

Out on a Limb

By BOB WALTERS

A recent best-selling record among high schoolers was a morbid little ditty entitled "Teen Angel." It was "number one" in this country for several weeks (it seemed like an infinity) but, according to a UPI story from London, the British want nothing to do with it.

Britain's disc jockeys, the story said, banned it for being "in very bad taste."

The song deals with a teenage couple out for a ride in the boy's car. The car stalls on some railroad tracks, a train toots onto the scene and the boy drags the girl to safety.

But the girl is a sentimentalist. She runs back to the car to get her boy friend's high school ring.

Nothing sentimental about the train, though. It roars down the tracks, pulverizes the car and transforms the girl into a "Teen Angel."

Throughout the remainder of the tune, the boy keeps asking sadly, "Are you somewhere up above/And am I still your only love?"

The British may be right about the "bad taste" charge, but there is a moral:

"She who keeps track of boy friend's ring is well trained."

You've probably heard the slogan delivered by one of the local radio stations after each newscast: "When you hear it, it's news. When you read it, it's history."

One Medford teen-ager, a wise young lady indeed, took the station's errors into consideration and paraphrased it thusly:

"When you hear it, it's rumor. When you read it, it's fact."

Good girl.

Those sonic booms last Tuesday morning reportedly unnerved several humans, plus at least one canine.

One of our reporters, who lives on a farm, says her dog "came running in from the south 40 with its tail between its legs."

The pup's mental condition may even develop into a problem for the Air Force brass

EP Council Discusses Sewer Project; Engineer Says Federal Aid Unlikely

By DOTTIE HARBISON

Mail Tribune Correspondent
Eagle Point - The Eagle Point city council discussed the sewer plant project at its meeting Tuesday night. Guest speaker was Archie Rice of the Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield Construction Engineering company, Corvallis.

Rice said his firm has installed water and sewer lines at several private homes and places of business in Medford, Rogue River and Gold Hill. He said he would need a detailed plan of the project before he could provide an accurate estimate of its cost.

This could include the Camp White area, which is considering joining forces with Eagle Point for the project.

Rice said federal aid is unlikely at this time since the President vetoed the bill on additional funds for sanitation aid. Federal help may be ob-over at Klamath Falls.

"I'm going to write Kingsley Field," she says somewhat bitterly, "if our dog has a nervous breakdown!"

Friday's mail included an auto registration card from the state department of motor vehicles. Trouble is, it's not for the new car, but for the one that tangled with Sexton mountain.

Wherever you are, little car, we hope it's some consolation to know the state finally saw fit to enter you in its records.

Rest in peace.

If police had stopped Jacksonville firemen Friday morning and asked "Where's the fire?" they would have gotten a vague answer. The firemen didn't know.

The blaze, which gutted the inside of a home owned by Mrs. Hanna Smith, was at 305 East California st., but whoever phoned in the alarm simply blurted "Fire on California street!" and hung up.

Correspondent Bette Hoskins says the fire department asks that anyone turning in an alarm stay on the line until the firemen have all the information they need.

In Friday's case, it would have saved a time-consuming search. It might even have saved the house.

tained through funds available for the purchase of bonds if private purchase is impossible at that time, he stated.

At present, the sale of bonds is slow but Rice gave several suggestions on preparing a brochure concerning the growth of the area to aid the sale.

Rice's firm has not been engaged, but is being considered by the council.

City Attorney Gregg Hornecker said the process of preparing all of the legal work in conjunction with the sale of bonds is a slow one, but that all necessary steps have been taken and the papers completed so the city can engage their engineer at this time. Part of the delay was in the research of the Eagle Point charter itself, he said.

Because of the need for a jury in Eagle Point, an emergency was declared, and an ordinance passed by the council. This ordinance will be released at a later date.

A motion to raise the judge's salary from $35 to $50 a month was passed.

Don Mc Govern, sanitation

chairman, was asked to draft a set of rules pertaining to the new disposal area and submit it to the council.

Dave Hannaford gave a report on the sewage disposal plants visited, and the sidewalk project and plastic pipe that may be of benefit to the city at a later date.

Hannaford asked the city to consider the planting of six trees along main street and to start planting a few small trees in the present park that will eventually take the place of the present ones that have died in the park.

Mayor Ed Putnam instructed Hannaford to have the county agent make a recommendation for the trees and any organization interested in planting one or more of these trees should contact Hannaford for further details.

Small rooted trees were suggested for planting on the main street to prevent ruining of the streets and sidewalks.

A suit against the city filed by Mrs. Vernon Ragsdale for car damages in an accident with a fire hydrant was referred to the city attorney.

A letter was presented to the council from Don Ashpole in regard to placing an advertising sign on Main st. and the city attorney was also instructed to check the city charter and contact Ashpole.

Reverend Munshaw spoke in opposition of setting an age limit under 18 for the opening of a pool hall in Eagle Point. The attorney stated the city ordinance had at one time stated 21 and later been repealed. A motion was made and passed to set the age limit at 17 with instructions that any violations of the arrangements could mean the removing of the owner's license.

County Engineer Mark Boyden was asked to give an estimate on surveying the streets and setting up permanent monuments in the section of town where Barrows is planning a subdivision, and submit it to the street committee and mayor for further action.

Bill Huntington, Oscar Frei, and Ed Putnam all attended the meeting in Medford for formulating plans to coordinate a planning commission among the cities.

Schedule Set for Schools' Physical Education Show

By MARY KELL

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill-Gilbert A. Mack, principal of Hanby and Patrick schools of district 6C, has announced the schedule for the Hanby Elementary physical education show slated for Thursday between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. in the school's gymnasium. The event will commence with a grand march featuring some 150 students.

Mack said the marching is valuable in that it is the means by which large groups move from place to place with safety and speed. Educationally it develops leadership, fellowship, and active good posture, he said.

The program will be highlighted with a bugle call by Billy Jones for the presentation of colors by a color-guard in Scout uniforms, consisting of Greg Applin, Dave Force, Gregg Schmidt and Ronald Brown to lead the flag salute and national anthem. Then Yell Queen Toni Morrow and Yell Leaders Judy Post, Linda Walker and Pamela Freeman will present the school yell and song.

Square Dancing
An exhibition of square dancing will be given by Mrs. Ida Van Buskirk's fourth grade after the march. Rhythmic activities are helpful to children's physical growth in that they contribute to the improvement of the performance of all basic skills and fundamental movements, Mack said. Some rhythmic movements are done moving from place to place-walking, running, leaping, sliding, hopping, jumping, galloping and skipping. Others are done in place-such as swinging, swaying, bending, stretching, turning and twisting. Rhythmic activities also aid in developing poise, balance, posture, and endurance.

Following the square dancing, the fifth grade girls, also directed by Mrs. von Buskirk, will perform a marching drill. The girls have given similar drills at school assemblies, basketball games and before adult groups. The types of marching drills are single file, double file, squad, platoon and serpentine.

Examples of lead-up skills, in this case, emphasizing basketball lead-up activities, will be given by the fifth grade boys supervised by Leon Myers. Lead-up skills can be learned by youngsters in the intermediate grades, and can greatly improve their ability in certain game fundamentals before they actively participate in game competition.

Mrs. Mildred Black's sixth grade girls will give a series of tumbling and stunt activities as a means of self-testing. They will attempt to do, in proper form, the forward and backward roll, the monkey roll, the cartwheel and the head stand. Some of the girls also will do a back bend and attempt to walk on their hands.

Games Demonstration
The sixth grade boys, coached by Allen Hill, will give a demonstration of games that develop skills which are needed and used in various competitive sports developed in the upper grades. The games build the skills of running, dodging, throwing and catching. They also build traits that are needed in daily life, as well as on the playing field. Games that will be played are club snatch and elimination ball.

Eighth grade boys will give a demonstration of calisthenics, directed by Lynn Bernston. Chief purpose of these drills is for warm-up activity at the beginning of a physical instruction period.

The principal and teachers said youngsters are asked to dress in clothes to be worn in the P.E. show. However, girls may wear a skirt over shorts. Pupils are requested to arrive at the school no later than 7 p.m. on the date of the event. Students will remain in their P.E. teacher's room until notified to line up for the grand march. All patrons of the school are invited to attend.

Following the P.E. show refreshments will be sold in the cafeteria by the PTA during the social hour, according to Mrs. Jerry Herrington, ways and means chairman. Officials of the organization indicated that probably all proceeds derived from the fund raiser will be contributed to the proposed summer recreational program, if it is organized here, for children of this community.

GIRLS NOMINATED—One of these three Southern Oregon college coeds may be elected Girl of the Term by SOC's Associated Women Students. Nominated were Joan Taylor (left), a junior in elementary education from Portland who works as secretary in the physical education department; Marilyn Alter (center), a junior in secondary education from Klamath Falls who is editor of the campus newspaper, and Pat Hilton, a sophomore in secretarial science from Medford and a yell-leader. Also nominated was Sandra Gilman, junior from Medford.

Gold Hill Mayor To Ask Approval For Appointments

By MARY KELL

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill - Mayor Milton Steinmetz said that he will ask the city council tonight to approve the appointment of two local men to represent the city of Gold Hill on the new county planning commission which was proposed at a meeting held in Medford last Wednesday evening.

All incorporated cities within Jackson county have been invited by Judge Earl Miller and the county commissioners to participate in the program, he said. Lloyd Anderson of the Oregon Research Bureau explained the plan to mayors, members of city councils and planning commissions and heard various problems at the meeting Wednesday.

Steinmetz said the first meeting of the new community planning commission has been set for Wednesday, March 23 at 8 p.m. in the county court commissioners' room. He said this will be a progressive step for better coordination between the different cities of the county. Each will have an opportunity to present its individual problems for consideration by the commission at regular intervals.

Attending the meeting with Steinmetz were Fred Lester, chairman of the city council, and H. D. Force, chairman of the local planning commission.

Tiller-Drew - Ralph Stauch suffered a painful bruise last Monday when a rock rolled from 50 feet above him and struck him on the arm. He was working for Fir Ply of Medford on a road building job at Callahan creek.

Shady Cove Students Plan Band Concert Wednesday

By EVALYN P. WATSON

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Shady Cove - Students of the Shady Cove school will present a band concert Wednesday evening starting at 7 o'clock in the Shady Cove gymnasium after which there will be volleyball and basketball games between mothers and daughters and fathers and sons.

Places of the yell leaders will be filled by mothers of the yell leaders for the games. The program is a fund raising project and a small charge will be made. Proceeds from the event will go into the athletic fund. Tickets may be obtained from students.

Other school news includes the changing of the monthly PTA meeting to Monday evening, March 21, instead of March 14 as originally scheduled, because of the spring vacation period from March 14-18. There will be no school on these days.

The program for the meeting will include songs by the chorus and a concert by the beginning band. Nominations for new officers will be made. Any new persons who desire to join the Mothersingers group, which meets in the band room every Tuesday evening at 7:30 are invited to do so.

The boys' varsity of the Shady Cove school played the varsity of Sams Valley school last Thursday afternoon in a basketball game. Final score was 40-14 in favor of Shady Cove.

Hornbrook Grange Member Gets Award

Hornbrook - Mrs. Matt Johnson was initiated during the regular meeting of the Hornbrook Grange last Friday, and an award of merit certificate was presented to Mrs. John Griffin, the group's secretary.

The award, presented by Master Frank Ward on behalf of the California State Grange, is given for promptness and excellence in making reports.

Recreation Plans For Youngsters Under Discussion

Gold Hill - Preliminary plans for a summer recreational program for boys and girls in the Gold Hill area is being discussed by several community organizations. It is hoped by those interested that the proposed project can be organized into a community enterprise for the benefit of local youngsters during at least a part of the summer vacation months.

Mrs. Ogden Kellogg, president of the Gold Hill PTA, says the organization is vitally interested in helping to promote such a program.

Fred Lester, president of the Lions club here, reports that his group also is showing considerable interest in the community enterprise.

Mrs. Clarence Parsley, ways and means chairman of Amethyst Rebekah lodge, announced that the group at its session last Wednesday voted to contribute all proceeds from their next luncheon and card party which is scheduled for Wednesday, March 23, towards the recreational program if it is organized here.

Individual members of the Gold Hill Grange expressed the view that their group would also want to help organize and probably would be willing to contribute financially to a youth program.

Gilbert A. Mack, principal of the Gold Hill school, said he felt the student body could contribute $100 to help finance the program. Mack also stated that Lee Myers, Hanby teacher and coach, had agreed to be available as a supervisor for three hours a day for a six-week period.

Several city residents expressed the opinion that the city of Gold Hill would no doubt be interested in helping further the program.

Shady Cove - Dr. and Mrs. Howard Ferguson of Shady Cove are in San Francisco where the doctor will take a week's course in general medicine and electrocardiography at the University of California Medical center.

Following the P.E. show refreshments will be sold in the cafeteria by the PTA during the social hour, according to Mrs. Jerry Herrington, ways and means chairman.
