

Editorial Writers Pay Tribute To Neuberger

By United Press International
Oregon newspapers today paid editorial tribute to Sen. Richard L. Neuberger who died Wednesday.

The Portland Oregonian, for whom Neuberger once worked as a youthful sports writer, referred to an editorial written by the late Philip H. Parrish, after Neuberger's 1954 election.

It began "someone—perhaps it was Woodrow Wilson—once observed that when a man goes to Washington, D.C., he either grows or swells."

The newspaper's editorial today said "it must now be recorded for posterity that Sen. Neuberger, in Washington, D.C., and in the hearts of his many personal friends, his loyal political supporters and his opponents in past political battles, did not swell. He grew. His stature as a senator and as a man became greater in each year of his service. He was well on his way to becoming a statesman."

Former Gov. Charles Sprague said in the Oregon Statesman that Neuberger "was a genuine liberal on matters of human welfare. He was moved by suffering and distress, and thought this great and rich nation should not hesitate to move to their relief." He said, "... for Richard Neuberger the epitaph should be: Distinguished journalist, conscientious legislator, ardent conservationist, able statesman."

The Bend Bulletin said "Neuberger and his wife, Maurine—a charming lady who stood staunchly at her husband's side—made one of the nation's most prominent political teams. It is broken up now and Oregon and the nation are the losers."

The Eugene Register-Guard said "Dick Neuberger earned his way to greatness. Oregon's junior senator whose life ended abruptly... at the peak of his public career was not born to it, did not have it thrust upon him. He earned it every step of the way by hard work, devotion to duty, loyalty to friends and an abiding belief in certain principles. This was recognized even by those who considered themselves his political enemies."

The Medford Mail Tribune said "... and now just as his growing maturity was bringing him to what could have been his most useful and most influential years he is felled by a stroke brought in no small measure by the steady constant grind of work which sapped his strength and vigor. Richard Lewis Neuberger will go down in the state's history as one of the great public servants of this generation."

The Coos Bay World called Neuberger a "man of driving energy and possessor of a bottomless well of ideas."

"There was simply too much to be done in this world for Oregon's foremost author of ideas and exponent of discussions to be still..."

"In the case of Dick Neuberger, the sum of life is great. He leaves behind a river of ideas and a reservoir of principles. These will inspire others. When the unimportant factors are forgotten, his vigorous advocacy of democracy, education, charity and tolerance will remain."

Oregon Journal - "Dick Neuberger will be remembered for his flashing mind, his restless energy, his wide-spread interest, his remarkable talent for research, analysis and communication. But influencing everything he did was his love and sympathy for and his understanding of his fellows, their hopes and problems. He could be militantly independent and tough minded in a fight for a principle. But he didn't want to hurt anyone personally, not even his severest critic... We consider that Neuberger has been an outstanding American and citizen of Oregon."

Austrian Freed in Death of U.S. Pilot

Graz, Austria—Two Austrians charged with shooting a captured American pilot during World War II were freed Wednesday by a local jury.

Franz Neidenik, 46, who had hidden for ten years to escape prosecution, was acquitted. He had admitted seizing the pilot but not shooting him. August Fuchs, 58-year-old ex-Nazi storm trooper, was found guilty but freed because he served an eight-year war crimes sentence imposed by the Russian occupation forces.

Petitions Filed For Shirley Field

Salem—Petitions were filed Wednesday entering the name of State Rep. Shirley Field (R-Portland) in the May primary as a candidate for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer. Miss Field announced earlier she would be a candidate. She will oppose the incumbent, Howard C. Belton, for the GOP nomination.

KENNEDY VIEWS VOTE—Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) said his record New Hampshire primary vote was encouraging, but would not cause a landslide for him in the Wisconsin primary on April 5. Kennedy was accompanied to Madison, Wis., by his wife, Jacqueline, left. Mayor Ivan Nestingen, center, is chairman of Kennedy's state committee. —(UPI Telephoto)

Stock List Extends Sharp Recovery Of Wednesday

New York—(UPI)—Stocks extended Wednesday's sharp recovery in a moderately active opening today. The news background continues favorable as Wall Street anticipates a report by government economists putting capital spending this year at peak levels. Bankers and private economists, meanwhile, argue that business will be robust this year despite an early rash of disappointing statistics. The market rallied sharply Wednesday following a seven-session price slide. The recovery was fueled by the bullish statements of two major steel companies regarding shipments and output this year, and the strengthened technical condition of the market.

Filmland Strike Negotiations Due

Hollywood—(UPI)—First negotiations since the actors' strike started Monday will be held Friday between the Screen Actors Guild and the seven major picture studios.

The talks "will be formal negotiation sessions to see what can be done about ending the strike," said a spokesman for the Association of Motion Picture Producers which represents the studios. Central issue in the dispute was the Guild's demand for a share of future profits from sale of post-1948 motion pictures sold to television.

The strike is the first of its kind in the history of the movie industry and has idled an estimated 12,000 workers in addition to actors. No picketing was involved.

Boy Found Dead At Sweet Home

Sweet Home—(UPI)—A missing 15-year-old Sweet Home boy was found dead of a gunshot wound by his younger brother and a neighbor Wednesday afternoon. The victim was David Roger Smith who had been missing since Monday. The younger brother, Lawrence, and neighbor Clinton Bennett found the body about 2:30 p.m., about 300 feet behind his house. Sheriff George Miller of Linn county and District Attorney Courtney Johns said the death was either an accident or suicide. A 22 caliber rifle was found with the boy. He had been shot in the head.

Another Round of Penny Postal Hikes Requested by Summerfield

Washington—(UPI)—The nation's chief postman was to carry the mail to Congress today on behalf of the administration's request for another round of penny postal rate increases.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield was scheduled to testify at a closed session of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

The committee agreed Wednesday to hold public hearings on the mail rate hikes. But it decided to hold hearings first on a proposed 6 per cent pay raise for one million classified federal employees and a half-million Post Office workers.

The agreement to hold the two sets of hearings came after suggestions to tie the postal rate increases to the federal salary raise.

The administration wants Congress to boost mail rates a penny to five cents for first class mail, eight cents for air mail and four cents for postal cards, which once sold for a penny. Increases also are proposed for second and third class mail rates. The administration plan would bring in an additional $554 million in revenue.

Other major developments: Discrimination: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) introduced a bill to ban job discrimination in the nation's capital. It would prohibit employers, labor unions and the district government from picking employees on the basis of race, religion, color or national origin.

Manuals: Air Force Secretary Donald C. Sharp was called to answer more congressional questions about a training manual linking some U. S. churches with Communism. This time he was to appear before the House armed services subcommittee which wants to know how the subject ever got into the manual.

Probe Between Earth and Venus Being Delayed

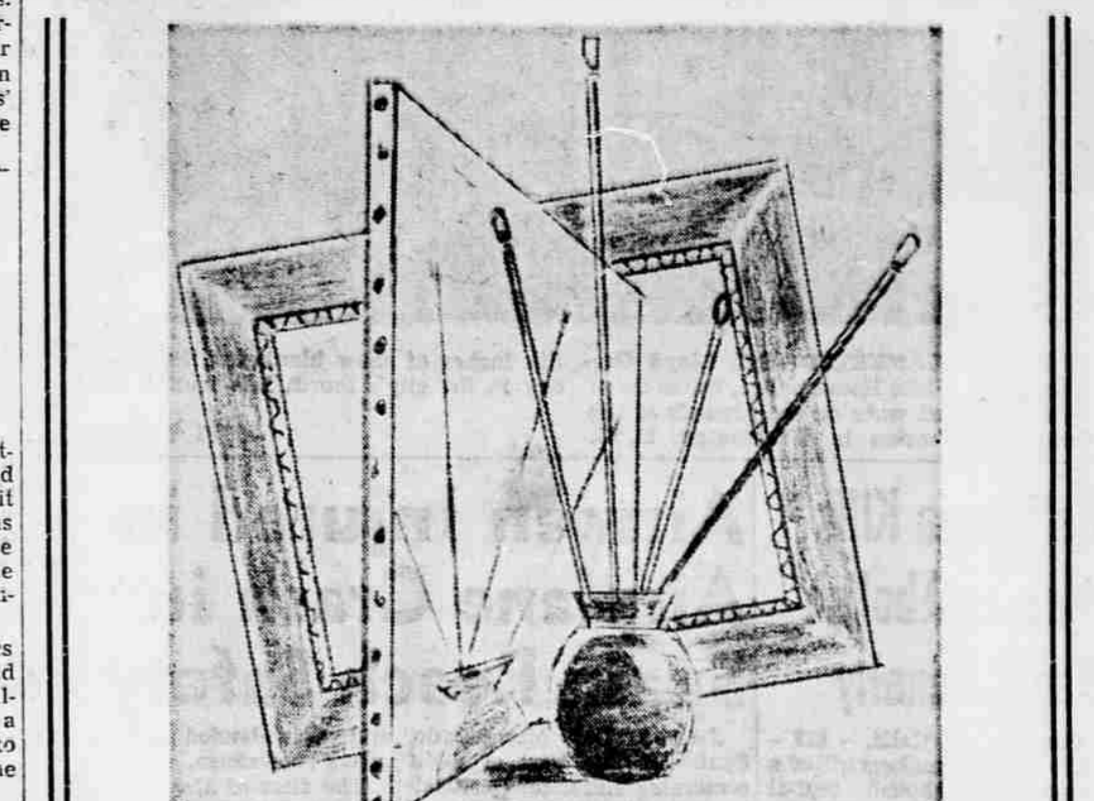

Washington—(UPI)—An attempt to launch a 90 pound space probe into a sun orbit between the earth and Venus has been postponed, because of fueling difficulties, the Federal Space Agency announced today.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned to put a seachess-sized aluminum sphere into a 506,900,000 mile solar orbit to explore space between the earth and Venus.

In announcing the postponement, NASA said "a new firing date for this probe has not been scheduled."

Prof. A. C. B. Lovell, director of Britain's huge Jodrell Bank radio-telescope, said the attempt "was postponed until tomorrow." Lovell and British and American teams were standing by the telescope ready to track the U. S. space probe when advised of the cancellation.

Fueling Trouble
The intention had been to launch the 28-inch space vehicle at Cape Canaveral, Fla., sometime between 8 and 8:30 a.m. (e.s.t.) today. Difficulties encountered in fueling the three stage Thor-Able rocket, however, forced postponement of the shot, NASA said. The scientific package, with solar cell "paddle wheels" jutting from it, carried equipment to test feasibility of radio communications over planetary distances up to 50,000 miles.
