Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DRESS MANUFACTURER had been heckped by a shrewish wife for years, and finally mustered sufficient courage to walk out on her. He changed his name, had his nose fixed, dyed his hair, and began life all over again in a city a thousand miles away.

The wife never gave up her search for him, however, and 12 years later tracked him down. He saw her coming and took refuge in the washroom—but she battered down the door, and colared him.
"What's the matter?" he protested weakly. "Can't a man even go to the washroom in peace any more?"

The Santa Clans hired by a big department store for the holiday season was doing a bang-up job with the tots, but was fired nevertheless five days before Christmas. The reason? The manager of the store came stomping to him, followed by a small boy and his smiling father, and exploded, "Did you promise this man's son that I'd buy a $5,000 life insurance policy from his father?"
