Nationalists Not in Games

San Francisco - (UPI) - Nationalist China's Olympic committee complained Saturday that the International Ski federation caused confusion over Chinese participation in the Winter Games at Squaw Valley.

The federation (FIS) said last Wednesday that the Chinese team could not compete at Squaw Valley because it was not a member of the federation.

The ski federation's edict "has rendered fruitless our efforts to uphold the cardinal Olympic concept of participation," said Teng Chuan-kai, chairman of the Nationalist Chinese Olympic Committee.

Squaw Valley - (UPI) - Germany won two gold medals and Russia one in the Winter Olympic Games Saturday with the United States losing out in the ladies' glamour event, the downhill ski race.

Heidi Biebl of Germany, who didn't think she had done very well, won the nearly 70-mile-an-hour dash down the 1 mile and 200-yard mountain KT22. Penny Pitou, of the three other U.S. girls considered an especially strong U.S. group, had to settle for second place. And none of the three other U.S. girls finished in the first six.

The other gold medals went to Marija Guskova of Russia in the ladies' 10-kilometer 6-mile cross country ski race and Helga Haase of Germany the ladies' 500-meter speed race in which the U.S. took a surprising third.

Miss Biebl, who was so sure she was beaten that she shortly refused to talk to interviewers, had stood at the starting line while Miss Pitou, a language student at Middlebury college, set up a mark for the rest of the field to shoot at - 1:38.6.

One Second Faster Then Miss Biebl hurled her body down the course one second faster to win the championship.

Back of Miss Pitou came Traudi Hacher of Austria, third, Pia Riva of Italy fourth, Jerta Schitt of Italy fifth and Anneliese Meggi of Germany sixth.

Joan Hannah of Franconia, N.H., finished 21st, Linda Meyers of Mammoth Lakes, Calif. 33rd, and Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt., failed to finish after she was injured shortly after the start.

Miss Guskova was clocked in 39 minutes, 46.6 seconds on the frosty dunes of McKinney Creek.

On the figure skating oval, favored Carol Heiss of the United States took an early lead over her rivals in the first series of compulsory figures.

As is customary, there were no U.S. entries in the women's cross-country, considered strictly a European event.

The second gold medal of the day went to Helga Haase of Germany, who upset the favored Russians in the 500-meter speed skating.

The U.S. team picked up a surprising third for a bronze medal on the fast finish of Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, Mass. The winner was clocked in 45.9, Natalja Donchenko of Russia was next in 46 seconds flat.

The Russian gold medal was the third awarded in the games. Canada and Sweden each won one Friday. One crown went to the pair skating champions, Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Canada.

Sweden Wins Medal The other title went to Sweden's Sixten Jernberg, a slender 31-year-old sporting goods salesman, who won the 30 kilometer (18 1/2 mile) cross-country skiing race.

The United States with defenseman John Mayasich of Green Bay, Wis., and goalie John McCartan of St. Paul, leading the way, got off to a good start in the Olympic hockey competition, coming from behind to whip Czechoslovakia, 7-5. A four goal barrage in the third period, with Mayasich scoring the tie-breaking goal, did the trick.

Canada became the first team to enter the championship round of the Olympic hockey tournament when the squad from the land where the game originated, walloped Japan, 19-1. It was Canada's second straight victory and put the Canadians in the title pool.

The first of the rhu-barbs which always mark international hockey competition bloomed Saturday in the Winter Games, with Sweden protesting the interpretation of rules after its defeat by Canada, 5-2, Friday night.

Russia, co-favored with Canada for the title, also won, defeating Germany 8-0. In a letter to the International Hockey federation, the Swedish hockey group complained that "international rules did not seem to have been fully applied during the

Two Records Broken, One Tied In AAU Track Meet

New York - (UPI) - World indoor records tumbled like tenpins in the National A.A.U. track championships Saturday night when Irvin (Bo) Robertson smashed the broad-jump mark, Hal Connolly blitzed the weight throw record and the 60 yard dash record was tied twice.

Robertson, 24 year old Army second lieutenant, erased the oldest mark in the books when he broadjumped 25 feet, 9 1/2 inches, a half inch more than the mark set by Jesse Owens exactly 25 years ago.

Connolly, the human siege gun from Santa Monica, Calif., easily eclipsed the 35 pound weight throw record with a heave of 71 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

Paul Winder of Morgan State college and David James of the U.S. Army each equalled the indoor record of 6.1 seconds in winning their semifinal heats, in the 60 yard dash. Winder won the final in 6.2 seconds while James finished fourth.

Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan equalled the meet record of 7.1 seconds when he nepped Olympic champion Lee Calhoun of Gary, Ind., in a photo-finish in the 60 yard hurdles.

The win gave the Ducks a 15-7 season's mark and kept them in contention for an NCAA at-large berth.

Rask sparked a second half rally that brought Oregon from a 19-18 halftime lead into a 29-19 bulge with 2 1/2 minutes played. Rask and G-7 Glenn Moore combined for five more points and Oregon had a 43-28 lead midway through the second half.

The speedy Rask also stole the ball six times from the Huskies.

Charlie Warren scored nine points to rank behind Rask for high point honors for the Ducks. Washington's Roger Niva had 14 for the Huskies. Bill Hanson was held to seven points by the checking of Moore and Wally Knecht.
