

Fire Department Called Out 62 Times in Month

The Medford fire department responded to 62 alarms during February, and the rural fire district to six, according to Fire Chief Gordon Barker's monthly report.

Of the 62 alarms in the city, the greatest number, 26 were for dwelling fires, of which 15 were due to chimney fires, five were stoves or furnace fires and four were electric wiring or appliance fires.

The city department also responded to 10 grass and trash fires, three vehicle fires, one bomb scare and one false alarm.

City fire fighting equipment spent a total of 35 hours and 45 minutes in the field on alarms during February. A total of 78 hours of drill were conducted at stations last month and all paid and volunteer firemen completed the annual refresher course in first aid, the report stated.

Rural District Calls
The rural district responded to three house alarms, all flue fires, one grass fire and two false alarms. Rural equipment spent 2 hours and 41 minutes on alarms.

Barker's report said the mutual aid plan was again used to advantage when fire broke out in a meat storage and locker plant in Jacksonville. One pumper and a four-man company was dispatched to the fire from Medford, he said.

The fire marshal made 62 inspections during February, 20 of them in business occupancies, and issued 92 orders or recommendations for the removal of fire hazards. A total of 97 fire hazards were removed and 322 fire permits issued, the report said.
