

Parole Officer Under Arrest on Battery Charge

Albany, Ore.—A parole officer from MacLaren School for Boys has been arrested by Linn county sheriff's officers and charged with assault and battery of a Brownsville youth.

Fred J. Wright, 42, Albany, was arrested on a charge involving an 18-year-old MacLaren parolee who was released Saturday.

The youth said Wright met him at the court house and offered him a ride to Brownsville. En route, the youth said, Wright told him he was wanted for another charge in Brownsville but he (Wright) would fix it if the boy submitted to punishment.

When the youth said he would rather be punished than go back to jail, Wright took him to his apartment and subjected the boy to a beating with a paddle, then took him home, according to the youth.

Boy Talks
Sheriff's officer said the incident came out when the boy started talking to friends in Brownsville who called police. An investigation was launched and Wright was arrested when he entered Juvenile Court on another matter. Wright pleaded guilty to the charge.

He told Judge Wendall P. Tompkins he was conducting a study for a doctors degree at Stanford University.

Judge Tompkins ordered a presentence investigation by the State Board of Parole and Probation.

Wright's jurisdiction covered Linn and Benton counties.
