

Winter Games Site Like Security Camp

By HAL WOOD
Squaw Valley, Calif. (UPI)—The public laughed when one California legislator suggested that the Olympic area of Squaw Valley be turned into a minimum security camp for first offenders after the games are over.

But there is another laugh going the rounds of the area now.

"It's already a maximum security camp," said one wag.

Like Main Street
To get in and out of Squaw Valley these days a man driving a car is stopped often, rather than a heavily-traveled main street full of traffic lights.

"I'm starting to believe that it's harder to get into Squaw Valley than it is to get into Fort Knox," said Walter Brown of Boston, a high Olympic ice hockey official. "I was stopped many times before I finally got here. Then we were turned off the road to a parking lot, where we had to pay $1 for parking and then walk to the games area."

Gaels Keep WCAC Lead

United Press International
If either Santa Clara or Pepperdine wants to usurp St. Mary's number one spot in the West Coast Athletic conference basketball race, they will have to get the job done themselves.

The Gaels have led the loop through most of the year, but many predicted their time had come when Santa Clara crushed them, 72-48. But St. Mary's shook this loss off and has come back to play sharp basketball as witness the 79-55 thumping of COP on the latter's court Tuesday night.

The win kept the Gaels atop the loop with a 6-1 record and a 14-7 season mark. Pepperdine and Santa Clara are both 5-2 and a look at the schedule shows St. Mary's last two games are against the Waves and Broncs.

New Celler-Dwellers
Things are popping at the other end of the WCAC, also. USF, upset winners over Pepperdine and Santa Clara, lost to San Jose State in overtime, 69-66. The win pulled San Jose out of the loop cellar and put COP in.

Two Circuits In 3-Way Ties

United Press International
They're starting the basketball season all over again in the Southeastern and Southwest conferences.

Georgia Tech, Auburn and Kentucky wound up in a three-way tie for first place in the SEC with 9-2 records when Tennessee upset Tech, 57-56, and Kentucky's Comeback Kids turned back Vanderbilt, 68-60, Tuesday night.

A similar three-way tie for the Southwest conference lead was produced when Texas shocked Texas A&M, 79-62, and Southern Methodist upended Rice, 75-58. That left Texas sharing first place with the Aggies and SMU, each boasting 7-2 league marks.

News and Notes From Camp White
By WALTER TOWNSEND
The Disabled American Veterans auxiliary Feb. 10 gave a birthday party to all members who were born in February.

Those responsible for the occasion were Mrs. Hazel Rawley, state commander; Mrs. Bertha Neff, local unit president; Mrs. Doris Graham, chaplain; and also Mrs. Louise Hickman, a volunteer worker.

Music was provided by Alexander's Hawaiian band, Elsie Alexander, band leader. Other members of the band included Sadie Coulter, Marge Biddle, Sallie Maulding, Jim Arnold, and Don MacPherson. Peggy Maulding came as chauffeur for the musician group.

The men were grouped at tables in the theater, had coffee and cake and Hawaiian music.

Harry McReynolds, now on duty in section A, has been appointed chief of linen and supply of section five, a newly created section of the domiciliary. He will assume his new station and new duties Monday.

McReynolds, whose home is in Seattle, Wash., has been in Camp White for the past nine months.

Hawkinson Tire Quintet Annexes Crown in SOIBL

SOIBL STANDINGS:

W.	L.	Pct.
Hawkinson Tire Tread 11	1	.917
SO College JV 10	2	.833
Andy's Jewelers 6	5	.545
Butte Falls 5	6	.455
Big Y Markets 4	7	.364
National Guard 3	8	.273
Glendale 1	11	.083

Hawkinson Tire Tread annexed the Southern Oregon Independent Basketball league championship last night by squelching National Guard 101 to 28.

Victory gave the Tremen a one game edge over Southern Oregon college junior varsity which finished in second place.

The SOIBL season ends tonight with two games. Big Y Markets will oppose Andy's Jewelers at McLoughlin gym here and National Guard will clash at Butte Falls. Both games are set for 8 p.m.

Hawkinson's, with their championship, gained the right to represent Jackson county this Saturday and Sunday in the AAU district tournament at Klamath Falls. The Tremen reportedly will play the Klamath entry at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The 28 points, by the National Guard last night, tied a league low score mark established by the Guardsmen in a game last year with Butte Falls. Hawkinson's led Guard 50 to 19 at halftime. Dave

Jordan Awaits Exam Results

Los Angeles - (UPI) - Welterweight champion Don Jordan today awaited the results of a physical examination that could end his suspension by the California athletic commission and allow him to defend his title before the NBA takes it away from him.

Jordan, who is in a peck of trouble for various and sundry peccadilloes, underwent the examination Tuesday. But Dr. Abraham Waxman, who performed the tests on the 25-year-old champion, said the results wouldn't be available until laboratory tests are finished.

The slick punching welterweight was ordered by the National Boxing association to furnish official proof of his physical fitness by Friday or forfeit the title he won in 1958 from St. Louis' Virgil Atkins.

Eddie LeBaron Quits Football

Washington - (UPI) - The Washington Redskins scanned rival National Football League rosters today in hopes of filling the gaping hole left by the retirement of the league's smallest player.

Coach Mike Nixon said he would go with Ralph Guglielmi next season after 165-pound quarterback Eddie LeBaron announced he is quitting pro football to begin a law career in Texas, but informed NFL sources said the Redskins undoubtedly will try to swing a deal for another quarterback.

Housewife Bowls 300

Gresham - (UPI) - A 38-year-old housewife is the first Oregon bowler to roll a sanctioned 300 game in the state this season. Mrs. Johanna Lewis, Gresham, bowled her 300 Monday night in a league game.

She had a 149, then the 300 and then a 125 for a score of 574.

Fleck Pockets Phoenix Prize

Phoenix, Ariz. - (UPI) - It was a long time between victories," commented Jack Fleck as he pocketed the winner's share of the $22,500 Phoenix Open golf tournament.

Fleck, a Los Angeles shot-maker whose last victory was in the pressure-packed 1955 Open when he edged Ben Hogan in a playoff, got back into top money Monday when he bested Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla., in a championship playoff here. They were deadlocked after the regulation 72 holes at 273.

Fleck shot a three-under par 68 and cashed in on Collins' mistakes to win it. Collins had a par 71 with a double bogie on the 14th hole.

Fleck won $3,500 for first place and an additional $1,800 as his share from the gate receipts for the playoff. Collins won $2,100 and $1,800.

Small Worlds Around Us

By Lynn M. Watkins
The Common Mullet Has Many Guessing
The poor fish is justified in being frustrated, befuddled and confused. Think how he must feel knowing that nearly every fisherman and everyone else who is even remotely acquainted with him argues constantly at to whether he is a fish or a fowl or if he will ever become desperate enough to bite a baited hook.

It's enough to give any fish a bad case of the jitters. Perhaps the mullet really has reached that stage; that may be why he keeps jumping out of the water. He is probably nervous.

Sometimes the more common a thing is, the less there is known about it; for example the mullet-one of the most common of marine fishes. Hundreds of tons of them have been sold, tons have been smoked. Many people who live near waters where this fish is plentiful know more about how its flesh tastes than how the fish lives. In many sections of the gulf states the mullet is the most important food fish. Served with grits, it is a staple food. More Fowl Than Fish

Even those fishermen who have spent the better part of their lives catching these fish, maintain the mullet has a gizzard and are therefore more fowl than fish. Probably the reason why such a belief started was the discovery that the fish ate nothing but vegetation and would never bite on a hook. Of course a bird, who does have a gizzard, would have no use for an air-bladder such as a mullet possesses. Neither would a mullet have any use for a gizzard.

When he begins life in the sea the baby mullet eats other things besides vegetation, but as he develops, his system and his appetite undergo a change. He becomes a true vegetarian. The internal change, which comes with advancing growth, lengthens the intestines and causes it to become convoluted or coiled. It has to coil because of the lack of inner room. As it grows longer it demands different food-grass and plant life, and algae of various kinds. But it does not have a

Local Man Seeks $55,000 Damages

Grant Bourquin, of 509 West 11th, is seeking $55,000 in general damages and $1,841.71 in special damages as a result of a traffic accident in Medford Nov. 19, 1958.

According to the complaint filed by Robert Boyer, Medford lawyer, Mrs. Bourquin was driving south on Central ave. at the Sixth st. intersection when the vehicle she was operating was struck by a Los Angeles-Seattle Motor Express, Inc., truck driven by Dale E. Holbrook.

The complaint charges that the truck driver was negligent and careless in failing to keep his truck under proper control, failed to stop or to swerve to avoid a collision and failed to obey the traffic signal, failed to yield the right of way, and drive at an "unreasonable speed."

The complaint also charges that Bourquin suffered permanent injuries when the truck hit the side of the car in which he was riding. Special damages include $554.71 for medical expenses and $1,287 in loss of wages.

Judge Defers Case Of Portland Men

Portland - (UPI) - Municipal Judge J. J. Labadie Tuesday afternoon deferred until March 25 the case of five men accused of disorderly conduct in front of the Oregonian building Feb. 6.

Judge Labadie directed City Attorney William C. Beers and counsel for the five, Clifford O'Brien, to submit memoranda citing authority for the arguments presented in court Tuesday.

The five men, all members of the striking Web Pressmen, are Everett Henderson, 30; Vernon C. Ranger, 27; Kenneth B. Huffman, 27; Henry F. Russell, 22, and Roland St. Claire, 28, all of Portland.

Five Injured in Portland Collision

Portland - (UPI) - Five Portland women were injured when their car and a school bus collided Tuesday afternoon.

In serious condition at Emanuel hospital was Mrs. Mary Edwards, 68, driver of the car.

Receiving lesser injuries were Mrs. Geraldine Welty, 60; Mrs. Pearl Thom, 54; Mrs. James Sparko, 58, and Mrs. Myra Dolan, 75.

Kathleen Olsen, 16, a passenger in the bus, also was slightly injured.

Viks Now Head OCC

Portland - (UPI) - Portland State is back in the driver's seat today in the Oregon Collegiate conference. The Vikings took over the number one spot with a 58-54 overtime victory over Oregon College of Education Tuesday night. Regulation play ended 47-47 and Don Powell sparked the rally that tied it for PSC with two driving layins in the last minute and a half.

Eldon Lahti's three points and Don Bridges layin with 26 seconds left clinched the win in the overtime.

Portland State took over the league lead from Oregon Tech. PSC has a 7-4 mark and OTI is 8-5.

Presbyterians Stay Unbeaten

First Presbyterian took its fifth senior church basketball league victory without a loss Monday night by dumping St. Mark's Episcopal 58 to 17. John McKinley had 17 points and Ray Konopasek led 16 for Presbyterian which led 31 to 7 at the half.

Boston - (UPI) - The Boston Patriots will be the name of this city's American Football League entry, it was announced Tuesday. A poll of New England sports writers selected the nickname "Patriots" over such suggested names as "Bulls," "Pilgrims," "Beavers," "Terriers," and "Braves."

usual under the circumstances.

But they might as well try to grow sugar cane on the ski slopes.

For in one of the first incidents, one young lady was seen skinning through the rear window into the men's dormitory.

"I guess," harumphed one Olympic official when he heard the report, "that our security force is undermined."

Actually, they couldn't get enough guards into this valley, appropriately named "Squaw," to eliminate what came naturally.

First of all, there is a certain camp following in any sport. Baseball has it with an adoring set known as "Bull Pen Berthas." In golf, the members of the fair set who trek to all the tournaments are known as "Sand Trap Sallies."

In skiing, this feminine supporting cast which makes the whole circuit from Vermont to Sun Valley to Aspen is a group known as "Snow Bunnies."

Maintaining complete Olympic amateurism always is a problem to the harried international fathers. At Melbourne during the 1956 Olympic Games, the women's village was surrounded by an eight foot high wire fence and the gates were guarded by the Australian army. So what happened?

One guy pole-vaulted over the fence. Another group tunneled under the fence. Two weight lifters padded their jerseys in the appropriate places, covered their heads with babushkas and simpered their way past the goggle-eyed guards.

But the rush really was on when some character finally came up with a pair of efficient wire clippers.
