

Film Furnishes Lead in Killing of Chicago Women

Starved Rock Park, Ill. (UPI) — Authorities said today a roll of color film had furnished them "a real lead" in the sex killing of three prominent Chicago women.

Harlan Warren, La Salle county state's attorney, refused to let newsmen view the photographs but said they gave him a completely new line of investigation.

Standing By Cave
A sheriff's deputy disclosed that the pictures showed two of the women standing in front of the cave where their raped and bludgeoned bodies were found Wednesday.

Police theorized the women must have been surprised in front of the cave by their killer or killers shortly after they took the photographs.

Officers mounted an intensive search for the assailants. Illinois State Police Chief William Morris said police were criss-crossing the state in a hunt for suspects.

Morris said officers planned to question three "possibly good" suspects today. Several other persons were picked up, questioned and released Thursday.

Rewards Offered
The state park put up a $5,000 tax-free reward today for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer or killers.

It brought to $35,000 the total reward money offered in the case. The companies of each of the women's husbands earlier had put up $10,000.

Residents near Starved Rock State Park slapped on self-imposed curfews in fear of a psychopathic killer or killers who beat to death, then defiled the three women.

Apparently Cornered
The killer or killers apparently cornered the women in a remote, snow-packed canyon with only one, cliff-straddling path out.

Killed were:
—Mrs. Frances Murphy, 47,

wife of R. W. Murphy, vice president and general counsel of Borg-Warner Corp. in Chicago.
—Mrs. Mildred Lindquist, wife of Robert Lindquist, vice-president of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago.

—Mrs. Lillian Oetting, 50, wife of George Oetting, general supervisor of internal audit in the accounting department of Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Littlest Satellite Now Two Years Old; Has Many 'Firsts'

Washington—UPI—The littlest satellite was two years old Thursday.

Since its birth at Cape Canaveral, Fla., on St. Patrick's Day, 1958, it has whirled 7,845 times around the earth and logged 281,495,000 miles of space travel.

It was born talking, is still talking, and seems bound to keep on talking for 200 to 1,000 years. Perhaps 2,000. What it says is "beep-beep, beep-beep, Bleep-beep..."

The littlest satellite is Vanguard I, a 3 1/4-pound sphere the size of a grapefruit. There has never been anything like it. It is the toughest and in many respects the greatest.

There have been artificial moons of the earth such as Russia's Sputnik III and America's Project Score which weighed thousands of pounds and were the size of a Pullman car.

But none of them can match the littlest satellite in longevity and the number of scientific discoveries and space firsts.

To reel off a few, Vanguard I:
—Was the first satellite to convert sunlight to electricity to power its transmitter. Its six solar batteries are expected to live as long as it does.

More Accurate Mapping
—Discovered that the earth is pear-shaped. This has made possible more accurate mapping.

—Found out that the earth bulges much less at the equator than was supposed.

—Discovered that the high atmosphere changes in density according to periodic variations in the output of solar radiation. This may illuminate the sun's influence on the earth's weather.

—Measured the gravitational affects of the sun and moon on the orbits of earth satellites.

—Provided information on electrical currents in the earth's magnetic field.

'Threat' Denied In Questionnaire

Portland—UPI—George Brown, head of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, said Wednesday there was no "threat or coercion" implied in a questionnaire sent out to political candidates by the AFL-CIO.

Brown replied to charges by L. L. Stewart, president of Associated Oregon Industries, who said it was an effort by labor to intimidate and coerce candidates for the legislature.

Brown said the statement of labor's position was included because candidates had asked for it.

GOP Dixie Bloc Moves To Turn Wrath on Kennedy

Washington—UPI—The Republican "Operation Dixie" moved today to capitalize on Southern disenchantment with the Democratic Party and turn Southern wrath against Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.)

A memorandum from I. Lee Potter, GOP Southern director, linked Kennedy with Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler and the Democratic Advisory Council in what Potter called a "down-with-the-South power grab."

Potter's memorandum—to all Southern state chairmen—said that the "power grab" would result "in wholesale, area-wide defections on the part of outraged Southern Democrats whose political rights have been trampled."

"This assures the Republican party of the brightest possible prospects of again carrying a number of Southern states," he said.

Potter asked the Southern GOP chairmen, meeting at New Orleans today and Saturday, for ideas "to capitalize fully on the rebellion against radicalism which Butler's plans are creating in the South."

Based on Belief
The charge that Butler was pro-Kennedy was based on the belief, also accepted by a number of Democrats, that Butler was the anonymous Democrat quoted this week as saying that Kennedy was the likely winner of the Democratic presidential nomination.

"If Butler has his way—and there appears little to stop him—then Kennedy will be the Democrat candidate, running on the Democrat advisory council's platform which calls for spending billions of deficit dollars and creating an all-powerful central government to crush state rights," Potter said.

Not Federal Control
Knight said he did not believe federal money would mean federal control.

Martin Essex, superintendent of Akron, Ohio, schools and president of the American Association of School Administrators, predicted that a school would need twice as much money by 1970 as they do today. He said taxes on land no longer can yield enough money.

Russia Mentioned
Essex said, "in the Soviet Union, the teacher has behind him the prestige and enthusiastic support of his countrymen, from top government officials to factory and farm workers."

Competition from Russia, he added, is only getting well under way.

Some 5,000 teachers are in town for the OEA's annual convention.

One of the topics which came up at a discussion was on methods to get students to learn when they would rather "goof off."

Most Doing Well
Maurice Bullard, director of guidance for the Corvallis school system, said most students at Corvallis high were performing well but added, "there always are some who kick holes in the plaster..."

He suggested other courses under "easy-going teachers to take the heat off them until the bitterness is gone."

TO INSPECT MILITARY
Washington—UPI—Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. will fly to Europe Sunday for a 10-day inspection of U.S. military units and a visit to Vienna prior to attending a Western defense ministers' meeting at Paris March 30.

MACY OFFICIAL DIES
New Rochelle, N.Y.—UPI—Abe Hackman, 49, vice president of R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., died of a heart attack Thursday.

More Federal Support for Schools Needed

Portland—UPI—A former governor and an Ohio educator called Thursday for more government support of schools.

Ex-Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California told the annual banquet of the Oregon Education association that state resources are strained to the breaking point but that more money was needed for education.

"The states, certainly California, have reached the point of diminishing returns in taxation," he said. "Every source has been tapped. But the people want and will continue to demand the best in teachers, buildings and curriculum."

The group of nearly 40 students accompanied by Lester Harris, high school principal, completed the trip here by chartered bus.

Washington—UPI—Great Britain was the big purchaser of U.S. gold last year. She spent $350 million on U.S. gold bullion while France was second, buying $265,700,000 worth of gold and Japan was third, buying $157,400,000 worth.

Damage Figured At $2,500,000 In San Pedro Fire

San Pedro, Calif.—UPI—A waterfront fire fed for seven hours Thursday night on creosote-covered piling, causing an estimated $2,500,000 damage to docks and waterfront facilities before several hundred firemen brought it under control.

The spectacular blaze destroyed the partially completed $2 million Matson Steamship Co. terminal dock and nearly 2,000 feet of the complex docks used by Matson. A barge also was destroyed and a warehouse damaged.

Smoke Visible in L.A.
Black, billowing clouds of smoke caused mostly by the blazing creosote, an oily wood preservative, were visible in downtown Los Angeles, 25 miles away. Flames lapped under the latticework of pilings beneath the docks, causing firemen to use pneumatic drills and axes to gouge through the asphalt topping to get at the spreading flames before they reached the new multi-million-dollar Matson passenger terminal.

Also threatened for awhile and causing firemen considerable concern was a 125-foot, 350-ton crane which was in danger of toppling if flames ate away its supporting piling.

No boats were destroyed nor firemen injured, but the Hawaiian Farmer, a Matson freighter, and some 100 yachts in the harbor had to be moved across the anchorage, away from the flames.

One barge loaded with creosote-soaked lumber went up in flames shortly after the blaze broke out.

It was believed the fire was caused by the spark from the torch of a welder working on the dock extension.
