Evidence of Flying Saucers Declared Found

Alamogordo, N. M. — (UPI) — A research group says it has uncovered evidence that indicates unidentified aerial objects from "somewhere other than earth" are operating within the earth's atmosphere.

The Aerial Phenomena Research Organization notified air force officials in Washington that the group has in its possession actual physical evidence that flying saucers are extra-terrestrial in origin.

Physical Evidence
"The most advanced laboratory tests, including spectroanalysis, indicate the material could not have been produced by any known method on earth," Coral Lorenzen, director of APRO said.

In his letter to Maj. Lawrence J. Thacker, PIO spokesman for the Air Force, Lorenzen said the physical evidence is a portion of "an extra-terrestrial vehicle that crashed in the earth's atmosphere."

APRO offered to submit the material to the Air Force for scientific study. APRO is made up of scientists, astronomers and space and missile experts, and is headquartered in Alamogordo.

Lorenzen said in his letter to Thacker:
"A release which you issued early this year states that no physical or material evidence, not even a minute fragment of so-called flying saucers, has ever been found. This statement, as it stands, is not true."

Catastrophe Witnessed
"APRO has in its possession the physical evidence which the United States Air Force denies having been able to acquire. It is in fact, a portion of an extra-terrestrial vehicle which met with disaster in the earth's atmosphere. The catastrophe was witnessed by numerous human beings. The gratifying aspect of this case, however, is that we do not have to depend on the testimony of witnesses to establish the reality of the incident for the most advanced laboratory tests indicate that the residual material could not have been produced through the application of any known terrestrial techniques."

Lorenzen said he would take into account suggestions he receives when drafting his own bill to authorize the seashore development. He said they would also be conveyed to the Interior Department.

Wall Street Chatter

New York — (UPI) — A major drop in stock prices this year could undercut business and investor confidence and trigger a general business downturn, according to Prof. Robert C. Turner of Indiana University.

Writing in the university's business review, the professor notes that stock prices have been much too high for the past year and obviously are based on speculation's assumption there is going to be inflation.

But Professor Turner does not believe there will be more general inflation or that corporate profits will rise nearly enough in the sixties to justify the way the stock market has gone up in the last year.

Therefore, he points out, a moderate decline in stock prices now might be healthy, but a big decline now would be serious. He believes the possibility cannot be overlooked so long as prices remain way up.

"The very sober boom of 1958-60 has now reached its danger point. Sales of hard goods, especially of autos and machinery, in the next 60 days will decide whether that boom, over-all, is already topping out — or whether we're due for further modest gains before a peak later this year," reports Prentice-Hall in its Weekly Review of Business.

Porter's Poll Shows Seashore Idea Favored; 661 in Jackson

By A. ROBERT SMITH
Mail Tribune
Washington Correspondent

Washington — (Special) — The first widely extended opinion poll in Oregon on the idea of creating a national seashore park on the Oregon coast shows those who favor the idea outnumber those who oppose it.

The poll was taken by Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.), whose 4th congressional district includes the stretch of coast between Florence and Reedsport under consideration for the park.

Of 7088 returns thus far tabulated, those who said they favored the park numbered 3808 and those who said they opposed it numbered 2882.

Porter found by tabulating these returns by counties that those who favored the park were in the majority in all seven counties from which returns came, but in some instances by the narrowest of margins.

Greatest number of opinions came from Lane county, where 1454 said "yes" to the park and 1375 said "no."

From Jackson county 661 said they favored it, 370 opposed. From Coos county 624 said they were for it, 341 opposed. From Douglas county, 448 were for it and 278 against. From Linn county, 217 yes, 183 no; Josephine county, 222 yes, 197 no; and Curry county, 115 yes, 114 no.

Another Questionnaire
Only about a third of the returns from Porter's poll have been tabulated thus far, his office reported. He sent questionnaires to over 100,000 western Oregon residents. The seashore question was the first of 12 on the list.

Meanwhile, Porter this week sent another questionnaire to the 398 property owners in the area of the proposed park to seek their views on the issue. He indicated he is skeptical that the Western Lane Taxpayers association, which has been vocalizing the opposition to the national seashore, speaks for many residents of the Oregon coast.

"It is likely that Congress will act on this legislation during this session," Porter wrote the property owners. "I'd appreciate having your opinions, particularly with respect to these questions:

1. Do you favor the proposed recreation area?
2. Are you opposed to it under any conditions?
3. What conditions do you regard as essential in the proposed legislation?"

Porter said he would take into account suggestions he receives when drafting his own bill to authorize the seashore development. He said they would also be conveyed to the Interior Department.

The National Park service, meanwhile, has finished a report commenting on features

Americans Seized By Cuban Police

Havana — (UPI) — Two Americans, one of them a candidate for Congress, were seized by Cuban police and held for 10 hours of questioning before their release Saturday.

Joseph Taylor, 28, a candidate for Congress in Stillwell, Okla., and Roger Sharp, a television news director, were arrested Friday while Sharp was taking pictures inside the agrarian reform program building in Havana.

Taylor said he and Sharp were refused permission to call the U. S. embassy.

"The United States doesn't obey international law and we don't either," Taylor said he was told when he protested that he had legal right to call the embassy for help.

Mrs. Lanza Rites To Be Wednesday
Hollywood — (UPI) — A requiem mass will be sung Wednesday for Mrs. Betty Lanza, widow of the famed tenor, Mario Lanza.

Mrs. Lanza was found dead in her Beverly Hills home Friday and an autopsy showed death to be from natural causes.

She married the singer in 1945 before his climb to fame.

of Gov. Mark Hatfield's suggested bill. But Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton is understood to be sitting on the report momentarily, instead of clearing it for transmittal to Congress. Seaton is at the moment holding out for the Eisenhower administration bill which authorizes three undeveloped national seashores.

Wants Park Report
Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) asked for a report on Hatfield's bill in January when he introduced it in the Senate. Porter said he has no plan to introduce the governor's bill until the Park Service report is sent to Congress.

Although this session of Congress is nearing the halfway mark, Porter said he thinks there is "a chance" that the seashore bill for Oregon Dunes will be enacted this year. This forecast, he said, is based on the expectation that a package bill will be put together in the Senate to contain specific authority for creation of national seashore at Oregon Dunes, Cape Cod, and Padre Island, Tex. He said he thinks there is strong support for such a measure from several powerful senators, including the Democratic leader, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), and the Massachusetts senators, John F. Kennedy and Leverett Saltonstall.

Family Council

Dolores L. — Can I believe my husband?

Bob L. — She should have defected me.

Dolores L. — After what I thought was a happy marriage of ten years, I have discovered that my husband is the worst kind of philanderer and I don't know what to do about the future.

A few weeks ago, the parents of our teenage babysitter came to us and told us that their daughter had revealed intimacies with my husband. They didn't want to take legal action because they feared exposing their daughter, but they said they would do everything possible to "make it hot" for us in the community.

My husband denied everything and said the girl had "misinterpreted" a goodnight kiss he gave her once when he drove her home. I don't know what to think. I am half crazy with worry and ashamed to hold my head up any more.

Bob L. — It was my wife's business to come to my defense as soon as these people made these crazy accusations. Instead she turned on me and started to scream and cry and this girl's parents immediately took it as a confession of guilt.

The girl involved is a real tramp at age 15. She has been making eyes at me and talking in a wisened-up way since the first time she came to our house. I talked to her about her boy friends and the things she admitted made my hair stand on end.

After a few sessions of this kind of thing I gave her a good lecture and she promised to be good. We sealed the promise with a goodnight kiss and that was that. The rest was pure imagination on the kid's part. I should think my own wife would believe me.

The Council — It is entirely possible that the girl's story is imaginary, but that does not absolve Bob from misconduct.

We have no doubt that the girl is a flirt and a menace. If she were not, she couldn't have gotten so involved. When she suspected a married, older man making advances she would have removed herself from the household at once. But this still doesn't absolve Bob from misconduct.

From Bob's own story we consider his misconduct very serious. We are certain that he has the intelligence to understand that he had no business engaging a "wisened-up" teenager in sexy talk about her boy friends. We also think he knows enough to realize that kissing the babysitter goodnight or accepting promises about her conduct is not among his responsibilities.

This sort of behavior can only be interpreted as misconduct—perhaps not of so serious a nature as the girl contends, but serious enough to arouse the fear and anger of any set of parents or any wife.

Bob should face himself more honestly and recognize that he has a problem with himself. Instead of turning back an accusing finger at his wife, he should ask for forgiveness and help. His lack of judgment and control can lead him into increasingly
