Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ACCORDING to Peter Fosburgh, author of "The Natural Thing," you don't have to hit the wide-open west any more to come across a coyote. The pesky animals can be found occasionally today as far east as the Catskills and Alleghenies!

"In the summer of 1958," recalls Fosburgh, "my brother was writing a book and trapping coyotes at the same time on the side. A carbon copy of his opening chapters was thrown on the local dump and so were a couple of coyote traps. My brother's first catch was a 38-pound coyote, and mixed in with the rest of the garbage in its stomach was page 67 of the manuscript."

Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," has the title for a new work that should cause a mild sensation: "A Child's Life of Oscar Wilde."

Hal Sims, late bridge wizard, always insisted, "The one thing amateurs never will learn is that the best bid in a bridge hand very often is 'I pass!'"

Juvenile Drivers Receive Warning

Portland—UPI—Circuit Judge Virgil Langtry Wednesday warned juvenile drivers they can expect stiff penalties if they are cited into Juvenile Court.

The judge made the remarks to 17 juveniles and their parents who appeared at his weekly traffic court session.

Judge Langtry suspended one boy's license for 60 days because he had been involved in a drag race.

He said he hoped the word would get around that he was going to be rough on "squirrel" drivers who play games with cars.

Building in Mall May Be Resumed

Salem—UPI—The Department of Finance and Administration estimates that work can be resumed on the state's new labor and industries building in the Capitol Mall about the middle of March.

The $3 million project was held up by the steel strike. A quantity of steel for the building is now in the fabrication process at Seattle.

New target date for completion of the building now is next April, several months later than the original schedule.

Tug Sinks After Engine Room Fire

Vancouver, B.C.—UPI—The $75,000 tug Torpedo caught fire and sank off Point Atkinson Wednesday.

Three crewmen fought an engine-room blaze aboard the Torpedo until the spreading flames forced them into a lifeboat. Minutes later, as another vessel sprayed water on the burning tug, the fuel tanks exploded and sent flames through the hatches and port-holes.

Teaching Session Scheduled at OSC

Corvallis—A conference on "superior teaching," aimed at continued improvement of college teaching in Oregon, will be sponsored Feb. 26 and 27 by Oregon State college.

All the state's public and private colleges and universities are participating.

Dr. Earl J. McGrath, former U.S. commissioner of education and now executive officer of the Institute of Higher Education at Columbia university, will be keynote speaker.

Topics of discussion will include aims of education; better selection, organization and use of subject matter; improvement of classroom procedures; evaluation of teaching results; teaching through television; and future adjustments in college teaching.

A similar conference was organized last year by OSC and response was so favorable that plans call for the event to be held annually.

Staff members will include Dr. Arthur Kreisman and Dr. R. H. Byrns of Southern Oregon college.

Power Goes Out Over Wide Area

Klamath Falls—UPI—Power outages of varying lengths occurred Wednesday night in Klamath and Lake counties in Oregon and northern Modoc and Siskiyou counties in California.

Sam I. Ritchey, Klamath county district manager for California-Oregon Power Co., said the outages were caused by testing at the Bonneville Administration at Redmond. The longest outage was 28 minutes.
