

Demonstrations Planned Against Ike in Uruguay

Montevideo, Uruguay (UPI) — There would have been at least three demonstrations against President Eisenhower during his visit here had not California Convict Caryl Chessman won a reprieve, it was learned on good authority Friday night.

University students had already arranged the demonstrations. They planned to greet Eisenhower March 2 with signs reading "Murderer" and "Hangman, Go Home."

The students were ready also to call for a public boycott that would have given Eisenhower the stinging, silent treatment received in many U. S. cities by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Planned Demonstrations
According to well-informed sources, the planned demonstrations would have at least begun on an orderly basis, but there was grave concern that the Communist elements would have provoked outright violence.

The sources said the question of possible harm being done to the U. S. President came up at a meeting of the government council last Wednesday.

At that time, the sources said, Minister of Foreign Affairs Homero Martinez-Montero expressed fears the atmosphere would be "too dangerous" for Eisenhower should the Chessman execution be carried out on schedule.

'Grave Concern'
The Council, which fulfills the functions of a president in Uruguay, was said to have shared the "grave concern" of the foreign minister and it instructed him to brief U. S. Ambassador Robert Woodward on the situation.

Uruguayans have been among the most active proponents of clemency for Chessman. The books he wrote on San Quentin Prison's death row were overnight best-sellers in this country.

Among the most vocal of groups demanding a reprieve for Chessman have been leftist elements and students, but newspapers also backed the cause. The Congress once passed a resolution asking U. S. authorities to spare the convict's life.

News of his latest reprieve was greeted by joyous demonstrations Friday.

Survey Vessel Launching Held

Portland (UPI) — A fisheries survey vessel outfitted to allow man to peer at the fish world through undersea windows, was launched here Friday by the Gunderson Brothers Engineering Corp.

The vessel is the Charles H. Gilbert, a 118-foot craft owned by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. It has been rebuilt by the Gunderson Corporation to permit biologists to study undersea life.

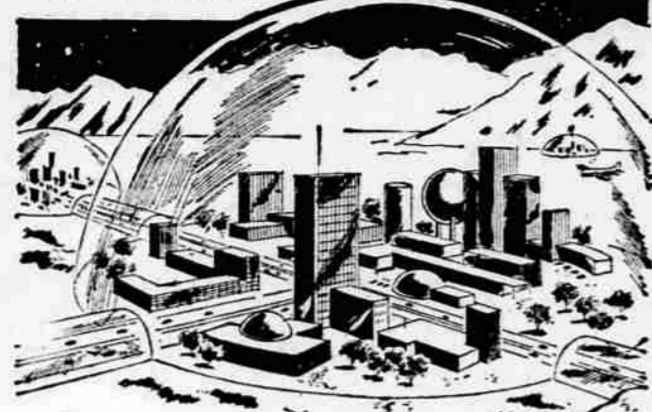

The vessel is normally based at Honolulu for studies of Pacific Ocean fish life. A new bow with a "bubble" was added. The "bubble" has windows and is large enough for a man and a camera. Glass windows in the bubble are 1½ inches thick and are said to be stronger than the steel in the hull.

MOSKVITCH ON SALE

Casablanca, Morocco (UPI) — Russia's Moskvitch automobile, which is to be exported to the United States, went on sale here for the first time Friday at a price of $14,000. Moroccan francs—about $1,244.

Motion to Squash Indictment Entered

Portland (UPI) — A motion was presented in the court of Circuit Judge Charles Redding Friday to quash the indictment against Levi S. McDonald, 61, Portland.

McDonald was indicted along with four others on charges of injury to property by explosives in the Jan. 31 Portland newspaper truck bombings.

McDonald had been scheduled to enter a plea Friday on the indictment.

Judge Redding set aside until Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. any action on the motion in order to give district attorney Charles Raymond a chance to see the petition.

The four others are slated to enter pleas Tuesday on similar charges.

Song Written About School Superintendent

Knoxville, Tenn. (UPI)—Knox County School Superintendent Mildred Doyle said students in one elementary school Friday composed a song starting, "Mildred Doyle should be boiled in oil."

Earlier Friday she had ordered they attend Saturday classes to make up time lost when schools were closed because of heavy snow.
