Students Design, Make Costumes

Dior may have been considered the most famous designer of the '50's, but the costume staff of "Pygmalion," senior class play of Medford High school, believe they should be accorded some fame for early 1960 designing. At least among their fellow students at MHS.

Headed by Penny Lynn, the staff has been busily preparing the costumes for the play, which is to be presented February 18 and 19. After studying books of the 1912 period, the girls proceeded to make original sketches from which they made the 13 costumes for all the female roles. The male characters will be outfitted with ready-made costumes.

A great variety of materials and colors are being used in these creations, which are necessary for a production of this kind. Satins, cotton, organdies and linens, are among the materials chosen, with colors ranging from dark browns and grays to pink and light green.

Staff members include Shirley Boswell, Lois Wright, Rita McBeth, Janice Everham, Margorie wonderly, Donna Dell, Sharon Laing, and Rita Miller.

Tickets for the production may be purchased at Furuckers, Barkers, or from senior class members.
