The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic

Cholesterol May Not Be Cause of Atherosclerosis

Anyone who has read science for 60 years, as I have done, knows how often men will get enthusiastic about some discovery, only to find later that they had jumped at conclusions and had not paid enough attention to those few facts which did not fit into their theory. For some time we have been hearing that fatty substances in the blood, and especially cholesterol, cause hardening and ulceration of the arteries. Now, more and more reports are coming in to show that, although cholesterol probably has something to do with the disease, it isn't the cause. I recently read that Drs. J. C. Paterson, E. C. Armstrong, and Lucy Dyer (reporting in the Canadian M. Jour. for Jan. 2) have made extensive studies of the amount of arterial disease found during autopsies on 191 people, and have found that the extent of his disease did not correlate well with the amount of cholesterol the persons had had in their blood during life. A man with a record of low cholesterol sometimes had marked arterial disease while a man with a record of high cholesterol might have but little arterial disease. But we must not get discouraged; doubtless, better and more pertinent facts will soon be found.

Dr. Alvarez

I read that in April 1957, in the Manchester Memorial hospital in Manchester, Conn., Drs. H. J. Lockwood, Lane Giddings, and E. J. Thoms started a plan that has worked well, and is saving the patients much money. This is important, because with labor costs soaring, hospital costs to patients have skyrocketed in recent years. The new idea is to place each patient in one of four groups. The seriously ill have special care with much nursing; then there are persons moderately ill, some of whom may be able to look out for themselves, and even go to a dining-room for their meals. Some have only a chronic disease, and hence need little more than board and lodging. Naturally, a patient who comes in acutely ill, or who has an operation, will need much care for a few days, and then he can be shifted to one of the other classifications. As a result of this, the average daily cost per patient has been lowered by 20 per cent.

Polaris Rocket Test Successful

Cape Canaveral, Fla.— (UPI) — Navy Polaris test rocket leaped 75 feet from a "pop-up' tube early Friday to begin a flight over the Atlantic ocean.

The Navy said in Washington preliminary indications were that the flight was "completely successful and all test objectives were met."

The tube, a "ship motion simulator," is similar to a device from which combat-ready Polaris missiles will be launched aboard submerged nuclear submarines later this year.

The bottle-shaped rocket, a 28-foot tall advanced prototype of the operational model, was shot from the tube on a column of compressed air. It hovered for a split-second above the cape before solid fuel engines ignited and sent it speeding into dark, low-hanging clouds.

The missile, second to carry new lightweight flight control equipment, was aimed at a target north of Puerto Rico.

Salem—(UPI)—Circuit Judge Alfred T. Goodwin, Eugene, was sworn in Friday as an associate justice of the State Supreme Court to succeed Hall S. Lusk, who resigned to accept appointment to the U. S. Senate.
