and watch-fob bearing the emblem of the order.

It was pointed out that Mr. Applegate has been active in the Catholic men's organization since his initiation in 1912, and in the Rogue River council since 1920. For many years he served as financial secretary and until last year was a trustee of the council.

Many valley residents will recall that Mr. and Mrs. Applegate (the former Lida Williams) celebrated their golden wedding anniversary five years ago on July 19, and on that day renewed their marriage vows in St. Joseph's church in Jacksonville where their wedding had taken place in 1905.

Four of the couple's six children are living. Besides Miss Applegate, there are Mrs. Thomas R. Barry; Captain John L., who is a jet pilot instructor at Laredo, Tex.; and Richard, who received worldwide attention a few years ago while a prisoner for 18 months of the Chinese Communists. He now lives in Chicago, where he is an assistant director of the Institute of American Strategy.

Grand Knight Thomas W. Dugan of the Medford council, who was master of ceremonies at the banquet, presented Mr. Applegate with a second "surprise" gift, a new seat for the bicycle which is as well-known as its owner.

This prompted the recipient to reminisce about his first bicycle, a second-hand chainless model which he purchased in 1904 when he was manager of an Indian trading post in Klamath county. He has ridden bicycles ever since, and the only new one he ever owned was soon stolen, he recalled.

Guest speaker at the initiation banquet was State Deputy Blissenbach, who asked all knights to act as a committee for welcoming newcomers into the parish and the community, and encouraged them to "be ready to meet the challenges which face you."

Others taking part in the evening program were the Very Rev. Carl Mai, chaplain of the council; the Rev. William McLeod; the Rev. John A. Ig; Mr. Martin; Mr. Hochstatter, and Ronald L. Ricketts, deputy grand knight, who introduced the new members.

The initiation program began in the morning with Mass and Communion in Sacred Heart church. A breakfast for candidates and members followed. After the afternoon initiation ceremonies, a special benediction was offered in the church.

A dance followed the evening banquet.

Mr. Dugan was assisted in making arrangements for the initiation day activities by committee chairman Ricketts, George J. Holtzinger, Robert J. Hamelin and Jerry Krueger.

Lodges Plan Many Events

Medford Moose lodge and Women of the Moose have a number of events planned for coming days.

The women's lodge will hold initiation at a meeting set for tonight at 8 o'clock at the lodge hall.

Final plans have also been made for a potluck dinner at the Moose hall for members and guests. It will start at 6:30 p.m. Friday, February 12. The rolls, butter and coffee will be furnished by the lodge. A valentine party will follow the dinner and children are invited to join in the fun.

A valentine dance will be held Saturday, February 13, at the hall. Barney Beaton's orchestra will play.

The supreme governor of Loyal Order of Moose will visit the local lodge March 14. A spring rummage sale will be held April 9.

The child care committee will take charge of refreshments this month. The committee is made up of Mrs. Billy Dean, Mrs. John Keener and Mrs. Dora Hanner.

Governor Wife Plan Open House

Salem—Governor and Mrs. Hatfield will mark the 101st anniversary of Oregon statehood with a general public open house at their home Sunday, February 14.

Calling hours will be from 2 to 4 o'clock. The Hatfields had intended to have Sunday "at homes" during the Centennial year but a long delay in construction accounted for the delay.

In addition to the one general open house, Mrs. Hatfield will hold morning coffees during the year.

Medford Woman Returns Home

Mrs. Fred Lawrence has returned to Medford after spending several days in Richmond, Calif., as a guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ludwig, and their three children, Sherrie, Sandra and Curtis.

Mr. Ludwig, who recently retired from the United States Navy with the rank of lieutenant-commander, is now an engineer for the University of California at Berkeley.

GOP Women To Meet Monday

Wallace L. Lee, Portland, president of the committee of volunteers for constitutional government of Oregon, Inc., will speak at the regular meeting of Jackson County Club, Republican Women's Federation of Oregon, on Monday, February 15. The luncheon session will be held at the Medford hotel at 12 noon.

The speaker, whose subject will be "Constitutional Government", is to be introduced by Armin Richter, Medford contractor.

A group of Ashland Republican women will be honored guests of the club. The public is invited to attend.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by telephoning Mrs. John Lynch, SPring 3-1984.

Cooking Classes Combat Delinquency

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International
New York—The Madison Square Boys Club fights delinquency with food cooked by youngsters where welfare is at stake.

No temperamental French chef is more enthusiastic about his work than these juvenile cooks, in blue jeans, T-shirts and sneakers.

But for a different reason, Club officials speculate that most 9-to-14-year-olds sign up for lessons to satisfy voracious appetites.

They were making brownies the day I dropped in, but the curriculum also includes many foreign foods, said associate director Lawrence "Larry" Weill. Thirty-seven nationalities are represented among the club's 1,500 members.

The only recipe requirements established by teacher Arthur Glynn are the ease of making, fun of preparation, and moderate cost.

Pancakes are the current favorite, Glynn said. Weill said that the eight-member cooking classes always have held their own in popularity with swimming, woodworking and "gym." The hour session. "But I've thrown more boys out for profanity than anything else," said Glynn. His pupils come from a low-income, overcrowded city neighborhood.

The boys get no chance to claim unfairness of opportunity. Each class prepare the same dish. This culminates in an annual spring contest in which the 12 boys who have shown the greatest improvement compete for a triple prize—a silver cup engraved with the winner's name, lunch at a famous hotel, and a tour of its kitchens.

Surprisingly, the classes and contest don't lure many boys into culinary careers. Weill estimated that only about 30 per cent are seriously interested in cooking. Both he and Glynn explained that most pupils look upon it as a recreation activity.

A rare exception is a pupil of several years ago, Tony LaPorta, who today is a chef at one of New York's best and most expensive restaurants.

Valentine Parties Planned For Square Dance Groups

Square dances and classes are on the calendar this week. Tangle Footer Round Dance club will meet tonight at Take It Easy lodge. Grants Pass. Mr. Hagerman will call. This club meets on second and fourth Wednesdays.

The Y Knot Twirlers will dance at the YMCA in Medford Thursday, February 11 at 8 p.m. A workshop session is planned and Douglas Decker, caller, will teach new figures. For refreshments the club will furnish coffee and dancers are to take cookies. All dancers are welcome to attend.

Friday, February 12, an "open hoedown" is planned at the Darby school located nine miles up the Butte Falls road. Douglas Decker will be caller.

Four dances are planned Saturday, February 13. The Applegaters will dance at the Provolt Grange hall, with Byron (Buzz) Dibble as caller. Keeno Squares will hold a valentine party at the Knights of Pythias hall in Grants Pass. Those attending are asked to take hats, "any kind of a hat." Peter Dunster will be caller.

The Jeans and Janes club will hold a valentine dance at Take It Easy Lodge, with Charles Jones calling.

Intermediate classes in square dancing now underway are being held at Take It Easy lodge on Monday with Roy Hagerman calling and at Provolt Grange hall on Wednesdays with Mr. Dibble calling. Beginners' classes are scheduled Mondays at the YMCA in Medford, with Mr. Fobury calling, and at the Provolt Grange hall Mondays, with Mr. Dibble as caller.

J. D. Neill, reporter for the Rogue Valley Square Dance Callers' association, states that clubs with news of dances or other events may call him at SPring 2-7611, or send the information to him at 1415 West Eighth street, Medford.

Tea in Ashland To Benefit Club

Ashland—Members of garden clubs in the Rogue area and their friends are invited to attend a silver tea for Ashland Garden club to be given Friday, February 12 by Mrs. W. D. Jackson in her home, 606 Iowa street, Ashland.

Tea hours will be from two until five o'clock. On display will be Mrs. Jackson's pitcher collection numbering several hundred in all colors, sizes and designs.

To Hear Lesson

Mrs. T. R. Antley and Mrs. Fred Simcox will give the project lesson Thursday, February 11, at the Winchester Home Extension meeting at the home of Mrs. Glenn Holst, 1117 Mt. Pitt avenue, at 7:30 p.m.

The lesson will be the first of two to be presented on synthetic fabrics and fibers.

Historical Footnotes
New York—(UPI)—Pearl Posner collects footnotes to history — miniature shoes. The wife of a children's shoe manufacturer, Mrs. Posner has about 100 shoes, mostly in porcelain, of styles popular through the ages in many countries. Included in the collection are reproductions of military boots, Chinese slippers and baby booties.
