

IN COUNTY SCHOOL—Cheryl Crane, 16, above, daughter of actress Lana Turner, has been placed in the El Retiro County School for Girls. Cheryl has been a ward of the court since 1958 when a coroner's jury ruled her stabbing to death of Johnny Stompanato was "justifiable homicide." Judge Allen T. Lynch told UPI the surprise step was taken on the basis of recommendations from the juvenile probation department. Cheryl had previously been in custody of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Turner.—(UPI Telephoto)

Standard Cancer Test of Food Additives Urged

Washington—(Science Service)—A group of experts has suggested standard tests for food additives that may cause cancer in man. The Food Protection committee of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council began studying the problem of food additives and cancer in 1956, long before cancerberries and chemically fattened chickens came to public attention. A review of completed tests and a realization of the problems involved prompted the committee to suggest three long-term tests for evaluating the cancer-producing powers of food additives:

Surface Application
1. Continuous feeding of various levels of the test substance to rats and mice for their normal life spans and to dogs for at least four years.
2. Repeated surface application of various amounts of the test substance to the skin of mice for the normal life span.
3. One large, under-the-skin injection of the test substance in mice and extended observation of the animals.

The committee's report, "Problems in the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Hazard from Use of Food Additives," which has just been released here, showed that up to 1953, some 316 compounds had been reported as tumorigens (agents which cause benign or malignant tumors). Of this number, 40 fell into the "not proved" category.

Controls Inadequate
"Not proved" compounds were so designated because, in many cases, they had been tested only once, the controls were inadequate or the tumor had not been examined to see whether it was cancerous or not.

More than 450 compounds did show acceptable evidence of tumorigenic activity. Almost half of these belong to one chemical structure group, the polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons.

Various species of laboratory animals react differently to these and other tumorigens. As a result, through no fault of their own, researchers sometimes tested compounds on guinea pigs when a more sensitive and accurate test could have been made on mice.

The committee's suggestions are designed to help eliminate such mistakes in the future. Included in the report is a discussion of the relative sensitivities of lab animals.

Fireman Veteran In Maternity Cases
Atlanta, Ga. — Michael Pajewski, a fireman, can offer advice to young, nervous physicians. Pajewski has handled 31 maternity cases — people who were outdistanced by the stork on their way to the hospital. He hasn't lost a patient. "After a while it becomes routine," he says.

ZINC CENTER
St. Louis—There are about 66 million tons of zinc ore in the Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma fields, according to estimates of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

A survey by the Health Insurance Institute found that 70 per cent of all patients admitted to hospitals in the United States stay seven days or less, 88 per cent 14 days or less and 96 per cent 30 days or less.
