The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic

What People Like In A Doctor I recently read a summary of a Cornell study on Doctor-Patient relationships. Fifty per cent of the persons who answered said they liked to find in their doctor, kind, understanding, and sympathy; 42 per cent appreciated signs of intelligence, know-doctor's office with no clear notion of what their problem had a fairly accurate remembrance of what the name of their disease was, but didn't understand what all the long words meant. If a patient doesn't understand what the doctor said, or doesn't agree with the doctor's plan of treatment, he or she is likely soon to look for help elsewhere. Obviously, a great factor in a doctor's success can be 1, his willingness to talk to his patients and, 2, his skill in explaining to them what the trouble is—in words that they can understand.

Good News For People With Glaucoma Recently, Dr. Jules M. Yasuna, of Peekskill Hospital, N. Y., and the Mt. Sinai Hospital, of New York City, has devised a simple operation which, in a few minutes, generally gives relief to a person with a dangerous type of glaucoma.

Dr. Alvarez' booklet on nervousness may be obtained by sending a stamped, large, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. MMT, The Register and Tribune Syndicate, Box 957, Des Moines 4, Iowa. Enclose 25 cents with your request.

The greatest recorded earthquake in the United States struck the village of New Madrid, Missouri, on Dec. 16, 1811, and was felt over an area of two million square miles, but only caused one death.
